G.O.P. Fails To Get Hold In Congress

Republican Upsurge Catches Independent Senator Norris First Time in 30 Years

Key Posts Seized

G. O. P. Gets 15 State Governorships, Democrats Nine

(By The Associated Press)

A Republican party already rejuvenated by spectacular election gains in United States Senate seats and state governorships steadily swelled its minority power in the House of the new congress today, and at mid-day a Republican sweep to majority control remained a mathematical possibility.

Mounting returns showed that shortly before noon this war year's general elections had given Republicans 174 House seats—a net gain up to that time of 25 seats wrested from the Democrats.

The latter by that time had clinched 190 places and 71 contests still were in doubt, three having fallen to minor parties. In the present congress Republicans hold 166 seats, Democrats 264 and minor parties 5.

The Republican total was 44 seats short of the 218 necessary for a minority but in the absence of indications as to how all of the undecided contests were going attainment of those places was definitely not out of the question. Democratic leaders, nevertheless, remained confident they would emerge from the final counts with a workable majority control of the House.

Governor M. M. Neely of West Virginia became the latest in a growing list of Democratic Senate contenders to concede victory to his Republican opponent for a Senate seat now in Democratic possession. He was defeated by Chapman Revercomb, Charleston lawyer.

Revercomb thus joined the ranks of those Republican, including Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who had won for themselves and their party one of the most spectacular series of political victories in years.

Dewey, one-time crusading district attorney from New York city, clinched the governorship of his state early in the counting, and clinched with it his rank as a formidable contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944. For the governorship now held by retiring Herbert H. Lehman, Dewey defeated John J. Bennett, Jr., who had President Roosevelt's endorsement to break a 20-year Democratic hold on the government at Albany.

Norris Is Eliminated

The national scope of the Republican successes caught up, in Nebraska, the veteran independent Senator George W. Norris, and carried him to defeat for the first time in his 30 years in the Senate. His successful opponent was Kenneth L. Wherry.

In all, at the latest counting, Republicans had won 15 Senate seats, including seven now held by Democrats and one by the independent Norris. Democrats had elected 13 senators. Twenty-four Democratic seats, nine Republican seats and one independent seat were at stake in yesterday's voting—a total of 34. Six contests remained in doubt.

Out of 33 governorships (18 Democratic and 15 Republican) in issue Republicans had won 15, Democrats nine and Progressives one. The Progressive victory was

Elsworth Gives Victory Statement

Republican Leader Views Party Coup as One of Responsibility

When election returns last night indicated that Thomas E. Dewey and the Republican ticket as a whole had scored an outstanding victory in the state and that Ulster county was in line with old-fashioned Republican majorities, Ulster County Republican Leader Roscoe V. Elsworth made the following statement:

"The results of the election are naturally very gratifying to me. The people of the state of New York have spoken in unmistakable terms that they desire a change. I feel that this great victory of the Republican Party is one over which we should not unduly exult, but rather that we should accept it with serious thought as to the grave responsibilities with which the people of the state have entrusted us. Ulster county on Tuesday rolled up the largest Republican majorities in its history for the entire Republican ticket, both state and county, giving all of the candidates majorities ranging from 8,500 to 11,029.

It was one of the most smashing victories in the history of the Republican party in the country. In the election of 1938, the county gave Thomas E. Dewey a majority of 10,176 over Governor Herbert Lehman, and this year it gave Dewey a plurality of 10,420 over his opponent, John J. Bennett, Jr.

The county also gave Dewey's running mate, Thomas W. Wallace for lieutenant governor, a plurality of 9,867 over Charles Poletti, Democrat, who also was running on the American Labor ticket.

Congressman-elect Jay LeFevre of New Paltz was given a majority of 10,911 over Sharon J. Mauhs of Schoharie county, who was the

Republicans Get Three New Seats In Legislature; Democrats Lose Senator

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republicans had three new members in the New York legislature today as a result of yesterday's election—all of them in the Assembly.

The Democrats lost one senator from Manhattan, Tammany's historic stronghold, when John L. Buckley lost to Lester Baum. The latter combined an American Labor party endorsement with his G. O. P. nomination.

Republican control of the Assembly, on the basis of incomplete returns, was raised from 87-62 to 90-59, while in the Senate it remained at 30-21.

The top Senate race saw Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., chairman of a legislative committee investigating subversive activities in New York city schools, win over Jerry Finkelstein, who waged a vigorous campaign. Coudert told workers at his headquarters last night "it was a tough show, and I'm glad it's over."

The G. O. P. was nicked, however, in the 24th, Richmond and Rockland counties, where Rae L. Egbert, Democrat, won over Rob-

Farm Belt Helps Republican Surge In New Deal Upset

Midwestern Voting Shows Trend in Defeat of Senator Brown; Iowa Rejects Herring

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP) — The midwestern farm belt, from which the Roosevelt administration once drew inspiration and overwhelming support for its precedent-breaking agricultural-aid programs, marched well to the front in the Republican victory parade yesterday.

In the wheat, corn, hog, cattle, and dairy states of the trans-Mississippi and Great Plains regions, an upsurge of Republican votes swept many ardent New Dealers from congressional seats and returned to office most of those who stood against the administration in recent battles over control of farm prices.

Perhaps typifying midwestern voting was the defeat of Senator Prentiss Brown, Michigan Democrat who managed the administration's anti-inflation bill—legislation which aroused the ire of a powerful senatorial farm bloc and farm organizations with strong followings in the midwest.

Similarly, Iowa—home state of Vice President Wallace, who, incidentally, had perhaps more to do with formulating and developing New Deal farm programs than any other man — turned Democratic Senator Clyde Herring out of office, although he had generally aligned himself with the farm bloc.

Other farm states in which Republicans gained strength or held their own included Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana, Ohio, Colorado, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado and Oklahoma.

Democrats and Republicans alike agreed that the midwestern attitude toward administration war policies affecting agriculture played a major role in the outcome. There have been numerous farm-belt complaints against government price control policies affecting dairy, meat, poultry products and wheat. Many farmers felt the administration took the advice of Prime Administrator Leon Henderson, whom they considered consumer-minded over that of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard on matters affecting agriculture.

But overshadowing price policies has been apprehension over a growing shortage of farm labor at a time when war food needs are expanding. Many growers blame this shortage on the way the selective service system has been administered and on a migration of rural workers to better-paying war jobs.

Other administration policies criticized by farmers included gasoline and tire rationing, a sharp reduction in the manufacture of farm machinery, and proposals to subsidize farm wages. Many farm leaders asserted during the campaign that President Roosevelt had treated labor with kid gloves and agriculture roughly in his anti-inflation campaign.

With but few exceptions, leaders in the congressional farm bloc

Republicans Make Most of Victory With Auto Parade

Kingston's voters helped swell the tremendous landslide that swept the Republican party back into control of the state for the first in 20 years when majorities ranging from 1,100 to more than 2,000 were given the entire slate both state and county, at Tuesday's election in the city.

Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey carried Kingston by 1,969. He received a total vote in the city of 6,425 as compared with the 4,456 votes cast for his Democratic opponent John J. Bennett, Jr.

Dean Alfange, the candidate for governor on the American Labor party ticket, received but 425 votes in the city, when his supporters had been predicting before election that more than a thousand American Labor votes would be cast.

The Socialist candidate for governor, Coleman B. Cheney, polled 18 votes, while Israel Amter, the Communist party candidate, received 9 votes, and Aaron M. Orange, candidate of the Industrial Government party, was given 5 votes.

County Clerk Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties and Senator Arthur H. Wicks rolled up the biggest majorities at the polls in Kingston yesterday when Senator Wicks carried the city by 2,088, and County Clerk Snyder by 2,342.

Congressman-elect Jay LeFevre of New Paltz carried Kingston by 1,856, receiving 6,461 votes while Sharon J. Mauhs, his Democratic opponent who was also running on the American Labor ticket, only polled 4,241 Democratic and 364 American Labor votes.

Assemblyman John W. Wadlin of Highland carried Kingston by 1,713 votes, polling a total of 6,382 votes to his opponent, Joseph Vozdik of Saugerties, total vote of 4,669 on the Democratic and American Labor party tickets.

District Attorney LeVan Haver carried the city by a majority of 1,096, over his Democratic and American Labor opponent, Francis Martocci, who polled 5,017 votes as compared with the 6,113 cast for the district attorney.

Shortly after the closing of the polls in the city at 7 o'clock Tuesday night the returns began to trickle into police headquarters as the police who had served at the polls during the day brought back the official count.

After but a few of the 20 districts of the city had reported, the vote showed a definite Republican trend, and it was soon seen that Governor-elect Dewey together with the entire state and county ticket had carried the city by good-sized majorities which grew in size as more districts reported.

Returns from the city and county were received at the court house on Wall street, and shortly after the polls had closed and the various voting districts began telephoning in the results it was clearly indicated that Ulster county was solidly Republican, rolling up majorities for the Republican ticket at a 2 to 1 ration.

It was early in the evening when Democratic County Chairman Joseph H. Forman acknowledged the complete defeat not only of the county but the state ticket as well.

The Republicans celebrated the election of the county and state ticket by a huge automobile parade headed by a sound truck which paraded through the streets of Kingston with horns tooting and the loud speaker on the sound truck playing stirring marches.

Roscoe V. Elsworth, Republican county chairman, who received the returns from the city and county at the court house, expressed himself as highly satisfied with the

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—There were two men smiling in New York last night when the returns showed Thomas E. Dewey winning the governorship — but Dewey's grin was wider than that of his defeated opponent, Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.

Even after he had conceded defeat at 10:15 p. m. Bennett, the Democratic candidate, smiled his ability to take it, then announced quietly that he was going home to get some sleep. At the Bennett headquarters in the Biltmore, as the returns flashed in, there were 50 hopeful followers; at Dewey's headquarters in the Hotel Roosevelt, three blocks away, there were 2,000.

"Being governor is pretty sober business in these times," Dewey told the cheering crowd. "The fact that one party lost and the

Montgomery Seems to Be Pointing At Destruction of Axis in Africa

By DeWitt Mackenzie

London, Nov. 4—With Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's break through Marshal Rommel's left wing, the battle of Egypt is swelling rapidly toward the crisis of what may be the decisive engagement in the struggle for control of the Mediterranean area.

This is no time for prophecy but the nature of Montgomery's assault and the strength apparently massed behind it warrant the belief that he is aiming at the big target—destruction of the Axis in Northern Africa.

Keep your eye on this battle. We should not let the slowness of movement in the opening days of this great struggle blind us to the fact that it represents one of the major conflicts of the whole war.

The British commander is going about his task the direct and the hard way. However, its method is calculated to bring him the best results and his immediate objective is the destruction of Marshal Rommel's tank corps.

These steel monsters are the Nazi Marshal's locks of Samson. Once he is shorn of them, his strength will be largely reduced.

True, if Montgomery's drive goes well—and it appears to be proceeding satisfactorily thus far—we may expect sensational developments.

One of these is likely to be desperate effort by Hitler to save his servant by rushing air reinforcements to him.

And it may be assumed that the allied high command has not just thrown Montgomery into this whirlpool and left him to sink or swim without further aid.

However, the battle still is in its early stages and we need to see more before we start counting chickens.

What happened is this:

Montgomery suddenly flung an infantry attack — preceded by heavy bombardment from artillery and the air and followed by tanks —against one of the strongest points in Rommel's left flank.

Such a frontal assault is one of the most difficult operations in warfare. It is necessary for the infantry to lead the way because it would be suicidal to throw tanks directly against heavy artillery before the troops had broken the trail.

The ferocity of British attack

Anglo Infantry, Tanks Push 16 Miles Into Axis Lines

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Britain's desert armies were reported to have won the first major test in the new campaign in Egypt today, routing the Axis in a flaming six-hour tank battle and jeopardizing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's entire position on the El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria.

American troops on battle-ridden Guadalcanal have called upon aerial and naval power to smash a newly contrived Japanese vise threatening to close in on the island's strategic airfield.

While United States Marines and soldiers, dive bombers and destroyers threw bullets, bombs and shells at the invaders westward of the airbase, Nipponese vessels made a new landing of troops to the east under cover of darkness.

This added peril to the American-held field, base of many an aerial attack on Japanese ships, troops and installations, was announced by Secretary of the Navy Knox yesterday shortly after he had cautioned the nation against any false optimism over the battle of the Solomons.

Despite the American offensive which drove the foe back in the western portion of the island, the new Japanese landings on Monday night obviously indicated the enemy still was desperately bent on capturing the airfield and with it, control of the Allies' South Pacific supply lines.

U. S. army heavy bombers smashing at Axis supply ships were officially credited with destroying two medium-sized vessels in Tobruk Harbor and setting fire to fuel tanks.

Meanwhile, speculation over the possibility of momentous events developing in West Africa was aroused by a Berlin radio broadcast reporting that Germany was narrowly watching "special ship movements in the harbor at Gibraltar".

An earlier Vichy (French) broadcast asserted that ships carrying large contingents of American troops were anchored in Gibraltar harbor, along with a battleship, an aircraft carrier and 14 destroyers.

On the Egyptian front, the German radio said the British resumed their big-scale offensive against the Axis this morning.

A bulletin from Cairo headquarters said the British 8th army again thrust forward in two sectors along the 35-mile-wide front Monday night and yesterday after defeating Rommel's tank forces Monday.

A communique indicated that the 12-day-old British offensive was now in full swing, with Allied planes pounding the withdrawing Axis forces.

The communique said British Imperials in the last 24 hours advanced to Sidi Abd El Rahman on the north and drove the Germans into retreat further south.

Sidi Abd El Rahman lies 18 miles west of El Alamein on the coastal road.

"For the past 24 hours, the full force of the Allied air striking power has been concentrated on enemy units withdrawing along the coastal road," British headquarters said.

London quarters declared "the enemy seems to be in full retreat" in the critical struggle, whose outcome may decide the fate of the whole Middle East.

An Italian communique said the Allies struck yesterday in "repeated powerful attacks, carried out with large numbers of tanks and aviation," but asserted that Axis troops "prevented the enemy from getting any result."

Large numbers of wrecked Axis tanks littered the desert today as the British moved up fresh troops and armored contingents for a possible showdown.

Salient Is Driven

Latest reports said tank-led British infantry had driven a 16-mile salient through Rommel's left flank, slightly inland from the Mediterranean, and established a strong hold extending three miles

London, Nov. 4—With Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's break through Marshal Rommel's left wing, the battle of Egypt is swelling rapidly toward the crisis of what may be the decisive engagement in the struggle for control of the Mediterranean area.

This is no time for prophecy but the nature of Montgomery's assault and the strength apparently massed behind it warrant the belief that he is aiming at the big target—destruction of the Axis in Northern Africa.

Keep your eye on this battle. We should not let the slowness of movement in the opening days of this great struggle blind us to the fact that it represents one of the major conflicts of the whole war.

The British commander is going about his task the direct and the hard way. However, its method is calculated to bring him the best results and his immediate objective is the destruction of Marshal Rommel's tank corps.

These steel monsters are the Nazi Marshal's locks of Samson. Once he is shorn of them, his strength will be largely reduced.

True, if Montgomery's drive goes well—and it appears to be proceeding satisfactorily thus far—we may expect sensational developments.

One of these is likely to be desperate effort by Hitler to save his servant by rushing air reinforcements to him.

And it may be assumed that the allied high command has not just thrown Montgomery into this whirlpool and left him to sink or swim without further aid.

However, the battle still is in its early stages and we need to see more before we start counting chickens.

What happened is this:

Montgomery suddenly flung an infantry attack — preceded by heavy bombardment from artillery and the air and followed by tanks —against one of the strongest points in Rommel's left flank.

Such a frontal assault is one of the most difficult operations in warfare. It is necessary for the infantry to lead the way because it would be suicidal to throw tanks directly against heavy artillery before the troops had broken the trail.

The ferocity of British attack

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Britain's desert armies were reported to have won the first major test in the new campaign in Egypt today, routing the Axis in a flaming six-hour tank battle and jeopardizing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's entire position on the El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria.

American troops on battle-ridden Guadalcanal have called upon aerial and naval power to smash a newly contrived Japanese vise threatening to close in on the island's strategic airfield.

While United States Marines and soldiers, dive bombers and destroyers threw bullets, bombs and shells at the invaders westward of the airbase, Nipponese vessels made a new landing of troops to the east under cover of darkness.

This added peril to the American-held field, base of many an aerial attack on Japanese ships, troops and installations, was announced by Secretary of the Navy Knox yesterday shortly after he had cautioned the nation against any false optimism over the battle of the Solomons.

Despite the American offensive which drove the foe back in the western portion of the island, the new Japanese landings on Monday night obviously indicated the enemy still was desperately bent on capturing the airfield and with it, control of the Allies' South Pacific supply lines.

U. S. army heavy bombers smashing at Axis supply ships were officially credited with destroying two medium-sized vessels in Tobruk Harbor and setting fire to fuel tanks.

Meanwhile, speculation over the possibility of momentous events developing in West Africa was aroused by a Berlin radio broadcast reporting that Germany was narrowly watching "special ship movements in the harbor at Gibraltar".

An earlier Vichy (French) broadcast asserted that ships carrying large contingents of American troops were anchored in Gibraltar harbor, along with a battleship, an aircraft carrier and 14 destroyers.

On the Egyptian front, the German radio said the British resumed their big-scale offensive against the Axis this morning.

A bulletin from Cairo headquarters said the British 8th army again thrust forward in two sectors along the 35-mile-wide front Monday night and yesterday after defeating Rommel's tank forces Monday.

A communique indicated that the 12-day-old British offensive was now in full swing, with Allied planes pounding the withdrawing Axis forces.

The communique said British Imperials in the last 24 hours advanced to Sidi Abd El Rahman on the north and drove the Germans into retreat further south.

Sidi Abd El Rahman lies 18 miles west of El Alamein on the coastal road.

"For the past 24 hours, the full force of the Allied air striking power has been concentrated on enemy units withdrawing along the coastal road," British headquarters said.

London quarters declared "the enemy seems to be in full retreat" in the critical struggle, whose outcome may decide the fate of the whole Middle East.

An Italian communique said the Allies struck yesterday in "repeated powerful attacks, carried out with large numbers of tanks and aviation," but asserted that Axis troops "prevented the enemy from getting any result."

Large numbers of wrecked Axis tanks littered the desert today as the British moved up fresh troops and armored contingents for a possible showdown.

Salient Is Driven

Latest reports said tank-led British infantry had driven a 16-mile salient through Rommel's left flank, slightly inland from the Mediterranean, and established a strong hold extending three miles

Ulster Republicans Set All-Time High

Democratic and American Labor candidate.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks was reelected for his ninth term, and was given a majority of 11,029 in Ulster county over his Democratic and American Labor opponent, Jacob J. Schneider, of this city.

Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland was reelected for his second term, defeating Joseph Vozdik of Saugerties, by a majority of 9,826.

Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties was reelected for his second term as county clerk, defeating Herbert George of the town of Denning, his Democratic and American Labor candidate, by a majority of 10,934.

Much interest was displayed this election in the fight for district attorney as the Democratic party had hoped to elect its candidate, Francis Martocci of this city. However, District Attorney N. LeVan Haver was reelected by a majority of 9,244.

The Democratic leaders had counted confidently on the issue of Bingo, which had been banned in Ulster county, in helping defeat District Attorney Haver, but it was evident from the majority given the district attorney that that issue played an unimportant part in the election.

The greatly increased swing toward the Republican party in the election this year was due, according to leaders in the party, to the Farley-Roosevelt fight and also to the fact that under Roosevelt leadership the war was not being prosecuted with as much success as the voters believed possible. Lack of faith in the leadership so far displayed in the county's war effort however, was believed to have played a far more important part in the election than the split between Jim Farley and the President.

Leaders in the Ulster county Republican party also pointed out that too much credit could not be given to the efficient leadership of Roscoe V. Elsworth as chairman of the party.

Election returns as compiled by The Freeman show that both the state and county Republican ticket not only carried the county by large majorities but that every candidate, from the top to the bottom, were given handsome majorities in the city of Kingston.

While there was not as much oratory and as many political rallies this election as in other years, party workers did considerable work in house to house calls. Owing to gas and tire rationing candidates in both parties found it impossible to cover the entire county.

County Chairman Joseph H. Forman of the Democratic party, shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday night conceded the election of the entire Republican ticket, and issued a statement congratulating the winners, in which he said that he desired "to congratulate our political opponents upon their victory. I hope that they will justify the confidence placed in them by the people of the state of New York. May I add that we of the Democratic party have every confidence in the leadership of our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and express the hope that whatever our individual opinions may be, we stand united as a people in this great and crucial war effort."

Homesteading in Alaska

A circular from the General Land Office, Washington, D. C., states that in order to make an original homestead settlement or entry in Alaska, the applicant must be 21 years of age or the head of a family, a citizen of the United States or have declared his intention to become such a citizen and not the owner of more than 160 acres of land in the United States, except that a homestead entry made in the United States outside of Alaska is not a qualification. Full information may be had by writing to the General Land Office, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C., or to any of the United States district Land Offices in Alaska.

Maids Can't Get Them

Oklahoma City (AP) — A member of the Oklahoma Club was telling Manager O'Reilley what a time he was having finding household help. "I even called up a former maid and asked her if she knew where I could get help," said the member. "She said: 'No m'aam, I don't. I can't even get none myself'."

THE F. B. I. NEEDS WOMEN

On Thursday, November 5th, an Administrative Assistant to

J. EDGAR HOOVER
Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation

Will interview female applicants for clerical employment in the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C., at an entrance salary of

$1,440 PER ANNUM

With unlimited opportunity for advancement. Applicants must be high school graduates, citizens, in good physical condition and between 18 and 40 years of age. All those interested in assisting in the war effort are urged to appear on this date between 9:00 A. M. and 5:00 P. M. in the Civil Service Room, U. S. Post Office Building, Newburgh, New York.

It is suggested that applicants bring with them a picture approximately 2x2 inches.

Jay Le Fevre Elected By 21,922 Majority

Congressman-elect Jay LeFevre of New Paltz, defeated his Democratic opponent, Sharon J. Mauhs of Schoharie county by approximately 21,922, according to unofficial election figures.

These figures show that Mr. LeFevre carried Columbia county by 4,322, Ulster by 10,500; Greene by 3,400; Schoharie by 1,200 and Sullivan county by 2,500.

Russ Black Sea Port Is Pivotal Defense City

Anapa, claimed by the Nazis as the point of their first break-through to the Black sea in their Caucasus drive, lies where the northwestern tip of the Caucasus mountain chain touches the sea. A football fan would call it the left end on a defensive team, the immobile players being the high peaks and ridges of Europe's highest mountain range. Right end would be Baku, oil center and Caspian sea port 700 miles southeast.

Anapa rises on a 200-foot promontory pointing across the Black sea to the near-by Crimea. Low buildings, flanking wide straight streets, are the homes and shops of the town's 13,000 residents. The north side of the town slopes to the edge of the sea. Here at a long pier boats up to 14-foot draft dock to take on cargoes of grains and dairy products of the lower Kuban river region.

Anapa's leading claim to prominence, however, was as a resort town with its bathing beach, mud baths and medicinal waters, in normal times the chief lures for vacationists and health seekers.

The "grape diet" treatment is one of the distinctive offerings made to invalid visitors to Anapa during the "season" from May through October. The town is surrounded by vineyards.

Because of its shallow harbor, Anapa has had to watch its neighbor, Novorossisk, 30 miles down the Black sea coast, grow to six-figure population as the leading commercial center of the Black sea district in the North Caucasus. For this same reason Anapa, like other small ports northwestward around the Taman peninsula, has not offered practical landing conditions for a Nazi mass invasion attempt from the Crimea across Kerch strait.

A Little Investigation Proves Men Sentimental

There's no use arguing any more about it: Men are as sentimental as women, even though the men will deny it.

Nothing serves better to prove how tender-hearted the stronger sex really is than the reports on the way service men clamor for greeting cards. In army post canteens and in stores patronized by men in uniform, the greeting card counters are usually thronged. It is estimated that service men have sent over 20,000,000 greeting cards to the folks back home.

An odd thing about it, too, is the kind of greeting card most in demand. The fighting men want sentiment plus; the more elaborate and emotional the card, the better it sells.

Of course, it's easy to figure out the whys and wherefores. The men are away from home, perhaps separated from families and sweethearts and friends for the first time in their lives. In addition, the war emphasizes emotional values. With the result that the boys in uniform want to put into words some of the loving thoughts that in everyday life they consider just too plain "sissy."

Vitamin Values Tabulated

Some varieties of fruits and vegetables are richer in vitamins than others. Some part of an individual fruit or vegetable may be a better source of a given vitamin than another part. Research by the many scientific workers engaged in vitamin studies shows, for example that the peel of an apple has more vitamin C than the flesh, the rosy or "sunny side" more vitamin C than the "shady side."

The vitamin A content of butter varies with the breed of the cow, with what the cow eats, whether she is stall fed or on pasture, and with the length of time after calving when butter is made. Vitamin C values of citrus fruits depend on the variety, time of harvest, even on the location of the tree in the orchard and the fruit on the tree—on an outside or inside branch.

F.B.I. Clerical Jobs Open to Girls

Many More Girls Needed in Washington Offices

P. E. Foxworth, assistant director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, New York, stated today that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is in immediate need of a number of female clerks to assist in carrying out the greatly expanded war program of the F. B. I.

He said that the requirements for this position, which pays an annual salary of $1440 per year, are that the applicant must be a citizen of the United States, 18 years of age or older, high school graduate and in good physical condition. It was pointed out that the clerical positions are for openings in Washington, D. C. only.

Mr. Foxworth said that an administration assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will interview female applicants interested in this position in the Civil Service Room, U. S. Post Office Building, Newburgh, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Thursday, November 5.

G.O.P. Returns Again to Power

attained at the expense of a Republican incumbent, but the Republicans took over Democratic governorships in California, Connecticut, New York and Michigan. Nine races remained undecided.

Counting Maine, which voted in September, the 15 Senate seats brought into or kept in the Republican column as the result of yesterday's voting were in Iowa, New Jersey, South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Delaware, Michigan, and West Virginia—all now Democratic—and Oregon, Kansas, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Illinois and Idaho—all Republican in the present Congress.

Democrats elected 10 senators in the south, and one each in Rhode Island, Nevada, and New Mexico—all seats which they now hold.

In addition to the four states in which they upset Democratic control of the governorships, Republicans won in Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Vermont, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota, New Hampshire, Kansas and Nebraska.

The lone Republican loss in these state contests was in Wisconsin where the incumbent Julius Heil was beaten by Orland S. Loomis, Progressive.

Oklahoma proved one of the big surprises in the Senate races. Senator Josh Lee, New Deal stalwart who recently tried vainly to have liquor banned from Army and Navy posts, lost out to E. H. Moore, oil man and anti-New Deal Democrat who ran as a Republican.

The defeat of Senator William H. Smathers (D., N. J.) who had the support of the powerful organization of Frank Hague, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, by Albert W. Hawkes, Republican and former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, came as another welcome surprise to the Republican leadership.

President Roosevelt did not fare so well in his candidate-picking. He had endorsed John J. Bennett, Jr., for the New York governorship, but Dewey whipped Bennett by more than half a million votes. The President had opposed the reelection of Rep. Hamilton Fish, Republican from his home district of Hyde Park, but Fish won. He also had endorsed Norris for a sixth term in the Senate.

Dewey's Niche Prominent

Dewey's easy victory in the key Empire State projected the 40-year-old former Manhattan district attorney into a prominent niche for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination, despite Dewey's campaign promise to serve out his whole four-year term as governor.

After Bennett had conceded defeat, Dewey issued a statement calling for united and unswerving loyalty to President Roosevelt as "our Commander in Chief" and said "we are all Americans together."

He urged all Americans to redouble the nation's efforts to bring about "total, uncompromising, crushing victory over our enemies."

Other Republicans besides Dewey who might be knocking at the door for recognition when the presidential and vice presidential nominations are made two years hence are Earl Warren, California's attorney general, who won handily over Gov. Culbert L. Olson, Democrat; Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, reelected to a third term, and Gov. Leverett Saltonstall, victor in Massachusetts.

Two Republican senators whose pre-Pearl Harbor votes against some defense measures were opposition talking points in the campaign won over their Democratic opponents. They were Senators C. Wayland Brooks, in Illinois, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., in Massachusetts. Brooks defeated Rep. Raymond S. McKeough and Lodge thwarted the ambition of young Rep. Joseph E. Casey.

Other Senate contests saw Senator Clyde L. Herring (D.) bow to Gov. George A. Wilson, Iowa's Republican governor; former Gov. Tom Berry (D.) defeated by Gov. Harlan J. Bushfield (R.) in South Dakota, and C. Doughlas Buck, former Republican governor of Delaware, take the measure of E. Ennals Berl (D.) who won the nomination from Senator James H. Hughes.

Green Is Re-elected

Democrats re-elected Senator Theodore F. Green in Rhode Island over Republican Ira Lloyd Letts and named Rep. James G. Scrugham in Nevada to fill out the remainder of the term of the late Key Pittman ending January 3, 1947, now held by appointment by Berkeley L. Bunker.

Republicans won all the key states electing governors. Besides taking posts away from the Democrats in New York, California, Michigan and Connecticut, they won the governorships of Pennsylvania and Ohio, as well as Vermont, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota, New Hampshire, Kansas and Nebraska.

Harry F. Kelly defeated Democratic Gov. Murray D. Van Waggoner in Michigan and Edward Martin (R.) won from F. Clair Ross (D.) in Penn.

The Republicans picked up eight of their House gains in Ohio alone and five more in Connecticut, making the latter state's entire delegation of six Republican. Other gains were made in Delaware, Maryland, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, author-playwright and round-the-world reporter, was among the Republican House winners in Connecticut, She defeated Rep. Leroy D. Downs, Democrat, and David Mansell, Socialist.

Voting throughout the nation, first wartime election since 1918 when the Republicans captured control of Congress from the Democrats, was light compared with former off-year balloting. Absentee voting by soldiers and sailors was believed small considering the number of eligibles.

In Illinois, with 88 per cent of the precincts reported, indications were the vote would be the lightest since 1934 when it fell short of 3,000,000. It exceeded 4,250,000 in the 1940 presidential election.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Bessie Jones, wife of John Jones, died in the family home at 13 West Strand, on Tuesday evening, after a brief illness. The body was removed to the Thomas J. Wolf Funeral Home on Broadway, and funeral arrangements will be made later.

Roena Van Wagenen, sister of Mrs. Louise Winchell, died in this city Tuesday, November 3, 1942. Surviving beside Mrs. Winchell, are several nieces. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street.

Emmett Rose, 51, of Ellenville, who had been employed at the Shuster boarding house on Briggs street, west of Ellenville died at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, shortly after five o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

He had been found lying unconscious along the Briggs street road Tuesday forenoon, and Dr. John Weiss of Ellenville, who was called, ordered him taken to the hospital.

Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was notified and at his direction, an autopsy was being performed this morning at the Pulling Funeral Home, Ellenville, by Dr. J. S. Taylor of Kingston and Dr. Weiss.

New Paltz, Nov. 4—Dr. John Dennis Lucy formerly of New Paltz and a brother of Mrs. Calvin Freer of New Paltz, died of a heart attack at his home at Concord, S. I., on October 19. He was 69 years old. He was born in County Cork, Ireland, and received his early training there and came to the United States at the age of fourteen with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lucy. He was one of the early and most distinguished graduates of New Paltz State Normal School. After graduating he taught for a time in the Philippine Islands and then came home and took up the study of medicine, receiving his medical degree from the Long Island Medical College. Dr. Lucy retired in 1940. Beside his sister Mrs. Freer, he is survived by his widow Mrs. Augusta V. King Lucy; three sons, Lieutenants John, Robert E. and Edward D. Lucy all in the army and a daughter Mrs. Timothy J. McEleroy all of Staten Island; three brothers, Dr. Michael J. Lucy of Long Island, Dr. Joseph J. Lucy of Staten Island and Jeremiah Lucy of New York city and two other sisters, Mrs. William Kelly of Staten Island and Mrs. John MacDougall of Youngstown, Ohio.

'Trench-Warfare' on Farms

Many farmers are engaging in "trench warfare" to defeat the Axis. They are building trench silos to store the feed for greater production of dairy product, beef, and mutton.

The farmers say they have two special reasons for using trench silos. First, a feed reserve for livestock is better than money in the bank, because money will not buy feed when there isn't any. Second, trench silos are inexpensive, do not call for critical materials.

Many small operators have received loans from the Farm Security administration for building silos. In west Texas and New Mexico, particularly, extension agents, FSA supervisors, county commissioners and farm leaders have co-operated to make available road machinery for digging trench silos, community by community.

A Modern Cargo

On a ship that sailed for Ireland recently there was a cargo of dried and evaporated milk, cheese, dried eggs, canned and cured pork, lard, flour and canned vegetables. And so great are the advances of science in the preparation of dehydrated and concentrated foods that, it is estimated, the cargo of this one ship represented a year's production of 3,800 average American farms.

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Stocks showed a lively response today to Tuesday's election results, advancing fractions to around a point at the outset but later yielding a substantial portion of the gains under profit selling.

The sizable volume of offerings on the bulge indicated the voting trends had been partly discounted as a market factor.

In one of the biggest first hours since the inception of the upward swing several months ago a number of leaders were transferred in individual blocks running from 1,000 to 5,000 shares.

The reaction from the early highs—the best average levels since last November—left the list a bit uneven near the fourth hour.

Displaying the best resistance under the profit cashing were Chrysler, U. S. rubber, united aircraft, Boeing, Sperry, American smelting, John-Manville, Great northern and southern Pacific, the last named reaching a peak for the year.

Rail loans gave a lift to the Bond market and commodities were steady.

Have Mathematical Chance of Taking Control of House on Figures Incomplete Now

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republicans carved deep gains today into Democratic majorities in both chambers of Congress and on the basis of yet incomplete returns from Tuesday's election had a mathematical chance to take control of the House.

Democrats remained in the saddle in the Senate, with 13 wins added to 41 holdovers for a working majority of the 96 seats. But the Republicans, in picking up at least eight seats, vanquished such administration stalwarts as Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan and William H. Smathers of New Jersey, and even dipped down into the cotton country to unseat Josh Lee, all-out New Dealer.

The Republicans were assured of more seats in both houses than they controlled during the present session. With the count still progressing in several states, Senate Minority Leader McNary of Oregon could count on at least 35 seats, compared with 29 now.

In the House, their total had mounted to 177—eleven more than the old Republican total. A majority is 218 and the undecided races conceivably could turn the tide.

The Democrats had elected 191 House members and had lost a net of 31, three of which resulted from reapportionment of districts as a result of population changes.

A Republican whirlwind that ripped through the midwest, cut over to the Atlantic coast and threatened an offshoot in the Rocky Mountain area, provided some surprises in the Senate races.

New Deal Democrats took it on the chin in such unexpected places as Oklahoma, where Senator Josh Lee, staunch Roosevelt supporter and advocate of a proposed "bone dry" amendment to the 'teen age draft bill, was defeated by a Willkie Democrat, E. H. Moore.

Norris Becomes Lame Duck

The Senate's only Independent, 81-year-old George W. Norris, apparently wound up the political career that has kept him in Congress for 39 years when he went down in defeat before Kenneth S. Wherry, a Republican, in a three-way contest.

Norris, the father of the constitutional amendment eliminating lame duck sessions of Congress, thus becomes a "lame duck" himself.

Norris was the only senator running with President Roosevelt's personal indorsement, but in his defeat was matched by the loss of three other consistent administration votes in the Senate—those of Senators Clyde Herring of Iowa, William H. Smathers of New Jersey, and Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan.

Republican Gov. George A. Wilson defeated Herring in Iowa and Albert W. Hawkes, Republican industrialist, disposed of Smathers in New Jersey, despite support of the Democratic incumbent by Mayor Frank Hague's organization in Jersey City.

C. Douglass Buck, Republican, claimed the Delaware senatorial seat which E. Ennals Berl had sought to win after displacing Senator James H. Hughes as the Democratic nominee.

Gov. Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota, a Republican, defeated Tom Berry, who had won the Democratic senatorial nomination over the incumbent, Senator William J. Bulow.

Still undecided were races in Colorado, where two seats were open, Idaho, Montana, West Virginia and Wyoming. Opponents had not yet conceded the elections of Senators Chandler (D-Ky.), Ball (R-Minn.) and Hatch D-N.M.) but they held commanding leads.

West Is Undecided

Judge Homer Ferguson, Detroit's "one-man grand jury," defeated Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan Democrat who acted as the administration's leader for price control and economic stabilization legislation.

Senator Harry H. Swartz, staunch Democratic supporter of the President, was lagging behind E. V. Robertson, his Republican opponent, in Wyoming.

Idaho's race found Senator John Thomas, Republican, leading Glen Taylor, Democrat, and in Montana, Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, was slightly ahead of Wellington D. Rankin, Republican.

West Virginia provided a surprising showing with Chapman Revercomb, Republican, apparently far outdistancing Democratic Gov. M. M. Neely's effort to return to the senate which he had quit to become the state's chief executive.

In all, the Republicans had elected 14 senators and the Democrats 13, on the basis of incomplete returns.

Senator C. Wayland Brooks came through with a smashing victory in Illinois, but Styles Bridges was pushed to win in New Hampshire and Henry Cabot, Lodge, Jr., had trouble disposing of his Democratic opponent in Massachusetts.

As expected, senate republican leader McNary won handily in Oregon, as did Senator Arthur Capper in Kansas. Wallace H. White, Jr., was the first republican re-elected in Maine's voting Sept. 14.

South Remains Loyal

Democratic victories were confined mostly to the solid south, with the exception of Nevada, where Rep. James C. Scrugham (D) defeated his republican opponent, Cecil M. Creel, to fill out the term of the late Senator Key Pittman.

Senator Theodore F. Green (D) won re-election in Rhode Island. other democratic senators chosen included Bankhead, Alabama; John L. McClellan, Arkansas; Russell, Georgia; Stewart, Tennessee; Ellender, Louisiana; James O. Eastland, Mississippi, Maybank, South Carolina; Bailey, North Carolina; Glass, Virginia; and O'Daniel, Texas.

MRS. DEWEY ACCOMPANIES HUSBAND

Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey stands by as her husband, the Republican candidate for governor, signs in a registry book at a New York city voting place.

Election Highlights

(By The Associated Press)

Election of Republican Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York gave tremendous impetus to a political career that more than two years ago was pointed toward the White House and has moved steadily in that direction despite every obstacle.

But for 81-year-old George Norris of Nebraska the story was just the reverse. Norris, an independent whose sometimes stormy service in the senate totaled 30 consecutive years, was defeated for reelection. His term will end with the year. Meanwhile the father of the constitutional amendment which ended "Lame Duck" sessions of congress will himself be a "Lame Duck."

In addition to their victory in New York, the Republicans upset Democratic state control in at least three other states—California, Connecticut and Michigan. The spread of these state victories was significant in answering any argument that the Republican resurgence was of regional importance only.

Republican senate victories included at least six upsets: In Nebraska, where Norris was defeated, and in Iowa, New Jersey, Delaware, Oklahoma and South Dakota.

There was intense interest in the house contests as the counting of votes progressed. Democrats held a dwindling margin of seats. The great question was whether, when all returns were in, the Republicans would have nosed out the Democrats to win a house majority.

One of the biggest upsets in the senate was the defeat of Senator Josh Lee (D) in Oklahoma by an anti-New Deal Republican.

Rep. Andrew J. May, chairman of the House Military Committee whose support of administration war measures recently won praise from President Roosevelt, trailed in the early count in his Kentucky district but later forged into the lead.

Share in Fogg Estate

New York, Nov. 2 (Special)—Leeds, Saugerties and East Durham residents share in the estate left by the late Charles Burton Fogg of New York, it was disclosed in a New York State Transfer Tax Department report filed here today. Mary J. Goodrich, grandniece of the testator's wife, of Leeds, is left approximately $38,000. Mrs. Edith G. Goodrich of Leeds, a niece, receives $2,000, and Alice Newell, also of Leeds, is the recipient of $850 in realty. Legacies of $1,000 each go to John Goodrich of Saugerties and Naomi Field of East Durham. Mr. Fogg died June 4, 1941, leaving property which was appraised here today at $193,388 gross value, $118,680 net.

Sanborn Seeks Temporary School; Meeting Is Held

Sanborn, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP) — Sanborn residents are seeking a building to house 67 pupils, left without classrooms by a fire which destroyed their schoolhouse and which evidently was set to cremate their principal.

The two-story, 50-year-old school burned Monday night. The principal, Milton Gurvitz, 22, told state police the blaze was started by two hooded, armed men who, he said, left him bound and gagged in the building before setting a match to alcohol which he reported they sprinkled on the floor.

Plans for emergency accommodations for the children were discussed at a mass meeting last night which crowded the village's Methodist Church. Dr. Harry Rockwell, president of Buffalo State Teacher's College, told the group:

"I hope you will not be intimidated by any such nefarious attack in your community." He offered to make room for the children in the state college building.

Gurvitz was quoted by state police inspector Eugene F. Hoyt as saying he had received two notes last week telling him to get out of town. One of them, Hoyt asserted, was signed "100 per cent American" and the other, unsigned, said "we don't want a Jew around."

Miss M. Gazelle Hoffman of Lewiston, district superintendent of schools, said at last night's meeting "this is one of the saddest days of my life and I know this is a great blow to you people here in Sanborn.

"I feel very much ashamed to think that such a thing could happen in the town of Sanborn."

The principal had "an excellent record" at Buffalo Teachers' College—"was in the highest ten of his class," Dr. Rockwell said. "We have not had in the past any criticism of him whatever. We have worked with him and lived with him."

Mrs. Luce Wins In Connecticut

Election to Congress Proves Americans Would 'Fight Hard Way,' She Says

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 4 (AP)—Blonde Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, 39-year-old editor, playwright, author, lecturer and foreign correspondent, has added a diamond to her crown of accomplishments—election as United States Representative from the fourth congressional district of Connecticut.

The Republican candidate took her victory as a sign that the American people "want to fight a hard war, not a soft one, efficiently and without bungling."

"This election proves how the American people want to fight the war," she said after being told she had won yesterday.

"I've campaigned for fighting a hard war, not a soft one, because I know the American people want to fight it out with their eyes open, not with blinkers."

It was on that theme that Mrs. Luce, wife of Time-Life and Fortune editor, Henry Luce, conducted her campaign. She started off by calling her Democratic opponent, newspaper publisher Leroy D. Downs of Norwalk, one of the "rubber stamps in Congress who are bungling the war."

It was he who in 1940 defeated Mrs. Luce's step-father, the late Dr. Albert E. Austin, for re-election.

The successful candidate married Luce, her second husband, in 1935, after having worked two years on Vogue magazine. Her most successful play, "The Women," arived on Broadway a year later. Two more hits, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" and "Margin for Error," quickly followed.

She made her political debut campaigning for Wendell Willkie in 1940 and since then has corresponded for her husband's magazines from the Philippines and India, Burma and China.

Ulster Republicans Set All-Time High

Democratic and American Labor candidate.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks was reelected for his ninth term, and was given a majority of 11,029 in Ulster county over his Democratic and American Labor opponent, Jacob J. Schneider, of this city.

Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland was reelected for his second term, defeating Joseph Vozdik of Saugerties, by a majority of 9,826.

Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties was reelected for his second term as county clerk, defeating Herbert George of the town of Denning, his Democratic and American Labor candidate, by a majority of 10,934.

Much interest was displayed this election in the fight for district attorney as the Democratic party had hoped to elect its candidate, Francis Martocci of this city. However, District Attorney N. LeVan Haver was reelected by a majority of 9,244.

The Democratic leaders had counted confidently on the issue of Bingo, which had been banned in Ulster county, in helping defeat District Attorney Haver, but it was evident from the majority given the district attorney that that issue played an unimportant part in the election.

The greatly increased swing toward the Republican party in the election this year was due, according to leaders in the party, to the Farley-Roosevelt fight and also to the fact that under Roosevelt leadership the war was not being prosecuted with as much success as the voters believed possible. Lack of faith in the leadership so far displayed in the county's war effort however, was believed to have played a far more important part in the election than the split between Jim Farley and the President.

Leaders in the Ulster county Republican party also pointed out that too much credit could not be given to the efficient leadership of Roscoe V. Elsworth as chairman of the party.

Election returns as compiled by The Freeman show that both the state and county Republican ticket not only carried the county by large majorities but that every candidate, from the top to the bottom, were given handsome majorities in the city of Kingston.

While there was not as much oratory and as many political rallies this election as in other years, party workers did considerable work in house to house calls. Owing to gas and tire rationing candidates in both parties found it impossible to cover the entire county.

County Chairman Joseph H. Forman of the Democratic party, shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday night conceded the election of the entire Republican ticket, and issued a statement congratulating the winners, in which he said that he desired "to congratulate our political opponents upon their victory. I hope that they will justify the confidence placed in them by the people of the state of New York. May I add that we of the Democratic party have every confidence in the leadership of our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and express the hope that whatever our individual opinions may be, we stand united as a people in this great and crucial war effort."

Jay Le Fevre Elected By 21,922 Majority

Congressman-elect Jay LeFevre of New Paltz, defeated his Democratic opponent, Sharon J. Mauhs of Schoharie county by approximately 21,922, according to unofficial election figures.

These figures show that Mr. LeFevre carried Columbia county by 4,322, Ulster by 10,500; Greene by 3,400; Schoharie by 1,200 and Sullivan county by 2,500.

Russ Black Sea Port Is Pivotal Defense City

Anapa, claimed by the Nazis as the point of their first break-through to the Black sea in their Caucasus drive, lies where the northwestern tip of the Caucasus mountain chain touches the sea. A football fan would call it the left end on a defensive team, the immobile player's being the high peaks and ridges of Europe's highest mountain range. Right end would be Baku, oil center and Caspian sea port 700 miles southeast.

Anapa rises on a 200-foot promontory pointing across the Black sea to the near-by Crimea. Low buildings, flanking wide straight streets, are the homes and shops of the town's 13,000 residents. The north side of the town slopes to the edge of the sea. Here at a long pier boats up to 14-foot draft dock to take on cargoes of grains and dairy products of the lower Kuban river region.

Anapa's leading claim to prominence, however, was as a resort town with its bathing beach, mud baths and medicinal waters, in normal times the chief lures for vacationists and health seekers.

The "grape diet" treatment is one of the distinctive offerings made to invalid visitors to Anapa during the "season" from May through October. The town is surrounded by vineyards.

Because of its shallow harbor, Anapa has had to watch its neighbor, Novorossisk, 30 miles down the Black sea coast, grow to six-figure population as the leading commercial center of the Black sea district in the North Caucasus. For this same reason Anapa, like other small ports northwestward around the Taman peninsula, has not offered practical landing conditions for a Nazi mass invasion attempt from the Crimea across Kerch strait.

A Little Investigation Proves Men Sentimental

There's no use arguing any more about it: Men are as sentimental as women, even though the men will deny it.

Nothing serves better to prove how tender-hearted the stronger sex really is than the reports on the way service men clamor for greeting cards. In army post canteens and in stores patronized by men in uniform, the greeting card counters are usually thronged. It is estimated that service men have sent over 20,000,000 greeting cards to the folks back home.

An odd thing about it, too, is the kind of greeting card most in demand. The fighting men want sentiment plus; the more elaborate and emotional the card, the better it sells.

Of course, it's easy to figure out the whys and wherefores. The men are away from home, perhaps separated from families and sweethearts and friends for the first time in their lives. In addition, the war emphasizes emotional values. With the result that the boys in uniform want "to put into words some of the loving thoughts that in everyday life they consider just too plain, "sissy."

Vitamin Values Tabulated

Some varieties of fruits and vegetables are richer in vitamins than others. Some part of an individual fruit or vegetable may be a better source of a given vitamin than another part. Research by the many scientific workers engaged in vitamin studies shows, for example that the peel of an apple has more vitamin C than the flesh, the rosy or "sunny side" more vitamin C than the "shady side."

The vitamin A content of butter varies with the breed of the cow, with what the cow eats, whether she is stall fed or on pasture, and with the length of time after calving when butter is made. Vitamin C values of citrus fruits depend on the variety, time of harvest, even on the location of the tree in the orchard and the fruit on the tree—on an outside or inside branch.

Many More Girls Needed in Washington Offices

P. E. Foxworth, assistant director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, New York, stated today that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is in immediate need of a number of female clerks to assist in carrying out the greatly expanded war program of the F. B. I.

He said that the requirements for this position, which pays an annual salary of $1440 per year, are that the applicant must be a citizen of the United States, 18 years of age or older, high school graduate and in good physical condition. It was pointed out that the clerical positions are for openings in Washington, D. C. only.

Mr. Foxworth said that an administration assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will interview female applicants interested in this position in the Civil Service Room, U. S. Post Office Building, Newburgh, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Thursday, November 5.

G.O.P. Returns Again to Power

attained at the expense of a Republican incumbent, but the Republicans took over Democratic governorships in California, Connecticut, New York and Michigan. Nine races remained undecided.

Counting Maine, which voted in September, the 15 Senate seats brought into or kept in the Republican column as the result of yesterday's voting were in Iowa, New Jersey, South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Delaware, Michigan, and West Virginia—all now Democratic—and Oregon, Kansas, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Illinois and Idaho—all Republican in the present Congress.

Democrats elected 10 senators in the south, and one each in Rhode Island, Nevada, and New Mexico—all seats which they now hold.

In addition to the four states in which they upset Democratic control of the governorships, Republicans won in Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Vermont, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota, New Hampshire, Kansas and Nebraska.

The lone Republican loss in these state contests was in Wisconsin where the incumbent Julius Heil was beaten by Orland S. Loomis, Progressive.

Oklahoma proved one of the big surprises in the Senate races. Senator Josh Lee, New Deal stalwart who recently tried vainly to have liquor banned from Army and Navy posts, lost out to E. H. Moore, oil man and anti-New Deal Democrat who ran as a Republican.

The defeat of Senator William H. Smathers (D., N. J.) who had the support of the powerful organization of Frank Hague, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, by Albert W. Hawkes, Republican and former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, came as another welcome surprise to the Republican leadership.

President Roosevelt did not fare so well in his candidate-picking. He had endorsed John J. Bennett, Jr., for the New York governorship, but Dewey whipped Bennett by more than half a million votes. The President had opposed the reelection of Rep. Hamilton Fish, Republican from his home district of Hyde Park, but Fish won. He also had endorsed Norris for a sixth term in the Senate.

Dewey's Niche Prominent

Dewey's easy victory in the key Empire State projected the 40-year-old former Manhattan district attorney into a prominent niche for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination, despite Dewey's campaign promise to serve out his whole four-year term as governor.

After Bennett had conceded defeat, Dewey issued a statement calling for united and unswerving loyalty to President Roosevelt as "our Commander in Chief" and said "we are all Americans together."

He urged all Americans to redouble the nation's efforts to bring about "total, uncompromising, crushing victory over our enemies."

Other Republicans besides Dewey who might be knocking at the door for recognition when the presidential and vice presidential nominations are made two years hence are Earl Warren, California's attorney general, who won handily over Gov. Culbert L. Olson, Democrat; Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, reelected to a third term, and Gov. Leverett Saltonstall, victor in Massachusetts.

Two Republican senators whose pre-Pearl Harbor votes against some defense measures were opposition talking points in the campaign won over their Democratic opponents. They were Senators C. Wayland Brooks, in Illinois, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., in Massachusetts. Brooks defeated Rep. Raymond S. McKeough; and Lodge thwarted the ambition of young Rep. Joseph E. Casey.

Other Senate contests saw Senator Clyde L. Herring (D.) bow to Gov. George A. Wilson, Iowa's Republican governor; former Gov. Tom Berry (D.) defeated by Gov. Harlan J. Bushfield (R.) in South Dakota, and C. Doughlas Buck, former Republican governor of Delaware, take the measure of E. Ennals Berl (D.) who won the nomination from Senator James H. Hughes.

Green Is Re-elected

Democrats re-elected Senator Theodore F. Green in Rhode Island over Republican Ira Lloyd Letts and named Rep. James G. Scrugham in Nevada to fill out the remainder of the term of the late Key Pittman ending January 3, 1947, now held by appointment by Berkeley L. Bunker.

Republicans won all the key states electing governors. Besides taking posts away from the Democrats in New York, California, Michigan and Connecticut, they won the governorships of Pennsylvania and Ohio, as well as Vermont, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota, New Hampshire, Kansas and Nebraska.

Harry F. Kelly defeated Democratic Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner in Michigan and Edward Martin (R.) won from F. Clair Ross (D.) in Penn.

The Republicans picked up eight of their House gains in Ohio alone and five more in Connecticut, making the latter state's entire delegation of six Republican. Other gains were made in Delaware, Maryland, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, author-playwright and round-the-world reporter, was among the Republican House winners in Connecticut. She defeated Rep. Leroy D. Downs, Democrat, and David Mansell, Socialist.

Voting throughout the nation, first wartime election since 1918 when the Republicans captured control of Congress from the Democrats, was light compared with former off-year balloting. Absentee voting by soldiers and sailors was believed small considering the number of eligibles.

In Illinois, with 88 per cent of the precincts reported, indications were the vote would be the lightest since 1934 when it fell short of 3,000,000. It exceeded 4,250,000 in the 1940 presidential election.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Bessie Jones, wife of John Jones, died in the family home at 13 West Strand, on Tuesday evening, after a brief illness. The body was removed to the Thomas J. Wolf Funeral Home on Broadway, and funeral arrangements will be made later.

Roena Van Wagenen, sister of Mrs. Louise Winchell, died in this city Tuesday, November 3, 1942. Surviving beside Mrs. Winchell, are several nieces. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street.

Emmett Rose, 51, of Ellenville, who had been employed at the Shuster boarding house on Briggs street, west of Ellenville died at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, shortly after five o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

He had been found lying unconscious along the Briggs street road Tuesday forenoon, and Dr. John Weiss of Ellenville, who was called, ordered him taken to the hospital.

Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was notified and at his direction, an autopsy was being performed this morning at the Pulling Funeral Home, Ellenville, by Dr. J. S. Taylor of Kingston and Dr. Weiss.

New Paltz, Nov. 4—Dr. John Dennis Lucy formerly of New Paltz and a brother of Mrs. Calvin Freer of New Paltz, died of a heart attack at his home at Concord, S. I., on October 19. He was 69 years old. He was born in County Cork, Ireland, and received his early training there and came to the United States at the age of fourteen with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lucy. He was one of the early and most distinguished graduates of New Paltz State Normal School. After graduating he taught for a time in the Philippine Islands and then came home and took up the study of medicine, receiving his medical degree from the Long Island Medical College. Dr. Lucy retired in 1940. Beside his sister Mrs. Freer, he is survived by his widow Mrs. Augusta V. King Lucy; three sons, Lieutenants John, Robert E. and Edward D. Lucy all in the army and a daughter Mrs. Timothy J. McEleroy all of Staten Island; three brothers, Dr. Michael J. Lucy of Long Island, Dr. Joseph J. Lucy of Staten Island and Jeremiah Lucy of New York city and two other sisters, Mrs. William Kelly of Staten Island and Mrs. John MacDougall of Youngstown, Ohio.

'Trench-Warfare' on Farms

Many farmers are engaging in "trench warfare" to defeat the Axis. They are building trench silos to store the feed for greater production of dairy product, beef, and mutton.

The farmers say they have two special reasons for using trench silos. First, a feed reserve for livestock is better than money in the bank, because money will not buy feed when there isn't any. Second, trench silos are inexpensive, do not call for critical materials.

Many small operators have received loans from the Farm Security administration for building silos. In west Texas and New Mexico, particularly, extension agents, FSA supervisors, county commissioners and farm leaders have co-operated to make available road machinery for digging trench silos, community by community.

A Modern Cargo

On a ship that sailed for Ireland recently there was a cargo of dried and evaporated milk, cheese, dried eggs, canned and cured pork, lard, flour and canned vegetables. And so great are the advances of science in the preparation of dehydrated and concentrated foods that, it is estimated, the cargo of this one ship represented a year's production of 3,600 average American farms.

Six Months in Jail

John Genthner, 60, of Broadway, Kingston, arrested in Saugerties by Officer Harold Mills on Tuesday, was sentenced to six months in the Ulster county jail when arraigned before Justice Ernest E. Schirmer on a charge of public intoxication.

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Stocks showed a lively response today to Tuesday's election results, advancing fractions to around a point at the outset but later yielding a substantial portion of the gains under profit selling.

The sizable volume of offerings on the bulge indicated the voting trends had been partly discounted as a market factor.

In one of the biggest first hours since the inception of the upward swing several months ago a number of leaders were transferred in individual blocks running from 1,000 to 5,000 shares.

The reaction from the early highs—the best average levels since last November—left the list a bit uneven near the fourth hour.

Displaying the best resistance under the profit cashing were Chrysler, U. S. rubber, united aircraft, Boeing, Sperry, American smelting, John-Manville, Great northern and southern Pacific, the last named reaching a peak for the year.

Rail loans gave a lift to the Bond market and commodities were steady.

Have Mathematical Chance of Taking Control of House on Figures Incomplete Now

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republicans carved deep gains today into Democratic majorities in both chambers of Congress and on the basis of yet incomplete returns from Tuesday's election had a mathematical chance to take control of the House.

Democrats remained in the saddle in the Senate, with 13 wins added to 41 holdovers for a working majority of the 96 seats. But the Republicans, in picking up at least eight seats, vanquished such administration stalwarts as Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan and William H. Smathers of New Jersey, and even dipped down into the cotton country to unseat Josh Lee, all-out New Dealer.

The Republicans were assured of more seats in both houses than they controlled during the present session. With the count still progressing in several states, Senate Minority Leader McNary of Oregon could count on at least 35 seats, compared with 29 now.

In the House, their total had mounted to 177—eleven more than the old Republican total. A majority is 218 and the undecided races conceivably could turn the tide.

The Democrats had elected 191 House members and had lost a net of 31, three of which resulted from reapportionment of districts as a result of population changes.

A Republican whirlwind that ripped through the midwest, cut over to the Atlantic coast and threatened an offshoot in the Rocky Mountain area, provided some surprises in the Senate races.

New Deal Democrats took it on the chin in such unexpected places as Oklahoma, where Senator Josh Lee, staunch Roosevelt supporter and advocate of a proposed "bone dry" amendment to the 'teen age draft bill, was defeated by a Willkie Democrat, E. H. Moore.

Norris Becomes Lame Duck

The Senate's only Independent, 81-year-old George W. Norris, apparently wound up the political career that has kept him in Congress for 39 years when he went down in defeat before Kenneth S. Wherry, a Republican, in a three-way contest.

Norris, the father of the constitutional amendment eliminating lame duck sessions of Congress, thus becomes a "lame duck" himself.

Norris was the only senator running with President Roosevelt's personal indorsement, but in his defeat was matched by the loss of three other consistent administration votes in the Senate—those of Senators Clyde Herring of Iowa, William H. Smathers of New Jersey, and Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan.

Republican Gov. George A. Wilson defeated Herring in Iowa and Albert W. Hawkes, Republican industrialist, disposed of Smathers in New Jersey, despite support of the Democratic incumbent by Mayor Frank Hague's organization in Jersey City.

C. Douglass Buck, Republican, claimed the Delaware senatorial seat which E. Ennals Berl had sought to win after displacing Senator James H. Hughes as the Democratic nominee.

Gov. Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota, a Republican, defeated Tom Berry, who had won the Democratic senatorial nomination over the incumbent, Senator William J. Bulow.

Still undecided were races in Coloradio, where two seats were open, Idaho, Montana, West Virginia and Wyoming. Opponents had not yet conceded the elections of Senators Chandler (D-Ky.), Ball (R-Minn.) and Hatch D-N.M.) but they held commanding leads.

West Is Undecided

Judge Homer Ferguson, Detroit's "one-man grand jury," defeated Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan Democrat who acted as the administration's leader for price control and economic stabilization legislation.

Senator Harry H. Swartz, staunch Democratic supporter of the President, was lagging behind E. V. Robertson, his Republican opponent, in Wyoming.

In Colorado, Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, was in a seesaw battle with Republican Gov. Ralph L. Carr, but Senator Eugene D. Millikin, Republican, built up a lead over his Democratic opponent, James A. Marsh, for a short term.

Idaho's race found Senator John Thomas, Republican, leading Glen Taylor, Democrat, and in Montana, Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, was slightly ahead of Wellington D. Rankin, Republican.

West Virginia provided a surprising showing with Chapman Revercomb, Republican, apparently far outdistancing Democratic Gov. M. M. Neely's effort to return to the senate which he had quit to become the state's chief executive.

In all, the Republicans had elected 14 senators and the Democrats 13, on the basis of incomplete returns.

Senator C. Wayland Brooks came through with a smashing victory in Illinois, but Styles Bridges was pushed to win in New Hampshire and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., had trouble disposing of his Democratic opponent in Massachusetts.

As expected, senate republican leader McNary won handily in Oregon, as did Senator Arthur Capper in Kansas. Wallace H. White, Jr., was the first republican re-elected in Maine's voting Sept. 14.

South Remains Loyal

Democratic victories were confined mostly to the solid south, with the exception of Nevada, where Rep. James C. Scrugham (D) defeated his republican opponent, Cecil M. Creel, to fill out the term of the late Senator Key Pittman.

Senator Theodore F. Green (D) won re-election in Rhode Island. other democratic senators chosen included Bankhead, Alabama; John L. McClellan, Arkansas; Russell, Georgia; Stewart, Tennessee; Ellender, Louisiana; James O. Eastland, Mississippi, Maybank, South Carolina; Bailey, North Carolina; Glass, Virginia; and O'Daniel, Texas.

NEWS FROM LIBERIA

An American base for hunting submarines is reported on the West African coast, in Liberia. Of all African states this is the one with which the United States has the closest connection. Even before the anti-slavery agitation, the enslavement of the Negro troubled the conscience of many Americans. The northern states, one by one, freed him. The people of the border and southern states, in general, were not prepared to do so. One reason was their unwillingness to retain in their midst large numbers of freed Negroes.

An obvious solution was to free the Negro and settle him outside the boundaries of the United States. With this purpose the American Colonization Society was founded in 1816, with George Washington's nephew as its first president. In 1822 the society bought Liberia from its native owners. In 1847 it became an independent republic, and has continued as such ever since.

With rich and largely undeveloped resources, Liberia has been repeatedly eyed by European powers, but American protection has kept them away. Recently our rubber interests have made a beginning there, and this product will undoubtedly bring Liberia into the news more and more. Meanwhile, as the only independent Negro state and as one founded and maintained under our auspices, Liberia remains peculiarly interesting to Americans.

SONGS FOR AMERICA

Many people grieve at the death of Ralph Rainger, song writer, who was killed with eleven other persons in an airplane crash at Palm Springs, Cal. He composed, with Leo Robin, many songs that in the words of a great philosopher, "went home to men's hearths and bosoms." Among them were "Moanin' Low," "June in January," "With Every Breath I Take," and "All of Me." There was a quality in his songs much finer and higher than the general ruck of American minstrelsy in recent years.

But there will be other minstrels now, and greater ones, to meet the moods of the new age into which the nation has been plunged. With the challenge and the fighting comes a new stirring of emotions such as have not been felt for a long time. They are sure to find expression in song. And in the new songs may be expected, along with sentiment and emotion, the vigor that comes with the awakening of a powerful nation. There should be great battle songs along with the long songs.

AMERICA'S MUSICIAN

"If I can but make a nation's songs, I care not who makes its laws." If there be truth in this old saying, then John Philip Sousa, whose birthday will be celebrated on November 6 has meant more to the United States than many a Congressman.

If ever there was a youthful prodigy, it was Sousa. He studied the violin at six, won all the school medals for music at eight, and enlisted in the United States Marine Band at 13. Later serving as its conductor for 12 years, he resigned to organize his own band. This earned its first popularity at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, and toured the country for many years afterward. In the last war he served as lieutenant in charge of navy bands. He died in 1932 at the age of 78.

What people remember about him is, of course, his music. Marches like "El Capitan" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever" are a permanent part of American life. While there have been greater musicians, few have meant more to their country.

KEEPING CALM

"In times like these," asks the Rev. Horace F. Westwood of Somerville, Mass., "when fear seems to possess the heart of the world and civilization trembles on the brink of disaster, what can the individual do to restore that confidence which is the first condition of peace and world-wide security?

"It seems to me that the most important contribution any one of us can make is to maintain our emotional stability. In these troubled days the most useful persons are those who keep sane; who, in the midst of almost universal fear and hysteria, remain collected and calm. Mistrust and suspicion, like cruelty and hatred, are contagious. But so are confidence and courage. Every person who in the midst of threatened disaster can stand firm, becomes a tower of strength to others."

FREE FOOTBALL

At last the gate crashers have come into their own. In Spokane, Wash., a free football game has been staged for their benefit by the Athletic Round Table. This organization last year started the "Bundles for Congress" drive which halted the attempt of our representatives to vote themselves pensions.

Having settled the pension question, the Round Table thought the country needed a free football game. So it arranged a conflict between Eastern Washington and Pacific Lutheran, entirely free, but with one section reserved for misguided fans who, in the recent world's series, had bet on the New York Yankees. The other stands were open to the Society of Enfeebled Gate Crashers.

Football has tended to get into the big money brackets. The Round Table's countermove has cheered the people lucky enough to live within its radius. All America will await its next move.

THE RIGHT TO KILL

"If I can send the flower of the German nation into the hell of war without the smallest pity for the spilling of precious German blood, then surely I have the right to remove millions of an inferior race that breeds like vermin."

Thus Hitler revealed his character and his curious logic in a conversation in 1934, with one of the original Nazis who has become horrified at the tendencies of the movement. He has of course no right to do either, but that troubles him not at all. He will continue to spread murder throughout the world until he is stopped by the United Nations.

The Japs are a good deal like ants pouring out of an ant hill. The more you step on, the more there seem to be.

Sure, this is a rational world. Everybody's rationed now.

CANNED FOODS

We are being told that one of the effects of the war will be that all fruits and other foodstuffs will be deprived of their water and the remainder will be shipped or stored; water added when the food is to be used. As a matter of fact, there is nothing new about this as apples, pears, apricots, prunes and other food products have been dried in this manner for generations.

Perhaps many are asking about canned foods. They have been buying canned fruits, canned vegetables and canned meats and find them tasty and apparently just as nourishing as when fresh.

Are canned foods just as nourishing as fresh foods?

Research workers state that many of the fruits and vegetables lose much of their food value, minerals and vitamins as they lie exposed in the shops, then lose some of their minerals and vitamins during the cooking process. Thus, apparently fresh foods, purchased in the store and even cooked the same day, have lost as much as 25 to 40 per cent of their total food value, including those necessary food factors—the vitamins and minerals.

What about canned foods?

In The British Lancet some months ago Dr. William Savage reported that after an extensive examination of this problem it was found that from the standpoint of nourishment, canned foods compare favorably with fresh foods, when allowance is made for the fact that canned goods are already prepared for users and fresh foods must undergo the losses which must take place in home preparation and cooking.

"In modern canning so much attention is paid to the preservation of the vitamins that, as regards vitamin content, they are not, in general, inferior to the same foods after ordinary cooking, and in some instances, superior. The view that canned goods are devitalized foods is not supported by research students of nutrition."

Further, it can be definitely stated that canned foods are considerably less liable than ordinary food to cause food poisoning.

"Canned foods can be accepted as a safe and convenient source of food supply and without any special hazards, nutritional, chemical or bacterial (containing harmful organisms)".

Vitamin Chart

Do you know which foods are rich in each of the different vitamins? Which foods are poor in vitamin content? Send today for this interesting little leaflet by Dr. Barton called 'Vitamin Chart'. To obtain it just send five cents (coin preferred) to Dr. J. W. Barton, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service
(Wide World Features)

Because of a reversal of government policy in effect during World War I, stamp collectors today have the opportunity of dressing up their collections as well as showing their patriotism by the inclusion of war stamps.

War stamps, not catalogued in World War I, now are being catalogued for the first time. As a contribution to the war effort, the New York dealers, R. J. Scott Stamp & Coin Co., are selling sets of war stamps in singles, blocks of four and panes, all at face value, and are supplying the purchasers loose-leaf scheets for mounting, without cost.

The stamps, as you probably know, are in 10, 25 and 50 cent, $1 and $5 denominations.

Argentina has issued three new stamps, all in attractive designs. One is a 35-cent blue express stamp which shows the general post office building at Buenos Aires. A new stamp for airmail service comes in a design similar to a previous issue. It is a 30-cent orange, formerly lithographed and now printed by offset. The design shows the shadow of an airplane against the back of an envelope.

The third stamp commemorates the "Day of the Race" and is in the value of 15 cents, with the all-blue design showing the so-called Columbus lighthouse and bearing the dates October 12, 1492-1942. This stamp honors the Spanish blood of Argentina's pioneers and refers to the 450th anniversary of Columbus' venture. Stamps honoring racial ties have been issued in previous years by other South and Central American countries including Paraguay, Nicaragua, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic. It is the first stamp of this nature issued by Argentina since 1929.

Paraguay has issued four emergency stamps of one and seven peso values while awaiting arrival of a commemorative set recently mentioned here. The emergency set is of smaller size than normal . . . A new Brazilian stamp now available commemorates the fourth national Eucharistic congress in Sao Paulo. Value is 400 reis, the design of church coat of arms being in light brown. . . . Added to war prints now available is a set from Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika, the three countries using the same stamps. There are seven values. Such stamps are of interest because they usually are of slightly inferior quality due to wartime shortages.

No Two-Timer

Fort Riley, Kas. (AP)—Sgt. Joe Louis appeared recently at the army hospital with a cramp in leg. "How'd you get it Joe?" asked the attendant. "Out marching on the parade ground," said the sergeant. "Why, I thought you used to run 15 miles a day when you were in training!" said the astonished attendant. 'Sure I did," responded Joe. "But man, that ain't nothing like double time on the parade ground!"

Decorations on cakes are to be omitted in England for the duration.

Roosevelt Took Different Action From That of Wilson as Concerned Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 4—Unlike the last election held in the midst of war, the President of the United States took no step directly or indirectly toward influencing the voters to support the majority party.

Whether this was because President Wilson's appeal for a Democratic Congress in 1918 was resented by the voters or because the present administration felt sure it could maintain control anyway, the record shows that President Roosevelt meticulously refrained from taking a partisan position so far as the Congress was concerned.

In his own home state, of course, Mr. Roosevelt expressed a preference for governor, but this is in accordance with custom and is a privilege which every President in the past has exercised without incurring hostile criticism.

Perhaps more significant than the forebearance of the President is the attitude of the electorate itself. With rare exceptions the campaign has been fought on a win-the-war basis, and there has been a healthy rivalry between the parties in asserting that its members could do more than the other toward attaining the objective—victory.

But even considering the fact that the war mechanism itself has been kept free from political entanglement and the President has not taken part, the unfortunate fact remains that the election campaign was damaging to the war effort. Members found it necessary to go home to meet the attacks of would-be-members, and this meant that for the last several weeks the Congress has had only a handful here to do business. Nobody can feel proud of the anti-inflation law, which was about the most hastily drawn and ambiguously phrased legislation passed in many years. Whether this was because a campaign made it difficult to be explicit, lest some members be punished by minority groups, or whether it was because the Congress did not feel free to debate the measure or to give it the consideration it deserved, the net result was a law that has already antagonized many groups because inequitable regulations and interpretations have been derived from it.

Many vital studies that should have been made by Congress on the draft and manpower problems have been put aside, and the whole tendency has been to abandon the legislative process for the time being so that the members could go home to conduct their campaigns.

No such disruption has been found necessary in the other democracies allied with us in this war. Thus, it has been a long time since Britain had an election for Parliament, and the same is true for Canada. In the parliamentary states, agreement between the parties makes possible postponement of an election till an opportune time, while in America, because the constitution fixes the date, it becomes necessary to hold an election no matter how inopportune the occasion may be. Thus in 1940 after France fell and America discovered the big emergency demanded immediate expansion of the army and navy, it was necessary for the Commander-in-Chief to become absorbed in a presidential campaign if he wished to stay in power and if the majority of the people concurred in that idea. Abroad—just across the line in Canada, for instance—under the parliamentary system, the legislative body can decide when it wants a change in the executive.

It may well happen that in 1944 the country will be faced with the same situation that confronted it in 1940, and a large number of persons will insist that there be no change in the midst of war. Yet if the war should end six months after the election and a change should then be desirable, the people would have no opportunity for an election to bring about such a change.

The congressional election of 1942 is over. The people can well ask themselves the question whether it has been worthwhile and whether the same objective—an expression of the will of the electorate—could not be achieved henceforth just the same through a constitutional amendment giving the people the right to have an election at any time. This would mean the right to defer or postpone an election, presidential or congressional, when the nation is absorbed in a crisis involving the very safety of the republic.

NEW HURLEY

New Hurley, Nov. 4—The following members of the New Hurley Missionary Society attended the Missionary Conference of the Classis of Orange, in the Dutch Reformed Church October 27: Mrs. John W. Tysse, Mrs. Wilbur J. Van Wyck, Mrs. Marcus L. Birch, Mrs. Elwood Powell, Mrs. Iva Low, Mrs. Myra Dolan, Mrs. Joseph W. Monell, Mrs. Edna DuBois and Mrs. Edward Powell.

Nearly 300 people were served at the turkey supper held in the New Hurley Church hall last Wednesday evening. The net proceeds amounted to about $130.00. The members of the Young Women's Club thank all who helped to make this a success.

The Young Women's Club will meet on Saturday afternoon, November 7, at the home of Mrs. Leland VanKleeck. Mrs. Elmer Fries will be assistant hostess.

Mrs. Edna DuBois spent Tuesday night with Mrs. Alberta Clark in Newburgh.

Theodore Van Wyck of Alhambra, Cal., is visiting his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Van-Wyck. He expects to spend the winter with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Wyck, in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Garrison and sons, John and Robert, were dinner guests of Mrs. Garrison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCord, near Ireland Corners on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barley and daughter, Brenda, of Accord, visited Mrs. Barley's sister and family, the Rev. and Mrs. John W. Tysse, on Sunday.

The Missionary Society of the New Hurley Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Heidke on Thursday afternoon, November 12, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Nicholas Cocks will act as assistant hostess. Mrs. Wilbur J. Van Wyck will be the leader on the topic, "Latest News About Reformed Church Work in Kentucky." The Kentucky mission Christmas box will be packed at this meeting. All are asked to bring gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Galic and son, Bobby, were recent guests of Mr. Galic's parents at Whitehall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Magan and Mr. and Mrs. John McGarry and daughters, have been spending a few days at the Magan home here.

Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Cocks spent the week-end with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Grill, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell and Mrs. Martha Whitmore of Plattekill were in Middletown on Sunday and called on their aunt and cousins, Mrs. Elsie LeFevre, and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Barr.

The junior choir sang the anthem in the New Hurley Church on Sunday morning. It is now being directed by Miss Ruth Hubbert, teacher at the New Hurley school.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The Shadow of Things to Come: Covering Washington from the War Department on lower Constitution to Congress on Capitol Hill, one must inevitably come to the conclusion that future historians may well look back on the fall and early winter of 1942 as the "turning point" in the war.

The reasons: (1) the Solomon Islands battle has spread to the whole 1,200-mile long Coral Sea and may go down as the greatest battle the Pacific ever has seen.

(2) The United Nations' offensive in Egypt is more than a sideshow and could be the beginning of the end of the battle for Africa and control of the Mediterranean.

(3) The battle for Stalingrad (and the striking power the Russians have left when it is over) may determine the fate of the Eastern front.

No. 4. There is a growing conviction here that the striking power of the United Nations in Great Britain (both in the air and on the ground) is rapidly being brought to such strength that it is no longer possible for the Nazis to ignore the fact that the "second front" is on the move.

(5) Air power of the United Nations in China is reaching the point where the Japs must give it serious consideration if they are to hold the gains they have made.

(6) The battle of the Aleutians could determine the future supply lines to Russia and possibly to air bases near the heart of Japan.

On the home front: (7) The taxpayers have got their bill for the first real down payment on this war and now know what they are up against.

(8) The manpower problem, though far from solved, is getting the kind of blitz treatment that foreshadows epoch-making wartime legislation.

No. 9. Price control, rationing, forced savings and all the other factors in the war on inflation are shaping into accepted facts and the public is cooperating whole-heartedly in regulatory measures that a year ago brought a storm of controversy whenever they were mentioned.

(10) The United States has had its off-year elections. Don't underestimate the importance of this. For a year at least and maybe longer, the legislative branch can settle to its task without casting too many distracting glances at the ballot box. It doesn't, of course, mean an end to politics—but it does mean that the members on both sides of the Capitol can come to grips with the problems ahead without fear of immediate loss of their jobs.

If you are interested in following the course of this war, measure the news of the next few weeks by those ten yardsticks.

If things go well, the period may be marked as that in which the United Nations and the United States quit sparring for time and started on the move. If things don't go well, it will be another story but perhaps no less a turning point. It at least would postpone victory for months, maybe years.

Fish Retains Post in Congress By Wide Margin

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—The combined assault of the Democratic and American Labor parties, plus Republican defection, today had failed to unseat U. S. Representative Hamilton Fish, pre-Pearl Harbor isolationist and frequent critic of President Roosevelt's policies.

Complete unofficial returns from 225 election districts in the President's home congressional district, the 26th, the victory over Ferdinand A. Hoyt, the Democratic and A. L. P. candidate was: Fish, 48,752; Hoyt, 44,691.

A committee of independent Republicans, including Augustus W. Bennett, whom Fish defeated in the party primary, vigorously supported Hoyt. Both Republican Governor-Elect Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell Willkie, the party's nominee for president in 1940, called for Fish's defeat before the G. O. P. primary, but did not participate in the inter-party battle. And although the President took no active part in the district campaign, two high administration officials, James V. Forrestal, under secretary of the Navy, and Robert E. Patterson, under secretary of War, both residents of the district, urged that Fish be retired from the post he has held since 1920.

Fish claimed victory last night and in a statement charged that the campaign against him was "based on abuse and vilification."

"It was planned and organized for months by the Communists, Reds and leftwing New Dealers to impugn my character, patriotism and Americanism in order to deceive the people and to purge me for trying to keep America out of war unless attacked, and for outspoken opposition to the regimentation and collectivism of the New Deal and its gestapo methods that threaten free government," he said.

Dewey Doubles Wawarsing Majority of Four Years Ago

The town of Wawarsing returned to the Republican fold with a bang Tuesday and under the leadership of Supervisor Charles Kaiser, Jr., gave Dewey for governor a majority of 572. This compares with a majority of 279 received in the town in 1938 and with a Roosevelt majority of around 600 two years ago.

Unofficial figures of a complete tabulation of the vote in the town made at the Kaiser & Cohen office early in the evening showed the following majorities in the town, all Republican candidates being well ahead of their Democratic opponents: Dewey, 572; Wallace, 343; Moore, 289; Goldstein, 362; LeFevre, 350; Wicks, 455; Wadlin, 406; Snyder, 249; Haver, 349.

Vote on representatives-at-large was tabulated as follows: Stanley, D, 1,619; Muzzicato, R, 1,519; Johnson, D, 1,281; Merritt, D, 1,246. In 1940 Democratic candidates for representatives-at-large carried all of the nine districts in the town but one.

Over 200 votes were cast for Alfange for governor.

Wawarsing Town Budget

Acting in compliance with the recently enacted law the town board of the town of Wawarsing has adopted the following tentative list of salaries of town officials for the coming year. A public review will be held on Thursday, November 5. Supervisor, $2,800; justices, $3,300; councilman, $300; town superintendent, $2,400; assessors, $2,550; welfare officer, $1,500; tax collector, $1,500.

Hawkes Defeats Senator Smathers

Unofficial Returns Show Incumbent Loses

Newark, N. J., Nov. 4 (AP)—New Jersey voters have elected Republican Albert W. Hawkes to the United States Senate in the place of William H. Smathers, incumbent Democrat who sought reelection as a supporter of President Roosevelt.

Unofficial returns from 3,497 of the state's 3,635 election districts gave these figures today:

Hawkes 628,934.
Smathers 531,266.

Democratic Representative William H. Sutphin also was beaten after serving 12 years from the third district, his seat being won by Mayor James C. Auchincloss of the wealthy little borough of Rumson. Republicans and Democrats held all their other districts, to make the state's delegation 11 to 3 for the next congress with G.O.P. on the long end.

Smathers had charged that Hawkes "bought" his nomination, exceeding the $50,000 primary expenditure limitation and Hawkes had denied the charge, which is now before a senate investigating committee.

Smathers identified the former president of the United States chamber of Commerce and member of the war labor board as a "labor baiter" and "industralist bully." Hawkes retorted the senator was alternately a Rooseveltian "rubber stamp" and a senatorial absentee who failed to vote on the declaration of war against Germany and other major measures.

Democratic party strife between Governor Charles Edison and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, nation vice chairman, played a strong undercurrent in the voting. Edison failed to endorse Smathers, who lost the Edison-Hawkes home county of Essex by 54,000 while carrying Hague's county of Hudson by 100,000.

Three Democratic state legislators were beaten after Edison said the Hague forces decided to ditch them to spite the governor.

Baldwin Wins Against Hurley

G. O. P. Sweeps to Office in Decisive Victory

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4 (AP)—The Connecticut electorate recalled Raymond E. Baldwin to the governorship on the surge of a Republican victory in Tuesday's election that swept Democrats out of all major state offices and cost them five House seats in Congress.

In the most decisive Republican victory in more than a decade, the 49-year-old Baldwin carried the state by more than 26,000 votes, wresting the biggest prize at stake from Governor Robert A. Hurley, the Democratic nominee who two years ago beat him for re-election by 13,780.

The unofficial complete vote gave Baldwin, a lawyer, 282,238 votes against 255,811 for Hurley, and 33,335 for Mayor Jasper McLevy of Bridgeport, who made his tenth unsuccessful bid for the governorship as the Socialist nominee.

Besides ousting Democrats from all the major state offices, Republicans unseated five Democratic Representatives in Congress and re-elected the sixth, Representative Joseph E. Talbot of the fifth district.

One of the seats wrested from the Democrats went to Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, the writer, who thus became the first woman in Connecticut to win a Congressional post. The blonde, attractive Mrs. Luce, whose husband, Henry W. Luce, edits Time, Life and Fortune magazines, defeated Representative Leroy Downs, Norwalk publisher 63,623 to 56,850.

Mrs. Luce, who is 39 years old, polled the highest plurality of any of the Congressional contestants.

So decisive was the Republican victory that for the first time since 1929, one party will be in absolute control of both the executive and legislative branches.

Republicans maintained their dominance in the state House of Representatives and wiped out the Democratic margin in the state Senate.

Quiet for Firemen

Election Interest High in Britain

London Papers Give Front Pages to Returns

London, Nov. 4 (AP) — Britons, who have not voted in a general election since 1935, got a vicarious political kick today from returns of the United States balloting.

One London newspaper made the election the principal story of the day. Others gave it unusual display. Most of them printed the returns on front pages.

The Evening Standard, which has given the opposition fresh force and the election of Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York "is significant of the new trend."

With thousands of Americans in Britain, interest reached an unprecedented pitch for an off-year election. News agencies received many telephone calls from soldiers and civilians asking the results.

The Stars and Stripes, A. E. F. newspaper, planned to print the results of the balloting for major offices state by state.

MRS. DEWEY ACCOMPANIES HUSBAND

Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey stands by as her husband, the Republican candidate for governor, signs in a registry book at a New York city voting place.

Election Highlights

(By The Associated Press)

Election of Republican Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York gave tremendous impetus to a political career that more than two years ago was pointed toward the White House and has moved steadily in that direction despite every obstacle.

But for 81-year-old George Norris of Nebraska the story was just the reverse. Norris, an independent whose sometimes stormy service in the senate totaled 30 consecutive years, was defeated for reelection. His term will end with the year. Meanwhile the father of the constitutional amendment which ended "Lame Duck" sessions of congress will himself be a "Lame Duck."

In addition to their victory in New York, the Republicans upset Democratic state control in at least three other states—California, Connecticut and Michigan. The spread of these state victories was significant in answering any argument that the Republican resurgence was of regional importance only.

Republican senate victories included at least six upsets: In Nebraska, where Norris was defeated, and in Iowa, New Jersey, Delaware, Oklahoma and South Dakota.

There was intense interest in the house contests as the counting of votes progressed. Democrats held a dwindling margin of seats. The great question was whether, when all returns were in, the Republicans would have nosed out the Democrats to win a house majority.

One of the biggest upsets in the senate was the defeat of Senator Josh Lee (D) in Oklahoma by an anti-New Deal Republican.

Rep. Andrew J. May, chairman of the House Military Committee whose support of administration war measures recently won praise from President Roosevelt, trailed in the early count in his Kentucky district but later forged into the lead.

Share in Fogg Estate

New York, Nov. 2 (Special)—Leeds, Saugerties and East Durham residents share in the estate left by the late Charles Burton Fogg of New York, it was disclosed in a New York State Transfer Tax Department report filed here today. Mary J. Goodrich, grandniece of the testator's wife, of Leeds, is left approximately $38,000. Mrs. Edith G. Goodrich of Leeds, a niece, receives $2,000, and Alice Newell, also of Leeds, is the recipient of $850 in realty. Legacies of $1,000 each go to John Goodrich of Saugerties and Naomi Field of East Durham. Mr. Fogg died June 4, 1941, leaving property which was appraised here today at $193,388 gross value, $118,680 net.

Sanborn Seeks Temporary School; Meeting Is Held

Sanborn, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP) — Sanborn residents are seeking a building to house 67 pupils, left without classrooms by a fire which destroyed their schoolhouse and which evidently was set to cremate their principal.

The two-story, 50-year-old school burned Monday night. The principal, Milton Gurvitz, 22, told state police the blaze was started by two hooded, armed men who, he said, left him bound and gagged in the building before setting a match to alcohol which he reported they sprinkled on the floor.

Plans for emergency accommodations for the children were discussed at a mass meeting last night which crowded the village's Methodist Church. Dr. Harry Rockwell, president of Buffalo State Teacher's College, told the group:

"I hope you will not be intimidated by any such nefarious attack in your community." He offered to make room for the children in the state college building.

Gurvitz was quoted by state police inspector Eugene F. Hoyt as saying he had received two notes last week telling him to get out of town. One of them, Hoyt asserted, was signed "100 per cent American" and the other, unsigned, said "we don't want a Jew around."

Miss M. Gazelle Hoffman of Lewiston, district superintendent of schools, said at last night's meeting "this is one of the saddest days of my life and I know this is a great blow to you people here in Sanborn.

"I feel very much ashamed to think that such a thing could happen in the town of Sanborn."

The principal had "an excellent record" at Buffalo Teachers' College—"was in the highest ten of his class." Dr. Rockwell said. "We have not had in the past any criticism of him whatever. We have worked with him and lived with him."

Mrs. Luce Wins In Connecticut

Election to Congress Proves Americans Would 'Fight Hard Way,' She Says

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 4 (AP)—Blonde Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, 39-year-old editor, playwright, author, lecturer and foreign correspondent, has added a diamond to her crown of accomplishments—election as United States Representative from the fourth congressional district of Connecticut.

The Republican candidate took her victory as a sign that the American people "want to fight a hard war, not a soft one, efficiently and without bungling."

"This election proves how the American people want to fight the war," she said after being told she had won yesterday.

"I've campaigned for fighting a hard war, not a soft one, because I know the American people want to fight it out with their eyes open, not with blinkers."

It was on that theme that Mrs. Luce, wife of Time-Life and Fortune editor, Henry Luce, conducted her campaign. She started off by calling her Democratic opponent, newspaper publisher Leroy D. Downs of Norwalk, one of the "rubber stamps in Congress who are bungling the war."

It was he who in 1940 defeated Mrs. Luce's step-father, the late Dr. Albert E. Austin, for re-election.

The successful candidate married Luce, her second husband, in 1935, after having worked two years on Vogue magazine. Her most successful play, "The Women," arived on Broadway a year later. Two more hits, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" and "Margin for Error," quickly followed.

She made her political debut campaigning for Wendell Willkie in 1940 and since then has corresponded for her husband's magazines from the Philippines and India, Burma and China.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

BY John Barclay

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Use the Right Size of Coal

MANY people are under the impression that there is only one size of anthracite coal. Many others think that it makes no difference what size is used in the furnace. Anthracite coal is prepared and sold in several home sizes. One of these sizes will give best results in your furnace and more useful heat for the least money, or it may be that a combination of sizes will give you better results in your particular heating plant.

Usually the size of coal to be used is determined by the size of the firebox. Fireboxes that are 24" or more in diameter and 16" or more in depth require egg size coal. Those that are 18" to 23" in diameter and 12" to 15" in depth require stove size coal. Those that are less than 12" in depth usually require chestnut size coal.

The figures noted above are merely recommendations, subject to change by other factors, such as chimney construction, draft conditions and location of the house.

Your coal dealer by inspecting your heating plant will be able to tell you whether or not you are burning the correct size coal. If you feel that you are not getting satisfactory results from your furnace consult your coal dealer. He will be glad to assist you with your heating problems.

Human Nature. This "more abundant life" can never come to us through legislative or executive decree. Human nature refuses to accept such a rule of thumb procedure. It must be free to go its own way, no matter whether the answer is abundance or scarcity.

Recipe for Sanity

Are you worsted in a fight?
Laugh it off.
Are you cheated of your right?
Laugh it off.
Don't make tragedy of trifles,
Don't shoot butterflies with rifles—
Laugh it off.

Does your work get into kinks?
Laugh it off.
Are you near all sorts of brinks?
Laugh it off.
If it's sanity you're after
There's no recipe like laughter—
Laugh it off.
—Henry Rutherford Elliott.

You can't persuade if you're afraid.

We grow old because we pile up useless burdens of bad prejudices and worse memories.

The man who forgets will soon be forgotten.

There is no niche in the Hall of Fame for the man who decided to await developments.

Far too many things "that are good for us" have the same palatability as spinich.

An item in the New York Sun tells of a resident in one of the suburbs who returned home late one night and found the following message, in the handwriting of his Polish maid, fastened to the telephone:

Mz Mx Kuldop
Zo Zum Ykam Kulrop
Nemera Owlette Tzgonabe
Kulrop

He lay awake half the night wondering what the mysterious message could mean. In the morning the maid told him.

"Mrs. Mix called up. So soon you come, call her up. No matter how late it's gonna be, call her up."

Time has given to the American people the following clever story: City Councilman Harry Davenport of Pompton Lakes, N. J., got a letter from the local American Legion Post:

"You are invited to be one of the speakers at our Memorial Day meeting. The program will include a talk by the Mayor, recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by a high school pupil, your talk and then the firing squad.

An amiable old man was trying to win the friendship of the small daughter of the house.

Man—I'll give you a nickel for a kiss.

Girl—(sweetly)—No, thank you. I can make more money taking castor oil.

A friend writes to tell us that he saw the following newspaper advertisement. "Young man who gets paid on Monday and is broke by Wednesday would like to exchange small loans with a young man who gets paid on Wednesday and is broke by Monday."

The telephone rang in the press room at the White House. The reporter who picked up the receiver heard a Negro voice saying: "Hello—is this Doctah Adams?"

Reporter—No, this is the White House.

Voice—Oh, the White House, excuse me, Mistuh President!

Colonel (pointing to cigarette stub on company headquarter floor) Soldier, is that yours?

Rookie (pleasantly)—Not at all, sir, you saw it first.

Hospital Directors Get Preview of Christmas Seals

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association held at the tuberculosis office, members were given a preview of the 1942 Christmas Seals.

The seal this year is a cheery stamp and depicts a snow scene quite typical of our own Ulster county rural life. In the picture is a red barn, white farm house and a happy couple well clad starting off in their cutter with a fine team of horses.

It is a peaceful as well as a most colorful picture. The artist is Dale Nichols prominent member of the American Artists Groups.

The tuberculosis situation in Ulster county was also discussed by the group.

Dr. Clealand Sargent, District State Health Officer, a new member of the Association was present and gave a report of a recent survey he made of the tuberculosis situation.

Dr. Sargent spoke in the highest terms of the work carried on at the tuberculosis hospital and clinic and said it was one of the finest tuberculosis institutions he ever had visited. He praised Dr. Frederic Holcomb, the superintendent for his splendid work, and the city and county physicians for their extraordinary cooperation which is manifest in the number of reported cases in the county. There are 567 cases of positive cases in the county, about half of which are in Kingston.

The tuberculosis association was congratulated by Dr. Sargent for its tireless efforts in the tuberculosis health education program because without the cooperation of all its people no health program can be a success.

In the discussion that followed members unanimously voted to do all in their power to back officials and further efforts in the health education and tuberculosis control program. Every effort will be made to carry on so that our tuberculosis case and death rate in Ulster county will not increase because of war conditions.

Joyce-Schirick Post Obligates World War 2 Vet

KENNETH C. BOUCHARD

At a special meeting of Joyce Schirick Post No. 1386 Veterans of Foreign Wars held on Monday night at the Hotel Eichler, Kenneth C. Bouchard of this city had the honor of becoming the first comrade to take the obligation and therefore become the first member to join this post from the armed forces of World War No. 2. Comrade Bouchard left town today after spending a furlough with his uncle, Henry Fox, at 30 Ponckhockie street. Mr. Fox is a Spanish-American War veteran and a member of Joyce Schirick Post.

Comrade Bouchard is a survivor of the Aircraft Carrier Wasp which was sunk near the Solomon Islands a few weeks ago.

It is the intention of the Post to obligate the members of the armed forces who are now serving in foreign lands and hostile waters whenever they have the good fortune of securing a furlough. Special meetings will be called at any time to accommodate those men wishing to join the Veterans of Foreign Wars. In order to become a member of Joyce Schirick Post you must prove that you have seen active service overseas.

Edward J. Wortman, past commander, received word today that two more survivors of the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Wasp wish to join the post at a regular meeting to be held Thursday night at the Hotel Eichler. Comrade Wortman has been appointed chairman to recruit members from World War No. 2.

Any overseas man residing in Ulster county may join Joyce Schirick Post No. 1386, V.F.W. on his return home as this post is the only one situated in this county.

Every member is urged to be present at this very important meeting tomorrow night. A banquet will be served after the ceremonies.

Four Rs of Tires

Akron (AP) — Re-groove, retread, re-build and re-cap are four important words in motorists' vocabularies these days when tires can't be re-placed. Harold Gray, technical supervisor of the B. F. Goodrich company, says the four "re" words now confusing worried drivers have specific meanings. Re-groove, he says, means cutting new treads into old tires without adding any new materials. The War Production Board has turned thumbs down on this method because it wastes the rubber cut out to make grooves. Re-tread means ripping the worn tread, shoulder and even some shock-absorbing fiber off old tires and replacing with new. Re-build is sometimes used synonymously with re-tread. Re-cap has two grades—top-cap, which involves vulcanizing a new strip of tread onto worn tires, and full-cap, which means using a wider strip to cover the old tread and part of the tire shoulder as well. It requires less rubber than re-treadings. "Of the four," Gray points out, "re-capping rates with tire authorities as the most efficient way to make available rubber stocks go furthest, which makes it the best way we have to "keep 'em rolling."

Food Costs Are Still Reported to Be Low

Albany — "Workingmen's families can buy a basket of specified food products for the smallest share of family income on record since 1913. Average family income has been rising more rapidly than food prices during the past three years and throughout the first nine months of 1942, due to higher wage rates, more hours of work per week with overtime payments, and more persons employed." This statement in a federal-state report issued by the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets is credited to a recent analysis made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and is of course based on national averages.

The budget for foods commonly used by a non-farm family amounts to about 22 per cent of the family income at recent price levels. This compares with 27 per cent of the income for food in the period 1935-39, with 28 per cent in 1918 and 29 per cent in 1919, the year in which food took the highest proportion of increase.

The report points out that in September 1942 the rate of family income was 57 per cent over the 1935-39 level, while the cost of a typical food basket was up 26 per cent.

The prices at the farm of the products from which this basket was filled had risen 21 per cent during this period.

Farmer's Share of Consumer's Dollar

The farmer's share of the retail value of 58 important foods was 53 cents out of each dollar. This was the relationship prevailing in 1913-15 and in 1920. This share has been over 50 cents since September 1941. It was 42 cents in the 1935-39 period. The farmer's share of the consumer's dollar varies widely, ranging for example from 86 per cent in the case of pork products and 63 per cent for eggs (September) to 28 per cent for rolled oats, 20 per cent for white bread, and 11 per cent for soda crackers.

The marketing of food products includes labor costs as a rather large proportion of expense. An appreciable increase in marketing margins for food products has occurred in the last few months with the expectation that this trend will continue at least into the early part of 1943.

British to Help

London (AP) — United States truck and automobile drivers who have complained about the difficulty of finding their way about Britain's highways, devoid of signposts and lighting, will hereafter have the help of the British Automobile Association which is placing its services at the disposal of Americans. The United States Army Headquarters said American drivers could seek the association's advice on the best routes, receive convenient stops marked, and would have access to the repair service from Association scouts who patrol the highways on motorcycles.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Team Work

Elkhart, Ind.—City detectives solved a series of burglaries here with basketball plays—and here's how that trick was done:

Investigating a restaurant burglary, officers found a set of basketball plays. On a tour of county schools they found the coach who had issued copies of the plays to his team.

The boys were told to turn in their copies and the youth who was unable to do so quickly pleaded guilty to the restaurant job and several others.

Heavy Vote

Alameda, Idaho—The vote was too heavy in one precinct yesterday.

Citizens thronged into the village hall. The floor gave way and fell two feet to the ground. No one was hurt.

Election officials righted their equipment, and carefully rationed their voters thereafter.

Rotten Egg Situation

Belvidere, Ill.—John C. Weigel, regional Office of Price Administration chief, said some of the local sages clucked knowingly when eggs disappeared from the local stores—it was all a matter of inequalities of price ceilings, they asserted.

Federal trouble shooters sent out by Weigel came back with the report: "It is the moulting season for hens and they are laying fewer eggs."

Detective Detected

Emporia, Kas. — Everything looked suspicious all right. The stranger sat in his parked car while Police Chief Charles O'Brien's men sized him up.

Finally they hauled him in.

He had papers to prove he was a visiting detective trying to trail an evil doer.

Just Walk, Pal

Columbia, Mo.—The rubber situation may bring old Dobbin back, but—

If you lead, ride or drive a horse on any of Columbia's streets, you're breaking a law.

City Attorney A. D. Sappington, preparing to revise city ordinances, also learned it is unlawful to wash a horse on a city street or to hitch him to a fire plug or lamp post.

NEWS FROM LIBERIA

An American base for hunting submarines is reported on the West African coast, in Liberia. Of all African states this is the one with which the United States has the closest connection. Even before the anti-slavery agitation, the enslavement of the Negro troubled the conscience of many Americans. The northern states, one by one, freed him. The people of the border and southern states, in general, were not prepared to do so. One reason was their unwillingness to retain in their midst large numbers of freed Negroes.

An obvious solution was to free the Negro and settle him outside the boundaries of the United States. With this purpose the American Colonization Society was founded in 1816, with George Washington's nephew as its first president. In 1822 the society bought Liberia from its native owners. In 1847 it became an independent republic, and has continued as such ever since.

With rich and largely undeveloped resources, Liberia has been repeatedly eyed by European powers, but American protection has kept them away. Recently our rubber interests have made a beginning there, and this product will undoubtedly bring Liberia into the news more and more. Meanwhile, as the only independent Negro state and as one founded and maintained under our auspices, Liberia remains peculiarly interesting to Americans.

SONGS FOR AMERICA

Many people grieve at the death of Ralph Rainger, song writer, who was killed with eleven other persons in an airplane crash at Palm Springs, Cal. He composed, with Leo Robin, many songs that in the words of a great philosopher, "went home to men's hearths and bosoms." Among them were "Moanin' Low," "June in January," "With Every Breath I Take," and "All of Me." There was a quality in his songs much finer and higher than the general ruck of American minstrelsy in recent years.

But there will be other minstrels now, and greater ones, to meet the moods of the new age into which the nation has been plunged. With the challenge and the fighting comes a new stirring of emotions such as have not been felt for a long time. They are sure to find expression in song. And in the new songs may be expected, along with sentiment and emotion, the vigor that comes with the awakening of a powerful nation. There should be great battle songs along with the long songs.

AMERICA'S MUSICIAN

"If I can but make a nation's songs, I care not who makes its laws." If there be truth in this old saying, then John Philip Sousa, whose birthday will be celebrated on November 6 has meant more to the United States than many a Congressman.

If ever there was a youthful prodigy, it was Sousa. He studied the violin at six, won all the school medals for music at eight, and enlisted in the United States Marine Band at 13. Later serving as its conductor for 12 years, he resigned to organize his own band. This earned its first popularity at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, and toured the country for many years afterward. In the last war he served as lieutenant in charge of navy bands. He died in 1932 at the age of 78.

What people remember about him is, of course, his music. Marches like "El Capitan" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever" are a permanent part of American life. While there have been greater musicians, few have meant more to their country.

KEEPING CALM

"In times like these," asks the Rev. Horace F. Westwood of Somerville, Mass., "when fear seems to possess the heart of the world and civilization trembles on the brink of disaster, what can the individual do to restore that confidence which is the first condition of peace and world-wide security?

"It seems to me that the most important contribution any one of us can make is to maintain our emotional stability. In these troubled days the most useful persons are those who keep sane; who, in the midst of almost universal fear and hysteria, remain collected and calm. Mistrust and suspicion, like cruelty and hatred, are contagious. But so are confidence and courage. Every person who in the midst of threatened disaster can stand firm, becomes a tower of strength to others."

FREE FOOTBALL

At last the gate crashers have come into their own. In Spokane, Wash., a free football game has been staged for their benefit by the Athletic Round Table. This organization last year started the "Bundles for Congress" drive which halted the attempt of our representatives to vote themselves pensions.

Having settled the pension question, the Round Table thought the country needed a free football game. So it arranged a conflict between Eastern Washington and Pacific Lutheran, entirely free, but with one section reserved for misguided fans who, in the recent world's series, had bet on the New York Yankees. The other stands were open to the Society of Enfeebled Gate Crashers.

Football has tended to get into the big money brackets. The Round Table's countermove has cheered the people lucky enough to live within its radius. All America will await its next move.

THE RIGHT TO KILL

"If I can send the flower of the German nation into the hell of war without the smallest pity for the spilling of precious German blood, then surely I have the right to remove millions of an inferior race that breeds like vermin."

Thus Hitler revealed his character and his curious logic in a conversation in 1934, with one of the original Nazis who has become horrified at the tendencies of the movement. He has of course no right to do either, but that troubles him not at all. He will continue to spread murder throughout the world until he is stopped by the United Nations.

The Japs are a good deal like ants pouring out of an ant hill. The more you step on, the more there seem to be.

Sure, this is a rational world. Everybody's rationed now.

CANNED FOODS

We are being told that one of the effects of the war will be that all fruits and other foodstuffs will be deprived of their water and the remainder will be shipped or stored; water added when the food is to be used. As a matter of fact, there is nothing new about this as apples, pears, apricots, prunes and other food products have been dried in this manner for generations.

Perhaps many are asking about canned foods. They have been buying canned fruits, canned vegetables and canned meats and find them tasty and apparently just as nourishing as when fresh.

Are canned foods just as nourishing as fresh foods?

Research workers state that many of the fruits and vegetables lose much of their food value, minerals and vitamins as they lie exposed in the shops, then lose some of their minerals and vitamins during the cooking process. Thus, apparently fresh foods, purchased in the store and even cooked the same day, have lost as much as 25 to 40 per cent of their total food value, including those necessary food factors—the vitamins and minerals.

What about canned foods?

In The British Lancet some months ago Dr. William Savage reported that after an extensive examination of this problem it was found that from the standpoint of nourishment, canned foods compare favorably with fresh foods, when allowance is made for the fact that canned goods are already prepared for users and fresh foods must undergo the losses which must take place in home preparation and cooking.

"In modern canning so much attention is paid to the preservation of the vitamins that, as regards vitamin content, they are not, in general, inferior to the same foods after ordinary cooking, and in some instances, superior. The view that canned goods are devitalized foods is not supported by research students of nutrition."

Further, it can be definitely stated that canned foods are considerably less liable than ordinary food to cause food poisoning.

"Canned foods can be accepted as a safe and convenient source of food supply and without any special hazards, nutritional, chemical or bacterial (containing harmful organisms)".

Vitamin Chart

Do you know which foods are rich in each of the different vitamins? Which foods are poor in vitamin content? Send today for this interesting little leaflet by Dr. Barton called 'Vitamin Chart'. To obtain it just send five cents (coin preferred) to Dr. J. W. Barton, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N.Y., mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

(Wide World Features)

Because of a reversal of government policy in effect during World War I, stamp collectors today have the opportunity of dressing up their collections as well as showing their patriotism by the inclusion of war stamps.

War stamps, not catalogued in World War I, now are being catalogued for the first time. As a contribution to the war effort, the New York dealers, R. J. Scott Stamp & Coin Co., are selling sets of war stamps in singles, blocks of four and panes, all at face value, and are supplying the purchasers loose-leaf scheets for mounting, without cost.

The stamps, as you probably know, are in 10, 25 and 50 cent, $1 and $5 denominations.

Argentina has issued three new stamps, all in attractive designs. One is a 35-cent blue express stamp which shows the general post office building at Buenos Aires. A new stamp for airmail service comes in a design similar to a previous issue. It is a 30-cent orange, formerly lithographed and now printed by offset. The design shows the shadow of an airplane against the back of an envelope.

The third stamp commemorates the "Day of the Race" and is in the value of 15 cents, with the all-blue design showing the so-called Columbus lighthouse and bearing the dates October 12, 1492-1942. This stamp honors the Spanish blood of Argentina's pioneers and refers to the 450th anniversary of Columbus' venture. Stamps honoring racial ties have been issued in previous years by other South and Central American countries including Paraguay, Nicaragua, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic. It is the first stamp of this nature issued by Argentina since 1929.

Paraguay has issued four emergency stamps of one and seven peso values while awaiting arrival of a commemorative set recently mentioned here. The emergency set is of smaller size than normal . . . A new Brazilian stamp now available commemorates the fourth national Eucharistic congress in Sao Paulo. Value is 400 reis, the design of church coat of arms being in light brown. . . . Added to war prints now available is a set from Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika, the three countries using the same stamps. There are seven values. Such stamps are of interest because they usually are of slightly inferior quality due to wartime shortages.

No Two-Timer

Fort Riley, Kas. (AP)—Sgt. Joe Louis appeared recently at the army hospital with a cramp in leg. "How'd you get it Joe?" asked the attendant. "Out marching on the parade ground," said the sergeant. "Why, I thought you used to run 15 miles a day when you were in training!" said the astonished attendant. "Sure I did," responded Joe. "But man, that ain't nothing like double time on the parade ground!"

Decorations on cakes are to be omitted in England for the duration.

The Christian Endeavor Societies of the Reformed Church held a special song and worship service Sunday evening, November 1, in observance of Reformation Sunday.

The worship service was opened with a piano prelude by Chopin, played by Miss Helen Behrens. Bruce Davis, president of the Senior C. E. presided. The scripture was read by William Lounsbury, president of the Intermediate society. Donald Whitaker, president of the Junior society gave a prayer and Jean Page and Elnora Houghtaling read a prayer respectively.

The Senior choir sang as an anthem, Martin Luther's, "A Mighty Fortress in Our God." The Juniors sang Luther's "Cradle Hymn."

A song service followed consisted of hymns of the early Protestant Church. The Rev. George Berens gave a brief introduction to each hymn, showing how the author received his inspiration from scripture and how the hymn was connected with the Reformation movement. The singing was led by Miss Roberta Hotaling, C. E. song leader, with Mrs. Floyd Beesmer at the organ.

At this service the following C. E. officers and committee chairmen for the year were installed by the pastor and Mrs. Alfred Lane: Senior C. E. President, Bruce Davis; Vice-president, Elnora Houghtaling; Secretary, Ruth Webster; Assistant Secretary, Janis Fowler; Treasurer, Jean Page; Assistant Treasurer, Charles Benton; Devotional Committee, Kenneth Beesmer; Social Committee, Elnora Houghtaling; Extension Committee, Jean Page; World Service Committee, Marjorie Bonesteel.

Intermediate C. E. President, William Lounsbury; Vice-president, Dorothy Bonesteel; Secretary, Ronald Stagg; Treasurer, Barbara Webster; Devotional Committee, Clark Mains; Social Committee, William Webster; Extension Committee, Barbara Hutt; Cheer Committee, Ross Beesmer.

Junior C. E.: President, Donald Whitaker; Vice-president, Beatrice Bonesteel; Secretary, Wayne Berens; Treasurer, Walter Hansen; Assistant Treasurer, Clark Bonesteel.

The service closed with the C. E. benediction. Matthew Davis and Ronald Stagg of the Intermediate society served as ushers.

Roosevelt Took Different Action From That of Wilson as Concerned Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 4—Unlike the last election held in the midst of war, the President of the United States took no step directly or indirectly toward influencing the voters to support the majority party.

Whether this was because President Wilson's appeal for a Democratic Congress in 1918 was resented by the voters or because the present administration felt sure it could maintain control anyway, the record shows that President Roosevelt meticulously refrained from taking a partisan position so far as the Congress was concerned.

In his own home state, of course, Mr. Roosevelt expressed a preference for governor, but this is in accordance with custom and is a privilege which every President in the past has exercised without incurring hostile criticism.

Perhaps more significant than the forebearance of the President is the attitude of the electorate itself. With rare exceptions the campaign has been fought on a win-the-war basis, and there has been a healthy rivalry between the parties in asserting that its members could do more than the other toward attaining the objective—victory.

But even considering the fact that the war mechanism itself has been kept free from political entanglement and the President has not taken part, the unfortunate fact remains that the election campaign was damaging to the war effort. Members found it necessary to go home to meet the attacks of would-be-members, and this meant that for the last several weeks the Congress has had only a handful here to do business. Nobody can feel proud of the anti-inflation law, which was about the most hastily drawn and ambiguously phrased legislation passed in many years. Whether this was because a campaign made it difficult to be explicit, lest some members be punished by minority groups, or whether it was because the Congress did not feel free to debate the measure or to give it the consideration it deserved, the net result was a law that has already antagonized many groups because inequitable regulations and interpretations have been derived from it.

Many vital studies that should have been made by Congress on the draft and manpower problems have been put aside; and the whole tendency has been to abandon the legislative process for the time being so that the members could go home to conduct their campaigns.

No such disruption has been found necessary in the other democracies allied with us in this war. Thus, it has been a long time since Britain had an election for Parliament, and the same is true for Canada. In the parliamentary states, agreement between the parties makes possible postponement of an election till an opportune time, while in America, because the constitution fixes the date, it becomes necessary to hold an election no matter how inopportune the occasion may be. Thus in 1940 after France fell and America discovered the big emergency demanded immediate expansion of the army and navy, it was necessary for the Commander-in-Chief to become absorbed in a presidential campaign if he wished to stay in power and if the majority of the people concurred in that idea. Abroad—just across the line in Canada, for instance—under the parliamentary system, the legislative body can decide when it wants a change in the executive.

It may well happen that in 1944 the country will be faced with the same situation that confronted it in 1940, and a large number of persons will insist that there be no change in the midst of war. Yet if the war should end six months after the election and a change should then be desirable, the people would have no opportunity for an election to bring about such a change.

The congressional election of 1942 is over. The people can well ask themselves the question whether it has been worthwhile and whether the same objective—an expression of the will of the electorate—could not be achieved henceforth just the same through a constitutional amendment giving the people the right to have an election at any time. This would mean the right to defer or postpone an election, presidential or congressional, when the nation is absorbed in a crisis involving the very safety of the republic.

NEW HURLEY

New Hurley, Nov. 4—The following members of the New Hurley Missionary Society attended the Missionary Conference of the Classis of Orange, in the Dutch Reformed Church October 27: Mrs. John W. Tysse, Mrs. Wilbur J. Van Wyck, Mrs. Marcus L. Birch, Mrs. Elwood Powell, Mrs. Iva Low, Mrs. Myra Dolan, Mrs. Joseph W. Monell, Mrs. Edna DuBois and Mrs. Edward Powell.

Nearly 300 people were served at the turkey supper held in the New Hurley Church hall last Wednesday evening. The net proceeds amounted to about $130.00. The members of the Young Women's Club thank all who helped to make this a success.

The Young Women's Club will meet on Saturday afternoon, November 7, at the home of Mrs. Leland VanKleeck. Mrs. Elmer Fries will be assistant hostess.

Mrs. Edna DuBois spent Tuesday night with Mrs. Alberta Clark in Newburgh.

Theodore Van Wyck of Alhambra, Cal., is visiting his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Van Wyck. He expects to spend the winter with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Wyck, in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Garrison and sons, John and Robert, were dinner guests of Mrs. Garrison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCord, near Ireland Corners on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barley and daughter, Brenda, of Accord, visited Mrs. Barley's sister and family, the Rev. and Mrs. John W. Tysse, on Sunday.

The Missionary Society of the New Hurley Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Heidke on Thursday afternoon, November 12, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Nicholas Cocks will act as assistant hostess. Mrs. Wilbur J. Van Wyck will be the leader on the topic, "Latest News About Reformed Church Work in Kentucky." The Kentucky mission Christmas box will be packed at this meeting. All are asked to bring gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Galic and son, Bobby, were recent guests of Mr. Galic's parents at Whitehall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Magan and Mr. and Mrs. John McGarry and daughters, have been spending a few days at the Magan home here.

Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Cocks spent the week-end with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Grill, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell and Mrs. Martha Whitmore of Plattekill were in Middletown on Sunday and called on their aunt and cousins, Mrs. Elsie LeFevre, and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Barr.

The junior choir sang the anthem in the New Hurley Church on Sunday morning. It is now being directed by Miss Ruth Hubbert, teacher at the New Hurley school.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The Shadow of Things to Come: Covering Washington from the War Department on lower Constitution to Congress on Capitol Hill, one must inevitably come to the conclusion that future historians may well look back on the fall and early winter of 1942 as the "turning point" in the war.

The reasons: (1) the Solomon Islands battle has spread to the whole 1,200-mile long Coral Sea and may go down as the greatest battle the Pacific ever has seen.

(2) The United Nations' offensive in Egypt is more than a sideshow and could be the beginning of the end of the battle for Africa and control of the Mediterranean.

(3) The battle for Stalingrad (and the striking power the Russians have left when it is over) may determine the fate of the Eastern front.

No. 4. There is a growing conviction here that the striking power of the United Nations in Great Britain (both in the air and on the ground) is rapidly being brought to such strength that it is no longer possible for the Nazis to ignore the fact that the "second front" is on the move.

(5) Air power of the United Nations in China is reaching the point where the Japs must give it serious consideration if they are to hold the gains they have made.

(6) The battle of the Aleutians could determine the future supply lines to Russia and possibly to air bases near the heart of Japan.

On the home front: (7) The taxpayers have got their bill for the first real down payment on this war and now know what they are up against.

(8) The manpower problem, though far from solved, is getting the kind of blitz treatment that foreshadows epoch-making wartime legislation.

No. 9. Price control, rationing, forced savings and all the other factors in the war on inflation are shaping into accepted facts and the public is cooperating whole-heartedly in regulatory measures that a year ago brought a storm of controversy whenever they were mentioned.

(10) The United States has had its off-year elections. Don't underestimate the importance of this. For a year at least and maybe longer, the legislative branch can settle to its task without casting too many distracting glances at the ballot box. It doesn't, of course, mean an end to politics—but it does mean that the members on both sides of the Capitol can come to grips with the problems ahead without fear of immediate loss of their jobs.

If you are interested in following the course of this war, measure the news of the next few weeks by those ten yardsticks.

If things go well, the period may be marked as that in which the United Nations and the United States quit sparring for time and started on the move. If things don't go well, it will be another story but perhaps no less a turning point. It at least would postpone victory for months, maybe years.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Treasurer Announced By Junior D. A. R.

The Junior Group of the D. A. R. met last evening at the chapter house, Mrs. Edgar Freese, chairman, presided. She announced the new treasurer, Mrs. Paul Hinkley, to take the place of Mrs. R. Gardner Burns who has moved out of town. She also appointed Mrs. John Schwalbach as co-chairman of the girl homemakers committee.

The club will provide pie and cake at the Service Center next week. Mrs. Herbert DeKay will be in charge of this project. The members are making donations of money to the National Society D. A. R. project for blood plasma units and are also working on the national project of buying war bonds and stamps.

The next meeting will be the Christmas meeting at which time the box will be packed for Miss Kathleen Beardon, the girl at Tammassee School. Gifts will also be brought for the Ellis Island Committee.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Albert C. Dumke of Beacon, state chairman of the Approved Schools Committee, was introduced. She told of the work of the approved schools, the schools that are aided by the D. A. R. and the two, Kate Duncan Smith and Tammassee, which are entirely supported by the organization.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Gertrude Evory and Mrs. Harvey J. Davis.

Short-Short

Mr. and Mrs. John Short of 145 Hunter street announce the marriage of their son, Lieut. John Peter Short, to Miss Johnnie Short of 1705 Lakeshore Drive, Shreveport, La. The wedding took place October 29 at Lawton, Okla. They are now making their home at Fort Bragg, N. C., where Lieutenant Short is stationed.

Moose Lodge Plans Novel Barn Dance

The members of Kingston Lodge No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold an old fashioned barn dance Saturday evening, November 7, at the Moose hall, Broadway and Thomas street. The committee in charge of arrangements, headed by Jesse Huffen, has completed all details.

The dance is a novel affair consisting of various fun provoking acts. The hall will be decorated in a barn atmosphere including a town jail, several justices of the peace and constables providing mock arrests and maintaining general order. Gingham dresses and overalls will be the predominating clothes for the occasion. A popular modern orchestra will furnish music for modern and old fashioned dancing.

All service men located in this vicinity are invited to the dance as the guests of the lodge. Chairman of the ticket committee is George Gardiner.

New Class Will Start at Y. W. C. A.

A new class in arts and crafts, including metalcraft, is scheduled to start next Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A., under the direction of Mrs. William McVey. Registration is not yet complete for the class, and those interested are asked to call the "Y" office. The Y. W. C. A. has a limited supply of materials on hand and after this season all such classes will probably have to be discontinued.

Lowell Club Continues Study of Historical Novel

Lowell Club met at the home of Miss Mary Hale, Orchard street, yesterday to continue its study of the American historical novel.

The first paper of the afternoon was presented by Mrs. Arthur S. Cole. Her subject was the synopsis of "The Spy" by James Fenimore Cooper. The story was written in 1821 at the age of 32. It centers around the adventures of Harry Burch during the Revolutionary War pretending to be a spy for the British while being employed by George Washington to obtain information for the United States Army. At that time Westchester county was neutral territory between the British who occupied the country toward New York and the Americans who occupied the highlands. All his life Harry Burch assumed disguise and he is last seen in the War of 1812 when he appears as a peddler before Captain Dunwoodie who was his sister's son. Soon after at his death papers signed by General Washington are found on his person and give his real identity.

Mrs. John H. Saxe followed with the reading of synopsis of "The Pilot," also written by Cooper, at Cooperstown in 1823.

The next meeting of the club will be Monday, November 10, at the home of Mrs. Rose K. Witter, 117 Fair street.

A SOLDIER'S WIFE SENDS HIS LOVE BY PROXY — ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Many questions are being asked about how to include absent husbands names on Christmas messages. The following letter asks how to include a greeting and an announcement: "My husband is overseas. I expect a baby quite near to Christmas and would like to have combination cards with Christmas greetings and announcements of the baby. I would also like to include my husband on the card even though he will not be here. If it could be possible to do all this, will you tell me how?

Answer: You can perfectly well choose Christmas cards and then write by hand on the card "With love from Mary and John, Junior (or Baby Alice). Love by proxy from John too, who would join us were he here."

Invitations and Announcements Combined

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm to be married near my fiance's camp; there is to be just the service with our parents present. I am then going to stay on near the camp until Christmas, when we hope to go home to stay with our families—half time with each. My family would at that time like to give us a reception. My question is will it be too long to wait until Christmas to send out announcements. We thought the invitation to the reception in honor of our marriage might do nicely, to announce the marriage as well, and thus eliminate what may be needless expense. But the fact that there is so much time before the reception confuses us.

Answer: I think you might perfectly well announce the marriage in the papers, and then send out the invitations to the reception in honor of your marriage later, and not send out announcements at all.

Note Paper Marked Only With First Name

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be in questionable taste to use note paper that has my first name across the top corner to acknowledge wedding presents. The wedding was a hurry-up-going-to-training-camp-one and it is note paper that I had before I was married. I want to save expense wherever I can but wonder if this paper can be used to write to many people whom I don't know at all—or at least not well—who sent presents because of my husband.

Answer: The paper you suggest would be quite proper, since thanks for presents are personal notes. Such paper of course would not be suitable for any business letters and not the best choice for third person answers to invitations, or for letters to those whom you would be unwilling to have call you by your first name.

Have you seen Mrs. Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Service"? Send for it today, enclosing ten cents in coin and a three-cent stamp to cover postage and handling. Address Mrs. Post, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Teachers' College News

Concert Is Held

Tuesday evening in the school auditorium, the Music Association of the New Paltz State Teachers' College held its first in a series of Lyceum numbers of the year. Howard B. Hoffman conducted the concert.

The theme of the concert was "Music for Victory" and emphasized the part that music plays in the war of today.

Senior-Junior Prom

Ward Harrison and his band will provide the music for the Senior-Junior Prom scheduled for Saturday evening, November 7. The dance will be formal. Bids may be purchased from Nancy Dean. Peggy Farrell and "Buzz" Maybury are in charge of the music.

Loretta O'Donnell, Mathilda Usner, Bett Norwesh, Margie Bentley, Frances Kurzhals, Mary Rotter, Audrey Linehan and Virginia Kingston are in charge of refreshments. The committee working on bids for the prom includes Diana Kurkhill, Violet Gregg, Jane Vandewater, Irene Kline, Kitt Startup and Arline Cohen. Leo Poulos is in charge of the general committee.

Country Club Meets

A meeting of the Country Life Club is scheduled for Thursday, November 5. The following committees are in charge of the meeting:

Refreshments, Olive Berner, chairman; Ethel Short, Virginia Moores, clean-up, Dolores McKeown, chairman; George Maybury, Ruth Hess; games, Billy Steietler, chairman; Bett Norwesh, Edwin Heroy; music, May Hersey, chairman; Muriel Crego, Gert Nebel; entertainment, Phyllis Singleton, chairman; Elizabeth Frost and Wanda Krom.

Helen Phillips, president of the Country Life Club, announces that all freshmen members seeking membership, must fill out applications before attending this meeting. It is further necessary that all members file a report in the rural office of two activities carried out.

Play Is Presented

The New Paltz Players presented a one-act play entitled, "The Boor," in the assembly last week. Irene Suskind Kline and George Laug portrayed the leading characters in this play. Marjorie Reiss was the widow's maid. George Maybury, William Clinton, Herman Thoben portrayed the workmen. Other members contributing their services were Ruty Bergman, property manager; Joseph Viscoglosi, stage manager; Berit Johansen, assistant stage manager; Teresa Ranalli, makeup and Albert Van Houten, lighting. Miss Rebecca McKenna directed the play.

Three Russian musical selections were played by Miss Frances Kurzhalls, Mrs. Charles E. Huntington and Miss Mary Howard.

Marian Martin

Here's first aid for workaday wardrobes—in a Marian Martin shirtwaister. Pattern 9228 is very trim and serviceable, with slim panelled skirt lines and a soft yoked bodice. And, because a touch of gaiety is so important these days, add a pair of notched pockets.

Pattern 9228 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 2½ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send SIXTEEN CENTS in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Our Winter Pattern Book covers the entire American fashion front, with smart, practical, easy-to-sew styles for everyone. It has gift tips; a basic wartime wardrobe; school wear. Pattern Book, ten cents.

Send your order to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th street, New York, N. Y.

And a Christmas decoration for all to enjoy! Instructions 7438 contain directions for 14 articles; materials needed; pattern parts where necessary.

To obtain instructions send ELEVEN CENTS in coins to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Teacher Is Injured

Miss Florence Finn of 110 O'Neil street, a member of the faculty of School No. 8, suffered an injured ankle on Tuesday morning when the heel of her shoe caught on the door sill of the Second ward, second district polling place. A report of the accident was made to police headquarters by Officer Archie Van Aken, who was on duty at the polls in that district Tuesday.

Testimonial To Cooking

London, (AP)—Reginald Allen, a govermental construction worker, and apparently something of a rugged individualist as well, drove an eight-ton power grader 24 feet long and nine feet wide three-quarters of a mile — to lunch. He was fined $3 for driving an uninsured vehicle, and $4 for unwarranted use of gasoline.

Argentina's first modern a plane constructed by a private company was made entirely of wood except the engine and recently made a successful flight.

Vegetable Juices Found To Be Present Problems

Geneva, N. Y. — Taking a lead from the tremendous popularity enjoyed by tomato juice during the past decade, scientists at the State Experiment Station here are turning their attention toward the development of other vegetable juices, according to a brief account of the work in a recent Station publication.

One of the chief difficulties encountered in developing high-quality vegetable juices is that most vegetables are so lacking in acidity that they must be subjected to long periods of processing at high temperatures in order to destroy all bacterial life and thus lose their flavor and other desirable characteristics, say the station specialists. If the acidity of the juice can be increased so as to prohibit the growth of certain heat-resistant bacteria, the product can be preserved by so-called "flash pasteurization" that has proved so successful in preserving the high quality and flavor of fruit juice.

Rather than attempting to increase the acidity of vegetable juices by adding mineral acids, such as hydrochloric or phosphoric acids or organic acids, such as lactic and citric acids, the station workers are advocating the blending of the vegetable juice with juices of higher acidity, such as rhubarb or sauerkraut juices. Of the two sauerkraut juice has proved the more desirable because it does not mask the flavor of the juice with which it is blended.

In the station experiments sauerkraut juice has been blended successfully with the juices of carrots, celery, rutabagas, beets, white turnips, onions, and red cabbage. Thus far, the carrot-sauerkraut blend is regarded as having the best flavor and appearance, although some of the sauerkraut-celery blends have also proved very palatable and attractive. In every instance the sauerkraut blends were deemed superior to the pure unacidified vegetable juice. The production, blending, and processing of vegetable juices are explained in some detail in the station publication.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 10¢ and 25¢.

Wallace Wins Against Poletti

State Will Be Under Full Republican Slate; Three Others Are Winners

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican Thomas E. Dewey rode into New York's governorship today, ending a 20-year Democratic administration, on a plurality of about 600,000 votes that helped sweep all his running mates into office.

With only a few of the state's 9,327 districts unreported, the vote showed a complete Republican administration to be inaugurated January 1. The winners, besides Dewey:

Lieut. Governor, Thomas W. Wallace, Schenectady.

Comptroller, Frank C. Moore, Kenmore.

Attorney General, Nathaniel L. Goldstein, Brooklyn.

The landslide for Dewey, which put him in the forefront of possibilities for the 1944 presidential nomination, also carried to victory the Republican candidates for representatives-at-large — Miss Winifred C. Stanley, Buffalo, and Dr. Charles Muzzicato, New York city.

Care of Wartime Paint Brushes

New paint brushes of the type made of a mixture of horsehair and bristle to meet wartime requirements should be combed until the hair is free and straight and should then be put directly into the paint, without touching the combed hair with the hands, for contact with the hands will again twist and mat the hair, says a brush manufacturer's bulletin. Never put a new brush of this type in water, for water will curl, twist and mat the horsehair, the manufacturer advises. While use of water is advised against at any time, if soap and water is used to clean the brushes after painting, the hair should be combed straight and allowed to dry before using it again. If the foregoing simple directions are observed, the brushes of mixed hair should give satisfactory service.

Fish Retains Post in Congress By Wide Margin

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—The combined assault of the Democratic and American Labor parties, plus Republican defection, today had failed to unseat U. S. Representative Hamilton Fish, pre-Pearl Harbor isolationist and frequent critic of President Roosevelt's policies.

Complete unofficial returns from 225 election districts in the President's home congressional district, the 26th, the victory over Ferdinand A. Hoyt, the Democratic and A. L. P. candidate was: Fish, 48,752; Hoyt, 44,691.

A committee of independent Republicans, including Augustus W. Bennett, whom Fish defeated in the party primary, vigorously supported Hoyt. Both Republican Governor-Elect Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell Willkie, the party's nominee for president in 1940, called for Fish's defeat before the G. O. P. primary, but did not participate in the inter-party battle. And although the President took no active part in the district campaign, two high administration officials, James V. Forrestal, under secretary of the Navy, and Robert E. Patterson, under secretary of War, both residents of the district, urged that Fish be retired from the post he has held since 1920.

Fish claimed victory last night and in a statement charged that the campaign against him was "based on abuse and vilification."

"It was planned and organized for months by the Communists, Reds and leftwing New Dealers to impugn my character, patriotism and Americanism in order to deceive the people and to purge me for trying to keep America out of war unless attacked, and for outspoken opposition to the regimentation and collectivism of the New Deal and its gestapo methods that threaten free government," he said.

Dewey Doubles Wawarsing Majority of Four Years Ago

The town of Wawarsing returned to the Republican fold with a bang Tuesday and under the leadership of Supervisor Charles Kaiser, Jr., gave Dewey for governor a majority of 572. This compares with a majority of 279 received in the town in 1938 and with a Roosevelt majority of around 600 two years ago.

Unofficial figures of a complete tabulation of the vote in the town made at the Kaiser & Cohen office early in the evening showed the following majorities in the town, all Republican candidates being well ahead of their Democratic opponents: Dewey, 572; Wallace, 343; Moore, 289; Goldstein, 362; LeFevre, 350; Wicks, 455; Wadlin, 406; Snyder, 249; Haver, 349.

Vote on representatives-at-large was tabulated as follows: Stanley, D, 1,619; Muzzicato, R, 1,519; Johnson, D, 1,281; Merritt, D, 1,246. In 1940 Democratic candidates for representatives-at-large carried all of the nine districts in the town but one.

Over 200 votes were cast for Alfange for governor.

Wawarsing Town Budget

Acting in compliance with the recently enacted law the town board of the town of Wawarsing has adopted the following tentative list of salaries of town officials for the coming year. A public review will be held on Thursday, November 5. Supervisor, $2,800; justices, $3,300; councilman, $300; town superintendent, $2,400; assessors, $2,550; welfare officer, $1,500; tax collector, $1,500.

Hawkes Defeats Senator Smathers

Unofficial Returns Show Incumbent Loses

Newark, N. J., Nov. 4 (AP)—New Jersey voters have elected Republican Albert W. Hawkes to the United States Senate in the place of William H. Smathers, incumbent Democrat who sought re-election as a supporter of President Roosevelt.

Unofficial returns from 3,497 of the state's 3,635 election districts gave these figures today:

Hawkes 628,934.
Smathers 531,266.

Democratic Representative William H. Sutphin also was beaten after serving 12 years from the third district, his seat being won by Mayor James C. Auchincloss of the wealthy little borough of Rumson. Republicans and Democrats held all their other districts, to make the state's delegation 11 to 3 for the next congress with G.O.P. on the long end.

Smathers had charged that Hawkes "bought" his nomination, exceeding the $50,000 primary expenditure limitation and Hawkes had denied the charge, which is now before a senate investigating committee.

Smathers identified the former president of the United States chamber of Commerce and member of the war labor board as a "labor baiter" and "industralist bully." Hawkes retorted the senator was alternately a Rooseveltian "rubber stamp" and a senatorial absentee who failed to vote on the declaration of war against Germany and other major measures.

Democratic party strife between Governor Charles Edison and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, nation vice chairman, played a strong undercurrent in the voting. Edison failed to endorse Smathers, who lost the Edison-Hawkes home county of Essex by 54,000 while carrying Hague's county of Hudson by 100,000.

Three Democratic state legislators were beaten after Edison said the Hague forces decided to ditch them to spite the governor.

Defeat Is Conceded

St. Ignace, Mich., Nov. 4 (AP)—U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown, New Deal stalwart, conceded today his defeat by Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson of Detroit, his Republican rival, and sent the judge a message of congratulations.

Baldwin Wins Against Hurley

G. O. P. Sweeps to Office in Decisive Victory

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4 (AP)—The Connecticut electorate recalled Raymond E. Baldwin to the governorship on the surge of a Republican victory in Tuesday's election that swept Democrats out of all major state offices and cost them five House seats in Congress.

In the most decisive Republican victory in more than a decade, the 49-year-old Baldwin carried the state by more than 26,000 votes, wresting the biggest prize at stake from Governor Robert A. Hurley, the Democratic nominee who two years ago beat him for re-election by 13,780.

The unofficial complete vote gave Baldwin, a lawyer, 282,238 votes against 255,811 for Hurley, and 33,335 for Mayor Jasper McLevy of Bridgeport, who made his tenth unsuccessful bid for the governorship as the Socialist nominee.

Besides ousting Democrats from all the major state offices, Republicans unseated five Democratic Representatives in Congress and re-elected the sixth, Representative Joseph E. Talbot of the fifth district.

One of the seats wrested from the Democrats went to Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, the writer, who thus became the first woman in Connecticut to win a Congressional post. The blonde, attractive Mrs. Luce, whose husband, Henry W. Luce, edits Time, Life and Fortune magazines, defeated Representative Leroy Downs, Norwalk publisher 63,623 to 56,850.

Mrs. Luce, who is 39 years old, polled the highest plurality of any of the Congressional contestants.

So decisive was the Republican victory that for the first time since 1929, one party will be in absolute control of both the executive and legislative branches.

Republicans maintained their dominance in the state House of Representatives and wiped out the Democratic margin in the state Senate.

Quiet for Firemen

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—The New York Fire Department had a quiet election day yesterday. Up to 8 p. m., only 10 bonfires were reported in Manhattan. At that hour on election day in 1941 there had been 487.

Election Interest High in Britain

London Papers Give Front Pages to Returns

London, Nov. 4 (AP) — Britons, who have not voted in a general election since 1935, got a vicarious political kick today from returns of the United States balloting.

One London newspaper made the election the principal story of the day. Others gave it unusual display. Most of them printed the returns on front pages.

The Evening Standard, which has given the opposition fresh force and the election of Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York "is significant of the new trend."

With thousands of Americans in Britain, interest reached an unprecedented pitch for an off-year election. News agencies received many telephone calls from soldiers and civilians asking the results.

The Stars and Stripes, A. E. F. newspaper, planned to print the results of the balloting for major offices state by state.

Miss Margery Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walters of West Park, has entered the University of Wisconsin for training as a radio operator. She will graduate in January, and will be assigned to a Naval radio shore station. Miss Walters is a member of the WAVES.

Under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school, the junior department under the direction of Mrs. S. A. MacCormac, Mrs. W. H. Maynard and Mrs. Merrill Lewis, held a Halloween party Friday evening in the church parlor. Those attending were from the fifth grade to high school. Costume prizes went to Carol Clarke, for the prettiest; and to Gilian Jackson for the funniest. On Saturday afternoon, the primary department held a Halloween party in the church parlor for 25 children between the ages of 4 and 10. They came in costume with prizes going to Frances Swift for the prettiest; to Carlton Dimsey for the most original; to Fred Maynard and Kenneth Cummings, for the two funniest.

Reports from the Donald B. DuBois fund show that there are 233 men in service from the town of Lloyd. 226 men and women have been sent portfolios containing writing materials; 50 Christmas boxes have been sent out of the country and ten have sent acknowledgments; 33 birthday cards and two cards to those sick have also been sent. The fund now has about $1,400 in the treasury. Much of the credit of this goes to George P. Muller and Sergeant E. J. Hulse.

Those sewing on bags for kits at the Red Cross Monday afternoon were: Chairman Mrs. Arthur Clarke, wtih Mrs. C. I. Richards, Mrs. Edward Hulse, Mrs. Oliver Tillson, Mrs. A. Gerome Pratt, Mrs. Willard Burke, Mrs. W. D. Corwin, Mrs. G. H. Pvt. Goodfellow in Montgomery, Alabama

George Goodfellow, former Y. M. C. A. secretary, is stationed at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Alabama, where he is a member of the Medical Detachment of the Army Air Corps. Private Goodfellow writes that it is a swell place with 11 modern buildings and a training center for pilots.

Private Goodfellow left the local Y. M. C. A. as general secretary on October 27 for Camp Upton and remained there for two days. During his secretaryship at the local Y. M. C. A., Private Goodfellow accomplished a great many things and gained numerous friends for the association. He also improved the condition of the building and built up a splendid program.

resulted in a break-through on a front of some 4,0000 yards. There was bitter hand-to-hand fighting among strong axis positions.

Rommel rushed a fleet of tanks into action in an effort to stem the advance, but the allied air force, which presumably included many American warplanes, smashed the concentration and sent those tanks which were not destroyed rushing for safety.

Montgomery had chosen this strong sector for his attack because the ground was suitable for tanks. His tactics were rewarded when the infantry finally wrested Tel El Akakir—the hill of the wicked—from the enemy. This strategically important ridge and the firmer terrain about it are better adapted to tank maneuvers than the shifting sands in other sectors.

Naturally, with this increase in freedom of movement for armored forces, a big tank battle developed.

This is precisely the situation which Montgomery is aiming to create. As already indicated, his object is not to drive axis forces back, but to catch them and utterly destroy them.

Should things go well with the allied attack, a break-through may develop into flank movements which will result in the encirclement and annihilation of large forces of the enemy unless Rommel can avoid such traps.

Here we shouldn't forget that the Nazi Marshal is one of the shrewdest captains in the war. You can't say that he is beaten until you have his scalp actually at your belt.

Defense Worker Goes Off With Twin Sons

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4 (AP)—Called simultaneously by their Selective Service board, a 45-year-old defense worker and his 20-year-old twin sons, will entrain with an induction group this morning for Fort Devens.

George L. Williams was named leader of the contingent which included his boys, Richard G. and John M., Two other sons are already in the armed services.

A member of the board said it was just a coincidence that the three numbers were drawn together. Williams declared:

"I'm especially glad I'm going with my boys. I'd love to be with them all the time I am in the army."

Dewey Is Sole G.O.P. Winner in 13th Ward

In tabulating the vote cast for governor on Tuesday in Kingston it is interesting to note that a total of 11,316 votes were cast, as compared with the city's registration of 11,979, a drop of 663 votes from the number registered and those who voted.

Of the 11,316 votes cast yesterday Thomas E. Dewey received 6,425; John J. Bennett, Jr., 4,456, and Dean Alfange, 425.

Another interesting sidelight on the election was the vote cast in the Thirteenth ward where Dewey carried the ward by a single vote, while all of the other Republican candidates lost that ward.

Red Cross Conference To Be Held in New York

A number of Ulster county Red Cross workers will attend the regional conference meeting of the American Red Cross, which will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York city, on Friday, November 6.

Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the American Red Cross, will be the speaker at the main session of the conference. Robert E. Bondy, supervisor of the Administration Services to the armed forces, will speak at the morning session.

The New York Chapter of the American Red Cross will be host to the conference.

Every member of every ship crew leaving New Zealand with New Zealand produce destined for other countries will be presented two pounds of choice butter, the gift of New Zealand dairymen.

Woodstock Will Have Film Society Again

The Woodstock Artists' Association is again starting a Film Society, which will bring to Woodstock this winter, many of the choice contemporary films. An initial series of four evenings of films will be presented in the Town Hall every Friday evening in November, at 8 p. m., beginning promptly. The first will be this Friday, November 6.

Only members of the Film Society will be admitted, and one may join by purchasing a ticket for four admissions to the first series. The price has been kept low in order to enable as many as possible to take advantage of these weekly get-togethers. Members of the Film Society are urged to make the project their own by comments and suggestions, so that the movies will represent the choice of the people of Woodstock, and in that way serve the community.

Tickets are now available for the first series. Announcements of the first four pictures will follow. Tickets are on sale in the Woodstock Five and Ten, or may be purchased from any member of the committee on arrangements.

The following are on the committee: Mrs. Vladimir Padwa, chairman; Mrs. Philip FitzPatrick, tickets; Richard Crane, treasurer; Mrs. Margaret Lowengrund Lilly, publicity; Miss Isabel Doughty, Mrs. Thomas Penning, Mrs. Hannah Small, Wendell Jones. A sponsoring committee also has been formed, consisting of Mrs. Clark Neher, Mrs. Mortimer Downer, Miss Anne Carolan, Mrs. Allan Watrous, Mrs. Hans Cohn, Miss Wilma Hervey, Mrs. John McClellan, Paul Fiene, Mrs. Ruth Huffine, Mrs. Julia S. Leaycraft and Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson.

Rubber From Wood Products

Stockholm (AP) — Production of an artificial rubber from wood products, capable of being vulcanized and suitable for use in bicycle tires, shoe heels and plastic products, but not for motor car tires, has been announced here. The process has been developed by Gosta Ehrensvard, a young Swedish chemist, and an experimental factory has been opened at Gislaved, in central Sweden, by the Swedish Co-operative Association. A full-sized factory for the production of the new artificial rubber is planned. The new product has been given the name of "Telax." The Co-operative Association anounced that it does not intend to monopolize the process but will offer the basic material to other manufacturers.

DuBois Takes Spotlight

In the Independent League matches at the Central Recreation alleys Monday night Ray DuBois of Wilbers, took the spotlight when he crashed out a sizzling 597 series on a string of 245, 191 and 161. His 161 third kept him from blasting a cool 7000 series.

Besides walking off with high triple of 597, which is a new league record, the singer-bowler also established a new high single score with his opening 245. Despite Ray's great kegling Wilbers lost two games to the Buicks.

Charlie Grunenwald of Vogels contested Ray pretty much for the high triple mark when he coasted home with a 596 cluster of 163, 201 and 232. Vogels took three from Callanans.

Ray Kubicek of Beicherts sparked his team to two triumphs over the Oilers as he posted a great single of 244, second high to DuBois' 245. Kubicek finished with a stellar 555 series.

Other scores worth mentioning in the league Monday night were Joe Messinger's 215 and 563, Tommy Costello's 549, R. J. Henry's 227, Beichert's 210, Bill Evans' 226 and 220 singles and triples of 586, Bob Townsend's 217 and 552, E. Vogel's 211 and 571 and F. Shick's 225 and 559.

Fassbender Rolls 654

A new high triple mark was registered in the Central Recreation League at the Rec alleys last night when Steve Fassbender, Jr., rolled 654 for three games. Steve had a string of 190, 209 and 254, thus breaking George Robinson's old record of 609.

Fassbender, who rolls with the Astors, nearly established a new high single with his 254 but fell short of Joe Messinger's present high of 268. Despite Fassbender's good bowling, the Astors dropped two games to the Vining and Smith keglers. Earl Mellow sparked this club with a 564 series on games of 192, 198 and 174. Joe Messinger had 545 while Harry Smith came on with 544. Weber and Dixon had 525 and 514 for the losers.

With Joe Dulin cracking out a 570 Hercules tripped Johnny Sangi's Sharpers in three straight. Dulin rolled out games of 189, 181 and 200. Norm Niles had 542 and Kennedy 521. Johnny Sangi's 518 was high for the losers. Larry Petersen and Stan Colvin posted 517 series.

The Ulster keglers won three from the Governor Clintons. George Robinson's 566 sparked the winners. He had scores of 172, 180 and 214. J. Magnusson had 551, Phil Masters 549 and Coke Costello 533. Cunningham's 544 topped the losers. H. Smith posted 508.

No Pocahontas Society

There does not appear to be a Pocahontas society, and the only monument erected to the memory of this famous Indian woman is located at Heacham, England, unveiled in June, 1933. The monument was erected by present representatives of the Rolfe family in England and by Americans in Virginia and other states.

Many families in Virginia claim descent from Pocahontas through her son by John Rolfe. Among these are the Guys, the Robertsons, the Elbridges, the Bollings, including Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt who married President Wilson in 1915, John Randolph, and the Harrisons, including Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and William H. and Benjamin Harrison, Presidents of the United States.

Yankee Ace Voted Over Ted Williams Of Boston Red Sox

Hub Player Again Nosed Out of Award; DiMaggio Drops to Seventh; Pesky Is Third

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Joe Gordon, the great second baseman of the New York Yankees, has been named the most valuable player of the American League for 1942, preserving the tradition that this coveted annual award usually goes to a member of the pennant-winning club.

Since the baseball writers association of America took over in 1931 the task of selecting the most valuable player, there have been few breaks in the tradition and non at all in the last four years.

Gordon's performance this year was the best in his five seasons with the Yankees, and he unquestionably was a powerful factor in the Bombers winning their sixth pennant in seven years.

However, the difference between his value to the Yankees and the value of lanky Ted Williams to the second place Boston Red Sox was open to controversy which in turn was reflected in the balloting of the committee of 24 writers.

Gordon was given 12 first place votes and received a total of 270 points while Williams, winner of the "triple crown" for leading the league in batting, home runs and runs batted in, finished with nine first place votes and 249 points.

Gordon Series' Goat

Ironically, Gordon was probably the biggest "goat" in the 1942 World Series, as was Mort Cooper, the St. Louis ace hurler who was later selected as the most valuable player in the National League. Cooper was knocked out of the box in his two starts while Gordon never did approach his regular play either in fielding or batting.

Although the Yankee second sacker did fail to live up to expectations in the World Series, the voting scribes, who cast their ballots before the 1942 classic, believed that the Yankees would have never won the pennant if Gordon hadn't been patrolling the keystone bag.

Joe had one of his best years in 1942 and finished the American League season with a batting clip of 40 points higher than in 1941. Gordon's great defensive play around second base also was more outstanding than last year. His quick execution of double-plays with Phil Rizzuoto, gave the Yanks a jump on many a ball game.

While the feud of Ted Williams' fans continue to wonder why the Red Sox ace wasn't given the honor instead of Gordon, it comes to light that Joe was a much better man than Williams. Ted always has been an individual player. His nonchlance and lackadaisical work brought "boos" on several occasions from the fans in the stands. Ever since he has been with the Red Sox, Williams' popularity with the bleacher fans has not been in the best of affiliations. Besides this, Williams' run-in with the fans during the last campaign, surely didn't help the Boston player. However, despite Ted's misgivings, he represents baseball as one of the greatest stars and although he has been overlooked again, his following will look upon his service to the game as something to be proud of.

Pesky Is Third

The Boston slugger might have done better except for some competition from one of his own teammates, Johnny Pesky, the rookie shortstop star, who polled two first place votes and 143 points. The other first place ballot also was cast for a rookie shortstop, Vernon (Junior) Stephens, of the St. Louis Browns, who rated fourth, three points behind Pesky.

It was the second straight year in which Williams has been nosed out of the most valuable award. He ran a close second in 1941 to Joe Dimaggio of the Yanks and although his batting average sloughed off from .406 to .353 this season, his all-around play in many respects was better than last year.

Dimaggio dropped to seventh in the committee's rating of American League players with pitchers Ernie Bonham of the Yanks and Tex Hughson of the Red Sox above him.

Others in the top ten selections were Stan Spence of Washington, Phil Marchildon of the Philadelphia Athletics and Lou Boudreau of Cleveland.

Football for 1943

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum of the University of North Carolina says football should go on in 1943 even if gate receipts vanish and a federal subsidy is required.

He advocates fewer intersectional trips and more games with nearby teams.

"Don't get me wrong," he says. "If we draft other boys of 18 to 21, we ought to draft football players, too. But I think we should have football for the benefit of those remaining."

Confusion in Animal Kingdom

Calderwood, Tenn. (AP)—Mountaineer game warden Mark Tipton lives way back in the East Tennessee hills. The other day he told a fellow game warden he placed his coat on a rail fence in order to chase a bear out of his back yard to save his cow. And before he could return to the fence a giant eagle swooped down and skyrocketed away with his coat, thinking it was a chicken.

Donald Nelson . . . .
YOU CAN COUNT ON THE BUSINESSMEN OF THIS COMMUNITY 100%

Recently you asked the newspapers of America to put their weight behind the scrap metal drive. The people of this community responded wholeheartedly. The mountains of scrap we collected are proof of our wish to do everything we can to help win the war.

Now you are asking us to work with the War Production Board to get more scrap metal moving from industries, shops and factories. And you can count on our businessmen all the way!

Many of our plants already have made a good start. Every one of them will get going now as never before—because all industry knows the need is urgent.

Mr. Nelson—we in this community will not let our boys down!

Kingston Daily Freeman

A PERSONAL MESSAGE to the PRESIDENT or GENERAL MANAGER of EVERY PLANT in THIS AREA

More than likely you're doing something about the scrap in your plant. Perhaps you've appointed a Salvage Committee or Salvage Manager. But no matter how much you've done, the job is not finished!

It won't be finished until you, personally, have gone through your entire plant and said what is to be turned in.

You are the only one who can do this—who has the necessary authority. Go around with a piece of chalk—mark everything that is to go. Question the need for every idle piece of metal or equipment. This is the rule to follow:

If it hasn't been used for six months, and you are certain it won't be for the next six—sell it or scrap it!

If it's equipment of machinery, get in touch with the manufacturer to see whether someone else can use it. If not — sell it to your scrap dealer.

Don't consider the job done until you, yourself, have gotten every ounce of scrap metal out of your plant and into the fight!

★ Let's tell Donald Nelson and the WPB that you're in this all the way!

Fill out one of these coupons and send it to him direct. Send the other one to us. We're going to publish a list of the patriotic firms which are getting behind this industrial scrap metal drive, when they tell us the tonnage they turn in after this date!

DONALD M. NELSON
War Production Board, Washington, D. C.
I want you to know that I, personally, am making sure that every pound of metal we can spare is being put to work to win the war!

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Use the Right Size of Coal

MANY people are under the impression that there is only one size of anthracite coal. Many others think that it makes no difference what size is used in the furnace. Anthracite coal is prepared and sold in several home sizes. One of these sizes will give best results in your furnace and more useful heat for the least money, or it may be that a combination of sizes will give you better results in your particular heating plant.

Usually the size of coal to be used is determined by the size of the firebox. Fireboxes that are 24" or more in diameter and 16" or more in depth require egg size coal. Those that are 18" to 23" in diameter and 12" to 15" in depth require stove size coal. Those that are less than 12" in depth usually require chestnut size coal.

The figures noted above are merely recommendations, subject to change by other factors, such as chimney construction, draft conditions and location of the house.

Your coal dealer by inspecting your heating plant will be able to tell you whether or not you are burning the correct size coal. If you feel that you are not getting satisfactory results from your furnace consult your coal dealer. He will be glad to assist you with your heating problems.

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Human Nature. This "more abundant life" can never come to us through legislative or executive decree. Human nature refuses to accept such a rule of thumb procedure. It must be free to go its own way, no matter whether the answer is abundance or scarcity.

Recipe for Sanity

Are you worsted in a fight?
  Laugh it off.
Are you cheated of your right?
  Laugh it off.
Don't make tragedy of trifles,
Don't shoot butterflies with rifles—
  Laugh it off.

Does your work get into kinks?
  Laugh it off.
Are you near all sorts of brinks?
  Laugh it off.
If it's sanity you're after
There's no recipe like laughter—
  Laugh it off.

—Henry Rutherford Elliott.

You can't persuade if you're afraid.

We grow old because we pile up useless burdens of bad prejudices and worse memories.

The man who forgets will soon be forgotten.

There is no niche in the Hall of Fame for the man who decided to await developments.

Far too many things "that are good for us" have the same palatability as spinich.

An item in the New York Sun tells of a resident in one of the suburbs who returned home late one night and found the following message, in the handwriting of his Polish maid, fastened to the telephone:

Mz Mx Kuldop
Zo Zum Ykam Kulrop
Nemera Owlette Tzgonabe
Kulrop

He lay awake half the night wondering what the mysterious message could mean. In the morning the maid told him.

"Mrs. Mix called up. So soon you come, call her up. No matter how late it's gonna be, call her up."

Time has given to the American people the following clever story: City Councilman Harry Davenport of Pompton Lakes, N. J., got a letter from the local American Legion Post:

"You are invited to be one of the speakers at our Memorial Day meeting. The program will include a talk by the Mayor, recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by a high school pupil, your talk and then the firing squad.

An amiable old man was trying to win the friendship of the small daughter of the house.

Man—I'll give you a nickel for a kiss.

Girl—(sweetly)—No, thank you. I can make more money taking castor oil.

A friend writes to tell us that he saw the following newspaper advertisement. "Young man who gets paid on Monday and is broke by Wednesday would like to exchange small loans with a young man who gets paid on Wednesday and is broke by Monday."

The telephone rang in the press room at the White House. The reporter who picked up the receiver heard a Negro voice saying: "Hello—is this Doctah Adams?"

Reporter—No, this is the White House.

Voice—Oh, the White House, excuse me, Mistuh President!

Colonel (pointing to cigarette stub on company headquarter floor) Soldier, is that yours?

Rookie (pleasantly)—Not at all, sir, you saw it first.

other party won is not important," he said. "We are not here tonight to celebrate a party victory. We are all of us interested in only one victory — total, uncompromising, crushing victory over our country's enemies."

There was a dimout outside and a funeral atmosphere inside Tammany Hall where a handful of men stood around in the big hall where in election years past mobs were jammed for space.

James A. Farley, State Democratic Chairman who championed Bennett's nomination over Senator James M. Mead, who was supported by President Roosevelt, said:

"We are living in a democracy. The citizens of the State of New York have spoken."

As Dewey entered his headquarters in the Hotel Roosevelt, there were cheers "Dewey for president" and "Tom Dewey for president."

"A great responsibility has been placed upon me today by the people of the State of New York," Dewey said. "We have sent a stunning message to our enemies. We have shown to all the world that we, even in the midst of total war, can hold a free election under the American two-party system. * * * in all things needed for the winning of this war we are united in unswerving loyalty to our Commander in Chief."

History repeated itself in Times Square as soldiers, sailors and citizens, strolling in the enshadowed canyon, took the election news calmly, just as they did on election night in '18 during the first World War. Last night Broadway wore its cloak of dimout darkness and after the early crowds vanished into theatres, the Square seemed almost desolate.

Three False Alarms

Three false alarms of fire kept the fire department busy Tuesday evening. The first false alarm was at 7:54 o'clock from Box 2311, Hasbrouck avenue and Murray street; the second at 8:43 o'clock from Box 2221 at School No. 4, and the third from Box 2431, Delaware and Third avenues, at 9:40 o'clock.

ert S. Bainbridge, Republican. Bainbridge was nominated to replace Robert E. Johnson, who resigned from the Senate to enter military service.

Democratic assemblymen lost in Erie, Monroe, Sullivan, Richmond and New York counties, Republicans in Kings and Queens.

Fred Hammer, Erie county, was defeated by William J. Butler, Republican; Prospero V. Viggiano, replacing Democratic Senator James J. Dooling, resigned, lost to John J. Lamula in Manhattan; Democratic incumbent Nelson E. Owen was defeated in Monroe by Thomas F. Riley; Albert V. Maniscalco, Democratic incumbent in Richmond, lost to S. Robert Molinari, and James G. Lyons, Democrat, was defeated by Ronald Albee in Sullivan.

The Republicans lost in Kings' 10th District, where Walter E. Cooke defeated David E. Pitcher, Republican, to replace Francis E. Dorn, who resigned to go into the Navy, and in Queens' fourth, where William F. Bowe triumphed in an identical situation. Samuel Rabin, the unsuccessful Republican candidate, replaced Henry J. Latham, who resigned for naval duty.

Seven Senate contests had not been reported early today, and nine in the Assembly.

vote rolled up for the Republican ticket. "I had expected Ulster county to roll up comfortable majorities for the entire Republican ticket," he said, "but the final results far exceeded my expectations."

The election this year in Kingston had been exceedingly quiet; probably the quietest election ever held in the city, but those who kept in touch with the public were aware of the definite trend toward Republicism that was shown.

While Republican leaders had expected the entire county and state ticket to carry the city they had not expected that such large majorities would be rolled up.

Senator Wicks' city vote was 6,624, while his Democratic opponent Jacob Schneider who was also the candidate on the American Labor ticket, polled a total of 4,536 votes.

The city vote for County Clerk Robert A. Snyder was 6,529, while his opponent, Herbert L. George polled 4,189 Democratic votes and 351 American Labor votes.

The tabulation of the vote in the city of Kingston will be found on page 5.

Platforms Were All Based on Prosecution of War

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, commenting on the election results, said today that "our enemies can get no comfort from this election" because "the platform of every single candidate—Republican, Democrat and Labor—was vigorous, efficient prosecution of the war."

His complete statement follows:

"Our enemies can get no comfort from this election. The platform of every single candidate—Republican, Democratic and Labor—was vigorous, efficient prosecution of the war. There was a strong element of protest in the vote. But it was the protest of insistence upon more effective organization of the war. And that can be no comfort for the enemy.

"Those who believe in freedom everywhere will gain confidence from the demonstration that freedom can hold to its protective institutions even in desperate wars."

Brooks Is Winner In Illinois Contest

Chicago, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican Wayland Brooks, elected to the Senate in 1940 by a narrow majority of 20,000 votes, defeated his Democratic challenger, Rep. Raymond S. McKeough, in yesterday's Illinois senatorial election by a margin that may reach 150,000. His victory marked the first time since 1927 that a G.O.P. senator from the state was named to a full six year term.

Returns from 7,647 out of the state's 8,709 precincts gave Brooks 1,352,772 and McKeough 1,208,827, a lead of 143,945 for the G.O.P. senator.

The 45-year-old incumbent, a pre-war isolationist, gained the lead from his strongly pro-Roosevelt opponent after about one-fourth of the ballots had been reported and steadily increased his margin throughout the tabulations.

McKeough, four-term congressman from the Second (Chicago) District, gained his heaviest support in the Chicago metropolitan area, but the large Republican vote in downstate counties more than offset his margin.

Brooks won his first election to the Senate in 1940, defeating the incumbent Democrat, James M. Slattery, by 20,827 votes to fill the unexpired term of the late J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat. The last Illinois Republican senator elected to a full six year term was Frank L. Smith in 1927, but he was refused his seat by action of the Senate and Otis F. Glenn, a Republican, was elected for his unexpired term, 1928-1933.

With approximately 88 per cent of the total precincts reported, indications were that the vote was the smallest in the state since 1934 when the total was 2,935,192. The Illinois record vote was in the last presidential election in 1940—4,262,196.

Farm Belt Helps Republican Surge In New Deal Upset

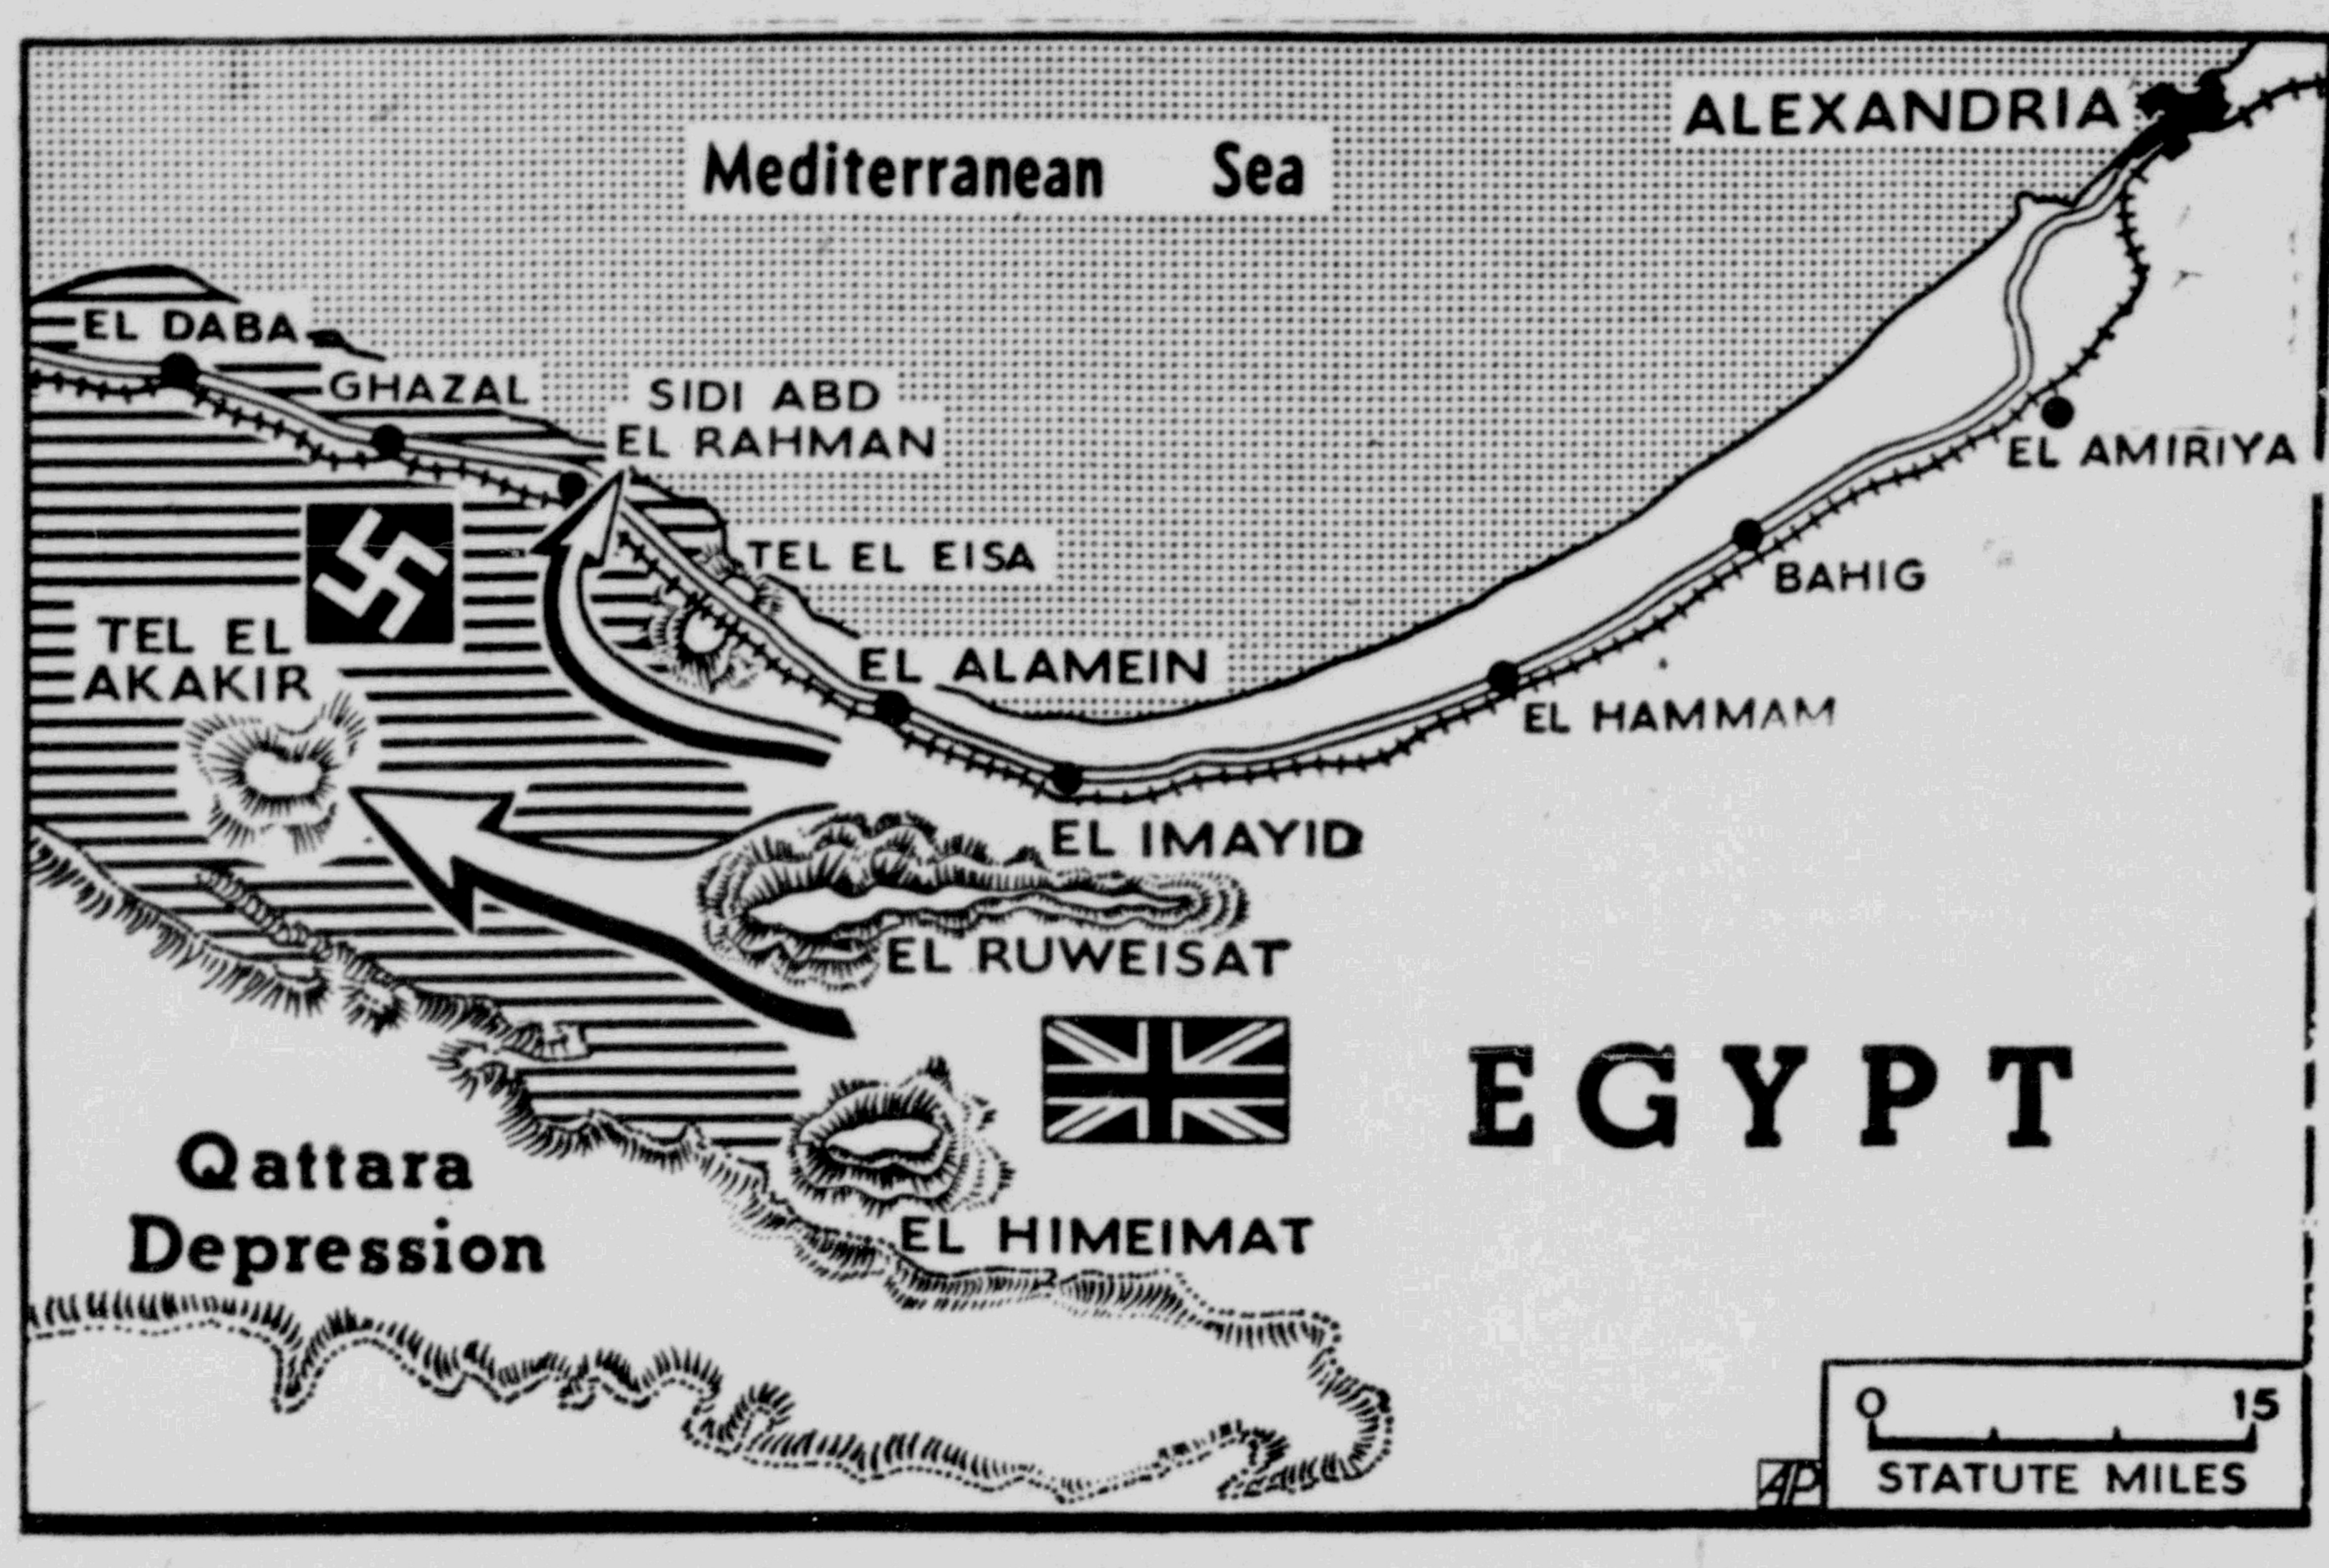
—against which Mr. Roosevelt has made outspoken remarks—gained re-election. Among them were Senators McNary (R., Ore.), Capper (R., Kas.), Brooks (R., Ill.), Bankhead (D., Ala.), Russell (D., Ga.), Ellender (D., La.), and Representatives Cannon (D., Mo.), Dirksen (R., Ill.), and Hope (R., Kas.).

In the defeat of veteran Senator George Norris, Nebraska Independent, the farm bloc lost a prominent member. His successor, Republican Kenneth S. Wherry, is expected, however, to be just as staunch a supporter. Oklahoma turned out Senator Josh Lee, an ardent backer of many administration policies which evoked stern farmer opposition.

Vessel Is Torpedoed

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—A small United States merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine early in October in the Atlantic off the northern coast of South America, the Navy announced today. Survivors were landed at an east coast port of the United States.

BIG TANK BATTLE RAGES ON EGYPTIAN FRONT



British tanks, reported by Axis sources to number 500, have clashed with General Rommel's forces around Tel El Akakir, 16 miles deep into the Axis defense zone on the Egyptian front. Meanwhile the British continued to pen up a pocket of Axis troops along the coast from Tel El Eisa to Sidi Abd El Rahman. Shading indicates approximate Axis holdings.

British Win First Major Desert Test

west of the broken enemy minefields.

"On a wide front inside this position and bordered by enemy anti-tank guns in formidable force, our strongest tanks and reinforcements continue to arrive," dispatches said.

While Allied infantry regiments surged forward, dazed and weary Axis prisoners in increasing numbers marched back through the gap torn in the defense on which Rommel labored three months to erect.

Many of the prisoners, about one-third of them Germans and the rest Italians, were reported suffering shock from the terrific barrage which preceded the Allied break-through.

A large force of Axis troops was apparently still bottled up between the British-held-corridor and the sea, trapped by veteran Australian troops who cut north from Tel El Akakir—"the hill of wicked men"—to seal off the western extremity of the corridor.

Some of these beleaguered German and Italian soldiers were already surrendering.

Supported by U. S. army planes and American-made General Grant and General Sherman tanks, Lieut.-Gen. B. L. Montgomery's British 8th army lunged into the attack on Monday after more than a week of careful probing and clearing passages through a maze of Axis minefields.

"For six hours, the tanks slugged it out in the sand and smoke until Rommel's forces broke off the engagement and retreated," dispatches said.

Retreat Is Covered

German artillery covered the Axis retreat, and the enemy then rushed up anti-tank guns to hold the British at bay.

Major developments elsewhere in the global war included:

Solomon Islands—U. S. army troops and Marines faced a new Japanese pincer threat on Guadalcanal today as the enemy marshaled freshly-laden reinforcements east of the island's prize air field.

The new Japanese landings were made under cover of darkness Monday night, the Navy announced the Japanese slipped ashore on east coast 24 hours after American destroyers bombarded Japanese positions west of the air base. American dive bombers also pounded the enemy in the northwest section of the island where the Japanese have landed most of their reinforcements.

New Guinea—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied vanguards had advanced nearly six miles beyond Kokoda, chief Japanese inland base at the foot of the Owen Stanley mountains, with the enemy still in retreat.

Australian troops were reported pushing steadily through the dense jungles toward the main Japanese coastal base at Buna, 120 miles across the Papua Peninsula from Port Moresby, where enemy sea-borne forces first landed on July 22.

Jap Shipping Raided

Gen. MacArthur's far-ranging bombers continued to support U. S. forces in the Solomons by raiding Japanese shipping in the Buin-faisi region, at the upper end of the 900-mile-long Archipelago, while other Allied planes attacked the enemy base at Dilli, in Portugese Timor.

Russian campaign—Soviet headquarters reported today that the Red armies had finally stemmed an offensive by 50,000 German troops on the Nalchik plateau, in the Central Caucasus, and recaptured several more strongholds in the 72-day-old siege of Stalingrad.

Two successive Russian communiques failed to note any fresh Soviet withdrawal below Nalchik, where the Germans have been pouring tanks, troops and planes into a major drive toward the Georgian military highway at Tiflis.

In the Western Caucasus, Red army troops were credited with ousting the Germans from several fortified heights northeast of Tuapse, Black Sea Naval station, and beating off Nazi counter attacks.

On the Stalingrad front, Red Star reported that Soviet reinforcements ferried across the Volga by night had landed in the German rear north of the city, diverted Nazi forces attacking a northside factory district, and inflicted heavy losses on the Germans.

Norris Says He Is at End of Road

Aged Senator Calls Defeat Repudiation of His 40-Year Service

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—"It's all over now and I'm at the end of the road," 81-year-old Senator Norris of Nebraska said today, calling his defeat for reelection "a repudiation of 40 years of service."

With tears in his eyes, he told reporters:

"I have done my best to repudiate wrong and evil in governmental affairs. But I have to admit I have utterly failed."

"I don't know why. I wasn't to blame.

"The most important thing from my viewpoint is that righteousness has been crucified and the people I love have condemned the thing I held most sacred.

"Personally, I find it is a repudiation of 40 years of service. God knows I've tried to do the job. I know I have been honest. I've tried to place politics on a higher plane."

Norris, a veteran independent who was defeated by Republican nominee Kenneth Wherry, added that he thought "it was a hard, sad blow to my philosophy of government" and that it seemed to be of little importance that it came at a time "when I know and everyone knows I'll never get back in."

"The people," Norris continued, "had a perfect right to do what they did. I would defend them to the last drop of my blood in their right to exercise the privilege they have just exercised."

Asked whether he thought he could have won if he had gone to Nebraska sooner to campaign, the senator replied: "It probably would have helped some, but nothing that I did seemed to matter."

Wicks Re-elected For Ninth Term

Senator Defeats Schneider by Majority of 16,200; 10,000 in Ulster

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city was re-elected for his ninth term in the state senate from the 29th Senatorial District Tuesday. He defeated Jacob J. Schneider of this city, his Democratic opponent who was also the American Labor party candidate, by a majority of 16,200, according to unofficial election figures.

Senator Wicks carried Ulster county by 10,000 or more; Greene county by 3,700 and Delaware county by 2,500.

RazorManufacture Halted by W.P.B.

Razors and Blades Are Put Under Restrictions for Civilian Use

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The war production board today halted the manufacture of safety razors for civilian use, and put all razor and razor blades under strict production and distribution restrictions.

From now on safety razors may be produced only for the military forces, for export, and for lend-lease purposes.

Production of straight razors was reduced substantially for the last two months of the years, and will be halted January 1. WPB said the industry, however, would be put to good use, manufacturing commando knives, among other things.

Production of safety razor blades next year will approximate 2,750,000,000, a 20 per cent reduction from the record-breaking 1941 production, but an increase of twelve percent over 1940.

WPB predicted the supply of blades for civilian use would be ample to meet all requirements in 1943. While fewer blades will be made for civilian use, the demand is expected to decrease substantially because of the millions of men in the armed forces.

WPB estimated the restrictions of razors and razor blades would result in a saving of more than 800 tons of steel, some of it of the high-carbon variety used in the war production program.

Hospital Directors Get Preview of Christmas Seals

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association held at the tuberculosis office, members were given a preview of the 1942 Christmas Seals.

The seal this year is a cheery stamp and depicts a snow scene quite typical of our own Ulster county rural life. In the picture is a red barn, white farm house and a happy couple well clad starting off in their cutter with a fine team of horses.

It is a peaceful as well as a most colorful picture. The artist is Dale Nichols, prominent member of the American Artists Groups.

The tuberculosis situation in Ulster county was also discussed by the group.

Dr. Cleland Sargent, District State Health Officer, a new member of the Association was present and gave a report of a recent survey he made of the tuberculosis situation.

Dr. Sargent spoke in the highest terms of the work carried on at the tuberculosis hospital and clinic and said it was one of the finest tuberculosis institutions he ever had visited. He praised Dr. Frederic Holcomb, the superintendent for his splendid work, and the city and county physicians for their extraordinary cooperation which is manifest in the number of reported cases in the county. There are 567 cases of positive cases in the county, about half of which are in Kingston.

The tuberculosis association was congratulated by Dr. Sargent for its tireless efforts in the tuberculosis health education program because without the cooperation of all its people no health program can be a success.

In the discussion that followed members unanimously voted to do all in their power to back officials and further efforts in the health education and tuberculosis control program. Every effort will be made to carry on so that our tuberculosis case and death rate in Ulster county will not increase because of war conditions.

Joyce-Schirick Post Obligates World War 2 Vet

KENNETH C. BOUCHARD

At a special meeting of Joyce Schirick Post No. 1386 Veterans of Foreign Wars held on Monday night at the Hotel Eichler, Kenneth C. Bouchard of this city had the honor of becoming the first comrade to take the obligation and therefore become the first member to join this post from the armed forces of World War No. 2. Comrade Bouchard left town today after spending a furlough with his uncle, Henry Fox, at 30 Ponckhockie street. Mr. Fox is a Spanish-American War veteran and a member of Joyce Schirick Post.

Comrade Bouchard is a survivor of the Aircraft Carrier Wasp which was sunk near the Solomon Islands a few weeks ago.

It is the intention of the Post to obligate the members of the armed forces who are now serving in foreign lands and hostile waters whenever they have the good fortune of securing a furlough. Special meetings will be called at any time to accommodate those men wishing to join the Veterans of Foreign Wars. In order to become a member of Joyce Schirick Post you must prove that you have seen active service overseas.

Edward J. Wortman, past commander, received word today that two more survivors of the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Wasp wish to join the post at a regular meeting to be held Thursday night at the Hotel Eichler. Comrade Wortman has been appointed chairman to recruit members from World War No. 2.

Any overseas man residing in Ulster county may join Joyce Schirick Post No. 1386, V.F.W. on his return home as this post is the only one situated in this county.

Every member is urged to be present at this very important meeting tomorrow night. A banquet will be served after the ceremonies.

Four Rs of Tires

Akron (AP) — Re-groove, re-tread, re-build and re-cap are four important words in motorists' vocabularies these days when tires can't be re-placed. Harold Gray, technical supervisor of the B. F. Goodrich company, says the four "re" words now confusing worried drivers have specific meanings. Re-groove, he says, means cutting new treads into old tires without adding any new materials. The War Production Board has turned thumbs down on this method because it wastes the rubber cut out to make grooves. Re-tread means ripping the worn tread, shoulder and even some shock-absorbing fiber off old tires and replacing with new. Re-build is sometimes used synonymously with re-tread. Re-cap has two grades—top-cap, which involves vulcanizing a new strip of tread onto worn tires, and full-cap, which means using a wider strip to cover the old tread and part of the tire shoulder as well. It requires less rubber than re-treadings. "Of the four," Gray points out, "re-capping rates with tire authorities as the most efficient way to make available rubber stocks go furthest, which makes it the best way we have to "keep 'em rolling."

Food Costs Are Still Reported to Be Low

Albany — "Workingmen's families can buy a basket of specified food products for the smallest share of family income on record since 1913. Average family income has been rising more rapidly than food prices during the past three years and throughout the first nine months of 1942, due to higher wage rates, more hours of work per week with overtime payments, and more persons employed." This statement in a federal-state report issued by the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets is credited to a recent analysis made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and is of course based on national averages.

The budget for foods commonly used by a non-farm family amounts to about 22 per cent of the family income at recent price levels. This compares with 27 per cent of the income for food in the period 1935-39, with 28 per cent in 1918 and 29 per cent in 1919, the year in which food took the highest proportion of increase.

The report points out that in September 1942 the rate of family income was 57 per cent over the 1935-39 level, while the cost of a typical food basket was up 26 per cent.

The prices at the farm of the products from which this basket was filled had risen 21 per cent during this period.

Farmer's Share of Consumer's Dollar

The farmer's share of the retail value of 58 important foods was 53 cents out of each dollar. This was the relationship prevailing in 1913-15 and in 1920. This share has been over 50 cents since September 1941. It was 42 cents in the 1935-39 period. The farmer's share of the consumer's dollar varies widely, ranging for example from 86 per cent in the case of pork products and 63 per cent for eggs (September) to 28 per cent for rolled oats, 20 per cent for white bread, and 11 per cent for soda crackers.

The marketing of food products includes labor costs as a rather large proportion of expense. An appreciable increase in marketing margins for food products has occurred in the last few months with the expectation that this trend will continue at least into the early part of 1943.

British to Help

London (AP) — United States truck and automobile drivers who have complained about the difficulty of finding their way about Britain's highways, devoid of signposts and lighting, will hereafter have the help of the British Automobile Association which is placing its services at the disposal of Americans. The United States Army Headquarters said American drivers could seek the association's advice on the best routes, receive convenient stops marked, and would have access to the repair service from Association scouts who patrol the highways on motorcycles.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Team Work

Elkhart, Ind.—City detectives solved a series of burglaries here with basketball plays—and here's how that trick was done:

Investigating a restaurant burglary, officers found a set of basketball plays. On a tour of county schools they found the coach who had issued copies of the plays to his team.

The boys were told to turn in their copies and the youth who was unable to do so quickly pleaded guilty to the restaurant job and several others.

Heavy Vote

Alameda, Idaho—The vote was too heavy in one precinct yesterday.

Citizens thronged into the village hall. The floor gave way and fell two feet to the ground. No one was hurt.

Election officials righted their equipment, and carefully rationed their voters thereafter.

Rotten Egg Situation

Belvidere, Ill.—John C. Weigel, regional Office of Price Administration chief, said some of the local sages clucked knowingly when eggs disappeared from the local stores—it was all a matter of inequalities of price ceilings, they asserted.

Federal trouble shooters sent out by Weigel came back with the report: "It is the moulting season for hens and they are laying fewer eggs."

Detective Detected

Emporia, Kas. — Everything looked suspicious all right. The stranger sat in his parked car while Police Chief Charles O'Brien's men sized him up.

Finally they hauled him in.

He had papers to prove he was a visiting detective trying to trail an evil doer.

Just Walk, Pal

Columbia, Mo.—The rubber situation may bring old Dobbin back, but—

If you lead, ride or drive a horse on any of Columbia's streets, you're breaking a law.

City Attorney A. D. Sappington, preparing to revise city ordinances, also learned it is unlawful to wash a horse on a city street or to hitch him to a fire plug or lamp post.

Pound Cake by Yard

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—Pound cake sells by the yard now in 150 New York stores. Bakers say it packages easily, keeps well and slices thin. A yard, about 50 slices, sells for $1.05.

Britain has fixed prices of partridges and pheasants.

Moose Lodge Plans Novel Barn Dance

The members of Kingston Lodge No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold an old fashioned barn dance Saturday evening, November 7, at the Moose hall, Broadway and Thomas street. The committee in charge of arrangements, headed by Jesse Huffen, has completed all details.

The dance is a novel affair consisting of various fun provoking acts. The hall will be decorated in a barn atmosphere including a town jail, several justices of the peace and constables providing mock arrests and maintaining general order. Gingham dresses and overalls will be the predominating clothes for the occasion. A popular modern orchestra will furnish music for modern and old fashioned dancing.

All service men located in this vicinity are invited to the dance as the guests of the lodge. Chairman of the ticket committee is George Gardiner.

New Class Will Start at Y. W. C. A.

A new class in arts and crafts, including metalcraft, is scheduled to start next Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A., under the direction of Mrs. William McVey. Registration is not yet complete for the class, and those interested are asked to call the "Y" office. The Y. W. C. A. has a limited supply of materials on hand and after this season all such classes will probably have to be discontinued.

Lowell Club Continues Study of Historical Novel

Lowell Club met at the home of Miss Mary Hale, Orchard street, yesterday to continue its study of the American historical novel.

The first paper of the afternoon was presented by Mrs. Arthur S. Cole. Her subject was the synopsis of "The Spy" by James Fenimore Cooper. The story was written in 1821 at the age of 32. It centers around the adventures of Harry Burch during the Revolutionary War pretending to be a spy for the British while being employed by George Washington to obtain information for the United States Army. At that time Westchester county was neutral territory between the British who occupied the country toward New York and the Americans who occupied the highlands. All his life Harry Burch assumed disguise and he is last seen in the War of 1812 when he appears as a peddler before Captain Dunwoodie who was his sister's son. Soon after at his death papers signed by General Washington are found on his person and give his real identity.

Mrs. John H. Saxe followed with the reading of synopsis of "The Pilot," also written by Cooper, at Cooperstown in 1823.

The next meeting of the club will be Monday, November 10, at the home of Mrs. Rose K. Witter, 117 Fair street.

A SOLDIER'S WIFE SENDS HIS LOVE BY PROXY — ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Many questions are being asked about how to include absent husbands names on Christmas messages. The following letter asks how to include a greeting and an announcement: "My husband is overseas. I expect a baby quite near to Christmas and would like to have combination cards with Christmas greetings, and announcements of the baby. I would also like to include my husband on the card even though he will not be here. If it could be possible to do all this, will you tell me how?

Answer: You can perfectly well choose Christmas cards and then write by hand on the card "With love from Mary and John, Junior (or Baby Alice). Love by proxy from John too, who would join us were he here."

Invitations and Announcements Combined

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm to be married near my fiance's camp; there is to be just the service with our parents present. I am then going to stay on near the camp until Christmas, when we hope to go home to stay with our families—half time with each. My family would at that time like to give us a reception. My question is will it be too long to wait until Christmas to send out announcements. We thought the invitation to the reception in honor of our marriage might do nicely, to announce the marriage as well, and thus eliminate what may be needless expense. But the fact that there is so much time before the reception confuses us.

Answer: I think you might perfectly well announce the marriage in the papers, and then send out the invitations to the reception in honor of your marriage later, and not send out announcements at all.

Note Paper Marked Only With First Name

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be in questionable taste to use note paper that has my first name across the top corner to acknowledge wedding presents. The wedding was a hurry-up-going-to-training-camp-one and it is note paper that I had before I was married. I want to save expense wherever I can but wonder if this paper can be used to write to many people whom I don't know at all—or at least not well—who sent presents because of my husband.

Answer: The paper you suggest would be quite proper, since thanks for presents are personal notes. Such paper of course would not be suitable for any business letters and not the best choice for third person answers to invitations, or for letters to those whom you would be unwilling to have call you by your first name.

Have you seen Mrs. Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Service"? Send for it today, enclosing ten cents in coin and a three-cent stamp to cover postage and handling. Address Mrs. Post, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Teachers' College News

Concert Is Held

Tuesday evening in the school auditorium, the Music Association of the New Paltz State Teachers' College held its first in a series of Lyceum numbers of the year. Howard B. Hoffman conducted the concert.

The theme of the concert was "Music for Victory" and emphasized the part that music plays in the war of today.

Senior-Junior Prom

Ward Harrison and his band will provide the music for the Senior-Junior Prom scheduled for Saturday evening, November 7. The dance will be formal. Bids may be purchased from Nancy Dean. Peggy Farrell and "Buzz" Maybury are in charge of the music.

Loretta O'Donnell, Mathilda Usner, Bett Norwesh, Margie Bentley, Frances Kurzhals, Mary Rotter, Audrey Linehan and Virginia Kingston are in charge of refreshments. The committee working on bids for the prom includes Diana Kurkhill, Violet Gregg, Jane Vandewater, Irene Kline, Kitt Startup and Arline Cohen. Leo Poulos is in charge of the general committee.

Country Club Meets

A meeting of the Country Life Club is scheduled for Thursday, November 5. The following committees are in charge of the meeting:

Refreshments, Olive Berner, chairman; Ethel Short, Virginia Moores, clean-up, Dolores McKeown, chairman; George Maybury, Ruth Hess; games, Billy Steietler, chairman; Bett Norwesh, Edwin Heroy; music, May Hersey, chairman; Muriel Crego, Gert Nebel; entertainment, Phyllis Singleton, chairman; Elizabeth Frost and Wanda Krom.

Helen Phillips, president of the Country Life Club, announces that all freshmen members seeking membership, must fill out applications before attending this meeting. It is further necessary that all members file a report in the rural office of two activities carried out.

Play Is Presented

The New Paltz Players presented a one-act play entitled, "The Boor," in the assembly last week. Irene Suskind Kline and George Laug portrayed the leading characters in this play. Marjorie Reiss was the widow's maid. George Maybury, William Clinton, Herman Thoben portrayed the workmen. Other members contributing their services were Ruty Bergman, property manager; Joseph Viscoglosi, stage manager; Berit Johansen, assistant stage manager; Teresa Ranalli, makeup and Albert Van Houten, lighting. Miss Rebecca McKenna directed the play.

Three Russian musical selections were played by Miss Frances Kurzhalls, Mrs. Charles E. Huntington and Miss Mary Howard.

¼ cup sour cream
1 cup rolled oats (uncooked breakfast cereal)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped raisins
½ cup salted peanuts
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda

Cream fat and sugar, add eggs and cream. Beat well and then lightly stir in rest of ingredients. Chill dough and drop portions from tip of spoon onto greased baking sheets. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Gay Notched Pockets

Marian Martin

Here's first aid for workaday wardrobes—in a Marian Martin shirtwaister. Pattern 9228 is very trim and serviceable, with slim panelled skirt lines and a soft yoked bodice. And, because a touch of gaiety is so important these days, add a pair of notched pockets.

Pattern 9228 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 2½ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send SIXTEEN CENTS in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Our Winter Pattern Book covers the entire American fashion front, with smart, practical, easy-to-sew styles for everyone. It has gift tips; a basic wartime wardrobe; school wear. Pattern Book, ten cents.

Send your order to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th street, New York, N. Y.

Teacher Is Injured

Miss Florence Finn of 110 O'Neil street, a member of the faculty of School No. 8, suffered an injured ankle on Tuesday morning when the heel of her shoe caught on the door sill of the Second ward, second district polling place. A report of the accident was made to police headquarters by Officer Archie Van Aken, who was on duty at the polls in that district Tuesday.

Testimonial To Cooking

London, (AP)—Reginald Allen, a govermental construction worker, and apparently something of a rugged individualist as well, drove an eight-ton power grader 24 feet long and nine feet wide three-quarters of a mile — to lunch. He was fined $3 for driving an uninsured vehicle, and [illegible] for unwarranted use of gasoline.

Argentina's first modern plane constructed by a private company was made entirely of wood except the engine and recently made a successful flight.

Vegetable Juices Found To Be Present Problems

Geneva, N. Y. — Taking a lead from the tremendous popularity enjoyed by tomato juice during the past decade, scientists at the State Experiment Station here are turning their attention toward the development of other vegetable juices, according to a brief account of the work in a recent Station publication.

One of the chief difficulties encountered in developing high-quality vegetable juices is that most vegetables are so lacking in acidity that they must be subjected to long periods of processing at high temperatures in order to destroy all bacterial life and thus lose their flavor and other desirable characteristics, say the station specialists. If the acidity of the juice can be increased so as to prohibit the growth of certain heat-resistant bacteria, the product can be preserved by so-called "flash pasteurization" that has proved so successful in preserving the high quality and flavor of fruit juice.

Rather than attempting to increase the acidity of vegetable juices by adding mineral acids, such as hydrochloric or phosphoric acids or organic acids, such as lactic and citric acids, the station workers are advocating the blending of the vegetable juice with juices of higher acidity, such as rhubarb or sauerkraut juices. Of the two sauerkraut juice has proved the more desirable because it does not mask the flavor of the juice with which it is blended.

In the station experiments sauerkraut juice has been blended successfully with the juices of carrots, celery, rutabagas, beets, white turnips, onions, and red cabbage. Thus far, the carrot-sauerkraut blend is regarded as having the best flavor and appearance, although some of the sauerkraut-celery blends have also proved very palatable and attractive. In every instance the sauerkraut blends were deemed superior to the pure unacidified vegetable juice. The production, blending, and processing of vegetable juices are explained in some detail in the station publication.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 10¢ and 25¢.

Wallace Wins Against Poletti

State Will Be Under Full Republican Slate; Three Others Are Winners

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican Thomas E. Dewey rode into New York's governorship today, ending a 20-year Democratic administration, on a plurality of about 600,000 votes that helped sweep all his running mates into office.

With only a few of the state's 9,327 districts unreported, the vote showed a complete Republican administration to be inaugurated January 1. The winners, besides Dewey:

Lieut. Governor, Thomas W. Wallace, Schenectady.

Comptroller, Frank C. Moore, Kenmore.

Attorney General, Nathaniel L. Goldstein, Brooklyn.

The landslide for Dewey, which put him in the forefront of possibilities for the 1944 presidential nomination, also carried to victory the Republican candidates for representatives-at-large — Miss Winifred C. Stanley, Buffalo, and Dr. Charles Muzzicato, New York city.

Care of Wartime Paint Brushes

New paint brushes of the type made of a mixture of horsehair and bristle to meet wartime requirements should be combed until the hair is free and straight and should then be put directly into the paint, without touching the combed hair with the hands, for contact with the hands will again twist and mat the hair, says a brush manufacturer's bulletin. Never put a new brush of this type in water, for water will curl, twist and mat the horsehair, the manufacturer advises. While use of water is advised against at any time, if soap and water is used to clean the brushes after painting, the hair should be combed straight and allowed to dry before using it again. If the foregoing simple directions are observed, the brushes of mixed hair should give satisfactory service.

Highland, Nov. 4.—Initiation of a new member will take place at the meeting of the U. D. Society Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Howard E. Wilcox.

Mrs. Rose Seaman went Friday, to the home of her son, Harvey Seaman in Chatham, where she will remain for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Poelma returned Sunday from a short stay in New York.

Mrs. Blanche Brucklacher has returned from a five weeks' visit with relatives and friends on Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Coelho and son, were dinner guests of Mrs. Lewis Vail, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Williams and Mrs. Jennie Abrams, drove to Walton Sunday to call on Mrs. Abraham's brother, Calvin DuBois.

Pvt. Charles Goerth has been transferred from Ft. Bragg to Camp Claiborne, La.

Miss Margery Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walters of West Park, has entered the University of Wisconsin for training as a radio operator. She will graduate in January, and will be assigned to a Naval radio shore station. Miss Walters is a member of the WAVES.

Under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school, the junior department under the direction of Mrs. S. A. MacCormac, Mrs. W. H. Maynard and Mrs. Merrill Lewis, held a Halloween party Friday evening in the church parlor. Those attending were from the fifth grade to high school. Costume prizes went to Carol Clarke, for the prettiest; and to Gilian Jackson for the funniest. On Saturday afternoon, the primary department held a Halloween party in the church parlor for 25 children between the ages of 4 and 10. They came in costume with prizes going to Frances Swift for the prettiest; to Carlton Dimsey for the most original; to Fred Maynard and Kenneth Cummings, for the two funniest.

Reports from the Donald B. DuBois fund show that there are 233 men in service from the town of Lloyd. 226 men and women have been sent portfolios containing writing materials; 50 Christmas boxes have been sent out of the country and ten have sent acknowledgments; 33 birthday cards and two cards to those sick have also been sent. The fund now has about $1,400 in the treasury. Much of the credit of this goes to George P. Muller and Sergeant E. J. Hulse.

Those sewing on bags for kits at the Red Cross Monday afternoon were: Chairman Mrs. Arthur Clarke, with Mrs. C. I. Richards, Mrs. Edward Hulse, Mrs. Oliver Tillson, Mrs. A. Gerome Pratt, Mrs. Willard Burke, Mrs. W. D. Corwin, Mrs. G. H. Mackey, Mrs. Benjamin Gedney, Miss Ada Van Nostrand, Mrs. Hudson Covert, Mrs. Ella Burchill, Mrs. William Russell and Mrs. Edmond Finley.

A Bible exhibit was discussed at the meeting of the Sunday school officers Wednesday evening, at the Presbyterian manse. Miss Emily Lent was appointed chairman, to procure an exhibit of unusual and old Bibles for Sunday, November 29. Present were: Miss Lent, Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Busch, Mrs. Gladys Mears, Mrs. Edgar Boyce, Albert Landgon and the hosts, the Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Haynes.

Mrs. C. E. Baldwin was hostess to the Monday afternoon bridge club with Mrs. D. H. Starr as substitute for Mrs. Franklin Welker.

Miss Rose Ellison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ellison of Gardiner, was married on October 27, to James Southworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Southworth of Maple avenue, at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The Rev. Devello S. Haynes performed the ceremony. The attendants were the bride's sister, Miss Winifred Ellison and the brother of the bridegroom, Chester Southworth, Jr. Only members of the immediate families were present. Mr. Southworth who is in the navy, was home on furlough and returned to his base the following Monday.

The marriage of Miss Margery Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood of Cranberry, N. J., former residents of Highland, to George Williams, son of Mrs. Mary Williams and the late Frank A. Williams was solemnized at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in a double ring ceremony in Holy Trinity Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by Father Raymond O'Brien. Miss Rose Symes was the soloist and sang, "Ave Maria." The attendants were the sister of the bride and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sherow. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white with fingertip veil caught by a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Sherow's gown was of dubonnet moire and tulle. She carried chrysanthemums of the same shade. Guests were present from Detroit, Mich., Cranberry, N. J., Bayonne, N. J., Glen Rock, N. J., Staten Island, Highland and Kingston. A reception for 35 was held at Schoentags. Mrs. Williams is a graduate of Rider College, Trenton, N. J., and holds a secretarial position with the Ross Industries in New Brunswick, N. J. She will make her home with her parents for the duration as Mr. Williams will soon enter the service. He attended Highland high school and is employed at present in the Ross Industries.

Pvt. Goodfellow in Montgomery, Alabama

George Goodfellow, former Y. M. C. A. secretary, is stationed at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Alabama, where he is a member of the Medical Detachment of the Army Air Corps. Private Goodfellow writes that it is a swell place with 11 modern buildings and a training center for pilots.

Private Goodfellow left the local Y. M. C. A. as general secretary on October 27 for Camp Upton and remained there for two days. During his secretaryship at the local Y. M. C. A., Private Goodfellow accomplished a great many things and gained numerous friends for the association. He also improved the condition of the building and built up a splendid program.

resulted in a break-through on a front of some 4,0000 yards. There was bitter hand-to-hand fighting among strong axis positions.

Rommel rushed a fleet of tanks into action in an effort to stem the advance, but the allied air force, which presumably included many American warplanes, smashed the concentration and sent those tanks which were not destroyed rushing for safety.

Montgomery had chosen this strong sector for his attack because the ground was suitable for tanks. His tactics were rewarded when the infantry finally wrested Tel El Akakir—the hill of the wicked—from the enemy. This strategically important ridge and the firmer terrain about it are better adapted to tank maneuvers than the shifting sands in other sectors.

Naturally, with this increase in freedom of movement for armored forces, a big tank battle developed.

This is precisely the situation which Montgomery is aiming to create. As already indicated, his object is not to drive axis forces back, but to catch them and utterly destroy them.

Should things go well with the allied attack, a break-through may develop into flank movements which will result in the encirclement and annihilation of large forces of the enemy unless Rommel can avoid such traps.

Here we shouldn't forget that the Nazi Marshal is one of the shrewdest captains in the war. You can't say that he is beaten until you have his scalp actually at your belt.

Defense Worker Goes Off With Twin Sons

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4 (AP)—Called simultaneously by their Selective Service board, a 45-year-old defense worker and his 20-year-old twin sons, will entrain with an induction group this morning for Fort Devens.

George L. Williams was named leader of the contingent which included his boys, Richard G. and John M., Two other sons are already in the armed services.

A member of the board said it was just a coincidence that the three numbers were drawn together. Williams declared:

"I'm especially glad I'm going with my boys. I'd love to be with them all the time I am in the army."

Woman Is Arrested

Mrs. Bessie West of 223 Catherine street, was arrested Tuesday by Captain James V. Simpson of the police department who charged her with selling a pint of wine without first having a license to do so, in violation of the A.B.C. law. This morning Mrs. West was represented in police court by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan and the hearing was adjourned to November 13.

Dewey Is Sole G.O.P. Winner in 13th Ward

In tabulating the vote cast for governor on Tuesday in Kingston it is interesting to note that a total of 11,316 votes were cast, as compared with the city's registration of 11,979, a drop of 663 votes from the number registered and those who voted.

Of the 11,316 votes cast yesterday Thomas E. Dewey received 6,425; John J. Bennett, Jr., 4,456, and Dean Alfange, 425.

Another interesting sidelight on the election was the vote cast in the Thirteenth ward where Dewey carried the ward by a single vote, while all of the other Republican candidates lost that ward.

Red Cross Conference To Be Held in New York

A number of Ulster county Red Cross workers will attend the regional conference meeting of the American Red Cross, which will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York city, on Friday, November 6.

Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the American Red Cross, will be the speaker at the main session of the conference. Robert E. Bondy, supervisor of the Administration Services to the armed forces, will speak at the morning session.

The New York Chapter of the American Red Cross will be host to the conference.

Every member of every ship crew leaving New Zealand with New Zealand produce destined for other countries will be presented two pounds of choice butter, the gift of New Zealand dairymen.

Woodstock Will Have Film Society Again

The Woodstock Artists' Association is again starting a Film Society, which will bring to Woodstock this winter, many of the choice contemporary films. An initial series of four evenings of films will be presented in the Town Hall every Friday evening in November, at 8 p. m., beginning promptly. The first will be this Friday, November 6.

Only members of the Film Society will be admitted, and one may join by purchasing a ticket for four admissions to the first series. The price has been kept low in order to enable as many as possible to take advantage of these weekly get-togethers. Members of the Film Society are urged to make the project their own by comments and suggestions, so that the movies will represent the choice of the people of Woodstock, and in that way serve the community.

Tickets are now available for the first series. Announcements of the first four pictures will follow. Tickets are on sale in the Woodstock Five and Ten, or may be purchased from any member of the committee on arrangements.

The following are on the committee: Mrs. Vladimir Padwa, chairman; Mrs. Philip FitzPatrick, tickets; Richard Crane, treasurer; Mrs. Margaret Lowengrund Lilly, publicity; Miss Isabel Doughty, Mrs. Thomas Penning, Mrs. Hannah Small, Wendell Jones. A sponsoring committee also has been formed, consisting of Mrs. Clark Neher, Mrs. Mortimer Downer, Miss Anne Carolan, Mrs. Allan Watrous, Mrs. Hans Cohn, Miss Wilma Hervey, Mrs. John McClellan, Paul Fiene, Mrs. Ruth Huffine, Mrs. Julia S. Leaycraft and Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson.

Rubber From Wood Products

Stockholm (AP) — Production of an artificial rubber from wood products, capable of being vulcanized and suitable for use in bicycle tires, shoe heels and plastic products, but not for motor car tires, has been announced here. The process has been developed by Gosta Ehrensvard, a young Swedish chemist, and an experimental factory has been opened at Gislaved, in central Sweden, by the Swedish Co-operative Association. A full-sized factory for the production of the new artificial rubber is planned. The new product has been given the name of "Telax." The Co-operative Association anounced that it does not intend to monopolize the process but will offer the basic material to other manufacturers.

DuBois Takes Spotlight

In the Independent League matches at the Central Recreation alleys Monday night Ray DuBois of Wilbers, took the spotlight when he crashed out a sizzling 597 series on a string of 245, 191 and 161. His 161 third kept him from blasting a cool 7000 series.

Besides walking off with high triple of 597, which is a new league record, the singer-bowler also established a new high single score with his opening 245. Despite Ray's great kegling Wilbers lost two games to the Buicks.

Charlie Grunenwald of Vogels contested Ray pretty much for the high triple mark when he coasted home with a 596 cluster of 163, 201 and 232. Vogels took three from Callanans.

Ray Kubicek of Beicherts sparked his team to two triumphs over the Oilers as he posted a great single of 244, second high to DuBois' 245. Kubicek finished with a stellar 555 series.

Other scores worth mentioning in the league Monday night were Joe Messinger's 215 and 563, Tommy Costello's 549, R. J. Henry's 227, Beichert's 210, Bill Evans' 226 and 220 singles and triples of 586, Bob Townsend's 217 and 552, E. Vogel's 211 and 571 and F. Shick's 225 and 559.

Fassbender Rolls 654

A new high triple mark was registered in the Central Recreation League at the Rec alleys last night when Steve Fassbender, Jr., rolled 654 for three games. Steve had a string of 190, 209 and 254, thus breaking George Robinson's old record of 609.

Fassbender, who rolls with the Astors, nearly established a new high single with his 254 but fell short of Joe Messinger's present high of 268. Despite Fassbender's good bowling, the Astors dropped two games to the Vining and Smith keglers. Earl Mellow sparked this club with a 564 series on games of 192, 198 and 174. Joe Messinger had 545 while Harry Smith came on with 544. Weber and Dixon had 525 and 514 for the losers.

With Joe Dulin cracking out a 570 Hercules tripped Johnny Sangi's Sharpers in three straight. Dulin rolled out games of 189, 181 and 200. Norm Niles had 542 and Kennedy 521. Johnny Sangi's 518 was high for the losers. Larry Petersen and Stan Colvin posted 517 series.

The Ulster keglers won three from the Governor Clintons. George Robinson's 566 sparked the winners. He had scores of 172, 180 and 214. J. Magnusson had 551, Phil Masters 549 and Coke Costello 533. Cunningham's 544 topped the losers. H. Smith posted 508.

No Pocahontas Society

There does not appear to be a Pocahontas society, and the only monument erected to the memory of this famous Indian woman is located at Heacham, England, unveiled in June, 1933. The monument was erected by present representatives of the Rolfe family in England and by Americans in Virginia and other states.

Many families in Virginia claim descent from Pocahontas through her son by John Rolfe. Among these are the Gays, the Robertsons, the Elbridges, the Bollings, including Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt who married President Wilson in 1915, John Randolph, and the Harrisons, including Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and William H. and Benjamin Harrison, Presidents of the United States.

Yankee Ace Voted Over Ted Williams Of Boston Red Sox

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Joe Gordon, the great second baseman of the New York Yankees, has been named the most valuable player of the American League for 1942, preserving the tradition that this coveted annual award usually goes to a member of the pennant-winning club.

Since the baseball writers association of America took over in 1931 the task of selecting the most valuable player, there have been few breaks in the tradition and non at all in the last four years.

Gordon's performance this year was the best in his five seasons with the Yankees, and he unquestionably was a powerful factor in the Bombers winning their sixth pennant in seven years.

However, the difference between his value to the Yankees and the value of lanky Ted Williams to the second place Boston Red Sox was open to controversy which in turn was reflected in the balloting of the committee of 24 writers.

Gordon was given 12 first place votes and received a total of 270 points while Williams, winner of the "triple crown" for leading the league in batting, home runs and runs batted in, finished with nine first place votes and 249 points.

Gordon Series' Goat

Ironically, Gordon was probably the biggest "goat" in the 1942 World Series, as was Mort Cooper, the St. Louis ace hurler who was later selected as the most valuable player in the National League. Cooper was knocked out of the box in his two starts while Gordon never did approach his regular play either in fielding or batting.

Although the Yankee second sacker did fail to live up to expectations in the World Series, the voting scribes, who cast their ballots before the 1942 classic, believed that the Yankees would have never won the pennant if Gordon hadn't been patrolling the keystone bag.

Joe had one of his best years in 1942 and finished the American League season with a batting clip of 40 points higher than in 1941. Gordon's great defensive play around second base also was more outstanding than last year. His quick execution of double-plays with Phil Rizzuoto, gave the Yanks a jump on many a ball game.

While the feud of Ted Williams' fans continue to wonder why the Red Sox ace wasn't given the honor instead of Gordon, it comes to light that Joe was a much better man than Williams. Ted always has been an individual player. His nonchlance and lackadalsical work brought "boos" on several occasions from the fans in the stands. Ever since he has been with the Red Sox, Williams' popularity with the bleacher fans has not been in the best of affiliations. Besides this, Williams' run-in with the fans during the last campaign, surely didn't help the Boston player. However, despite Ted's misgivings, he represents baseball as one of the greatest stars and although he has been overlooked again, his following will look upon his service to the game as something to be proud of.

Pesky Is Third

The Boston slugger might have done better except for some competition from one of his own teammates, Johnny Pesky, the rookie shortstop star, who polled two first place votes and 143 points. The other first place ballot also was cast for a rookie shortstop, Vernon (Junior) Stephens, of the St. Louis Browns, who rated fourth, three points behind Pesky.

It was the second straight year in which Williams has been nosed out of the most valuable award. He ran a close second in 1941 to Joe Dimaggio of the Yanks and although his batting average sloughed off from .406 to .353 this season, his all-around play in many respects was better than last year.

Dimaggio dropped to seventh in the committee's rating of American League players with pitchers Ernie Bonham of the Yanks and Tex Hughson of the Red Sox above him.

Others in the top ten selections were Stan Spence of Washington, Phil Marchildon of the Philadelphia Athletics and Lou Boudreau of Cleveland.

Football for 1943

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum of the University of North Carolina says football should go on in 1943 even if gate receipts vanish and a federal subsidy is required.

He advocates fewer intersectional trips and more games with nearby teams.

"Don't get me wrong," he says. "If we draft other boys of 18 to 21, we ought to draft football players, too. But I think we should have football for the benefit of those remaining."

Confusion in Animal Kingdom

Calderwood, Tenn. (AP)—Mountaineer game warden Mark Tipton lives way back in the East Tennessee hills. The other day he told a fellow game warden he placed his coat on a rail fence in order to chase a bear out of his back yard to save his cow. And before he could return to the fence a giant eagle swooped down and skyrocketed away with his coat, thinking it was a chicken.

Donald Nelson . . . .
YOU CAN COUNT ON THE BUSINESSMEN OF THIS COMMUNITY 100%

Recently you asked the newspapers of America to put their weight behind the scrap metal drive. The people of this community responded wholeheartedly. The mountains of scrap we collected are proof of our wish to do everything we can to help win the war.

Now you are asking us to work with the War Production Board to get more scrap metal moving from industries, shops and factories. And you can count on our businessmen all the way!

Many of our plants already have made a good start. Every one of them will get going now as never before—because all industry knows the need is urgent.

Mr. Nelson—we in this community will not let our boys down!

Kingston Daily Freeman

A PERSONAL MESSAGE to the PRESIDENT or GENERAL MANAGER of EVERY PLANT in THIS AREA

More than likely you're doing something about the scrap in your plant. Perhaps you've appointed a Salvage Committee or Salvage Manager. But no matter how much you've done, the job is not finished!

It won't be finished until you, personally, have gone through your entire plant and said what is to be turned in.

You are the only one who can do this—who has the necessary authority. Go around with a piece of chalk—mark everything that is to go. Question the need for every idle piece of metal or equipment. This is the rule to follow:

If it hasn't been used for six months, and you are certain it won't be for the next six—sell it or scrap it!

If it's equipment of machinery, get in touch with the manufacturer to see whether someone else can use it. If not — sell it to your scrap dealer.

Don't consider the job done until you, yourself, have gotten every ounce of scrap metal out of your plant and into the fight!

★ Let's tell Donald Nelson and the WPB that you're in this all the way!

Fill out one of these coupons and send it to him direct. Send the other one to us. We're going to publish a list of the patriotic firms which are getting behind this industrial scrap metal drive, when they tell us the tonnage they turn in after this date!

DONALD M. NELSON
War Production Board, Washington, D. C.

I want you to know that I, personally, am making sure that every pound of metal we can spare is being put to work to win the war!

other party won is not important," he said. "We are not here tonight to celebrate a party victory. We are all of us interested in only one victory — total, uncompromising, crushing victory over our country's enemies."

There was a dimout outside and a funeral atmosphere inside Tammany Hall where a handful of men stood around in the big hall where in election years past mobs were jammed for space.

James A. Farley, State Democratic Chairman who championed Bennett's nomination over Senator James M. Mead, who was supported by President Roosevelt, said:

"We are living in a democracy. The citizens of the State of New York have spoken."

As Dewey entered his headquarters in the Hotel Roosevelt, there were cheers "Dewey for president" and "Tom Dewey for president."

"A great responsibility has been placed upon me today by the people of the State of New York," Dewey said. "We have sent a stunning message to our enemies. We have shown to all the world that we, even in the midst of total war, can hold a free election under the American two-party system. * * * in all things needed for the winning of this war we are united in unswerving loyalty to our Commander in Chief."

History repeated itself in Times Square as soldiers, sailors and citizens, strolling in the enshadowed canyon, took the election news calmly, just as they did on election night in '18 during the first World War. Last night Broadway wore its cloak of dimout darkness and after the early crowds vanished into theatres, the Square seemed almost desolate.

Three False Alarms

Three false alarms of fire kept the fire department busy Tuesday evening. The first false alarm was at 7:54 o'clock from Box 2311, Hasbrouck avenue and Murray street; the second at 8:43 o'clock from Box 2221 at School No. 4, and the third from Box 2431, Delaware and Third avenues, at 9:40 o'clock.

Republicans Get Three New Seats In Legislature; Democrats Lose Senator

Democratic assemblymen lost in Erie, Monroe, Sullivan, Richmond and New York counties, Republicans in Kings and Queens.

Fred Hammer, Erie county, was defeated by William J. Butler, Republican; Prospero V. Viggiano, replacing Democratic Senator James J. Dooling, resigned, lost to John J. Lamula in Manhattan; Democratic incumbent Nelson E. Owen was defeated in Monroe by Thomas F. Riley; Albert V. Maniscalco, Democratic incumbent in Richmond, lost to S. Robert Molinari, and James G. Lyons, Democrat, was defeated by Ronald Albee in Sullivan.

The Republicans lost in Kings' 10th District, where Walter E. Cooke defeated David E. Pitcher, Republican, to replace Francis E. Dorn, who resigned to go into the Navy, and in Queens' fourth, where William F. Bowe triumphed in an identical situation. Samuel Rabin, the unsuccessful Republican candidate, replaced Henry J. Latham, who resigned for naval duty.

Seven Senate contests had not been reported early today, and nine in the Assembly.

vote rolled up for the Republican ticket. "I had expected Ulster county to roll up comfortable majorities for the entire Republican ticket," he said, "but the final results far exceeded my expectations."

The election this year in Kingston had been exceedingly quiet; probably the quietest election ever held in the city, but those who kept in touch with the public were aware of the definite trend toward Republicism that was shown.

While Republican leaders had expected the entire county and state ticket to carry the city they had not expected that such large majorities would be rolled up.

Senator Wicks' city vote was 6,624, while his Democratic opponent Jacob Schneider who was also the candidate on the American Labor ticket, polled a total of 4,536 votes.

The city vote for County Clerk Robert A. Snyder was 6,529, while his opponent, Herbert L. George polled 4,389 Democratic votes and 351 American Labor votes.

The tabulation of the vote in the city of Kingston will be found on page 5.

Hoover Says Enemy Can Get No Comfort

Platforms Were All Based on Prosecution of War

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, commenting on the election results, said today that "our enemies can get no comfort from this election" because "the platform of every single candidate—Republican, Democrat and Labor—was vigorous, efficient prosecution of the war."

His complete statement follows: "Our enemies can get no comfort from this election. The platform of every single candidate—Republican, Democratic and Labor—was vigorous, efficient prosecution of the war. There was a strong element of protest in the vote. But it was the protest of insistence upon more effective organization of the war. And that can be no comfort for the enemy.

"Those who believe in freedom everywhere will gain confidence from the demonstration that freedom can hold to its protective institutions even in desperate wars."

Brooks Is Winner In Illinois Contest

Chicago, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican Wayland Brooks, elected to the Senate in 1940 by a narrow majority of 20,000 votes, defeated his Democratic challenger, Rep. Raymond S. McKeough, in yesterday's Illinois senatorial election by a margin that may reach 150,000. His victory marked the first time since 1927 that a G.O.P. senator from the state was named to a full six year term.

Returns from 7,647 out of the state's 8,709 precincts gave Brooks 1,352,772 and McKeough 1,208,827, a lead of 143,945 for the G.O.P. senator.

The 45-year-old incumbent, a pre-war isolationist, gained the lead from his strongly pro-Roosevelt opponent after about one-fourth of the ballots had been reported and steadily increased his margin throughout the tabulations.

McKeough, four-term congressman from the Second (Chicago) District, gained his heaviest support in the Chicago metropolitan area, but the large Republican vote in downstate counties more than offset his margin.

Brooks won his first election to the Senate in 1940, defeating the incumbent Democrat, James M. Slattery, by 20,827 votes to fill the unexpired term of the late J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat. The last Illinois Republican senator elected to a full six year term was Frank L. Smith in 1927, but he was refused his seat by action of the Senate and Otis F. Glenn, a Republican, was elected for his unexpired term, 1928-1933.

With approximately 88 per cent of the total precincts reported, indications were that the vote was the smallest in the state since 1934 when the total was 2,935,192. The Illinois record vote was in the last presidential election in 1940—4,262,196.

Farm Belt Helps Republican Surge In New Deal Upset

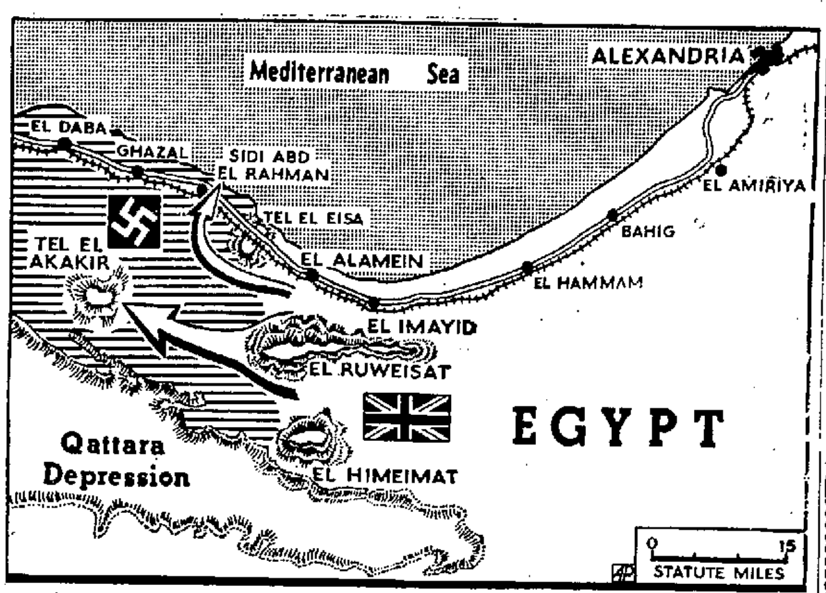
—against which Mr. Roosevelt has made outspoken remarks—gained re-election. Among them were Senators McNary (R., Ore.), Capper (R., Kas.), Brooks (R., Ill.), Bankhead (D., Ala.), Russell (D., Ga.), Ellender (D., La.), and Representatives Cannon (D., Mo.), Dirksen (R., Ill.), and Hope (R., Kas.).

In the defeat of veteran Senator George Norris, Nebraska Independent, the farm bloc lost a prominent member. His successor, Republican Kenneth S. Wherry, is expected, however, to be just as staunch a supporter. Oklahoma turned out Senator Josh Lee, an ardent backer of many administration policies which evoked stern farmer opposition.

Vessel Is Torpedoed

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—A small United States merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine early in October in the Atlantic off the northern coast of South America, the Navy announced today. Survivors were landed at an east coast port of the United States.

BIG TANK BATTLE RAGES ON EGYPTIAN FRONT



British tanks, reported by Axis sources to number 500, have clashed with General Rommel's forces around Tel El Akakir, 16 miles deep into the Axis defense zone on the Egyptian front. Meanwhile the British continued to pen up a pocket of Axis troops along the coast from Tel El Eisa to Sidi Abd El Rahman. Shading indicates approximate Axis holdings.

British Win First Major Desert Test

west of the broken enemy minefields.

"On a wide front inside this position and bordered by enemy anti-tank guns in formidable force, our strongest tanks and reinforcements continue to arrive," dispatches said.

While Allied infantry regiments surged forward, dazed and weary Axis prisoners in increasing numbers marched back through the gap torn in the defense on which Rommel labored three months to erect.

Many of the prisoners, about one-third of them Germans and the rest Italians, were reported suffering shock from the terrific barrage which preceded the Allied break-through.

A large force of Axis troops was apparently still bottled up between the British-held-corridor and the sea, trapped by veteran Australian troops who cut north from Tel El Akakir—"the hill of wicked men"—to seal off the western extremity of the corridor.

Some of these beleaguered German and Italian soldiers were already surrendering.

Supported by U. S. army planes and American-made General Grant and General Sherman tanks, Lieut.-Gen. B. L. Montgomery's British 8th army lunged into the attack on Monday after more than a week of careful probing and clearing passages through a maze of Axis minefields.

"For six hours, the tanks slugged it out in the sand and smoke until Rommel's forces broke off the engagement and retreated," dispatches said.

Retreat Is Covered

German artillery covered the Axis retreat, and the enemy then rushed up anti-tank guns to hold the British at bay.

Major developments elsewhere in the global war included:

Solomon Islands—U. S. army troops and Marines faced a new Japanese pincer threat on Guadalcanal today as the enemy marshaled freshly-laden reinforcements east of the island's prize air field.

The new Japanese landings were made under cover of darkness Monday night, the Navy announced the Japanese slipped ashore on east coast 24 hours after American destroyers bombarded Japanese positions west of the air base. American dive bombers also pounded the enemy in the northwest section of the island where the Japanese have landed most of their reinforcements.

While terming the first phase of the battle "a signal success," Navy Secretary Knox left no doubt that he expected a Japanese fleet of "considerable proportions" to return for another all-out attempt to capture the island.

New Guinea—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied vanguards had advanced nearly six miles beyond Kokoda, chief Japanese inland base at the foot of the Owen Stanley mountains, with the enemy still in retreat.

Australian troops were reported pushing steadily through the dense jungles toward the main Japanese coastal base at Buna, 120 miles across the Papua Peninsula from Port Moresby, where enemy sea-borne forces first landed on July 22.

Jap Shipping Raided

Gen. MacArthur's far-ranging bombers continued to support U. S. forces in the Solomons by raiding Japanese shipping in the Buin-faisi region, at the upper end of the 900-mile-long Archipelago, while other Allied planes attacked the enemy base at Dilli, in Portugese Timor.

Russian campaign—Soviet headquarters reported today that the Red armies had finally stemmed an offensive by 50,000 German troops on the Nalchik plateau in the Central Caucasus, and recaptured several more strongholds in the 72-day-old siege of Stalingrad.

Two successive Russian communiques failed to note any fresh Soviet withdrawal below Nalchik, where the Germans have been pouring tanks, troops and planes into a major drive toward the Georgian military highway at Tiflis.

In the Western Caucasus, Red army troops were credited with ousting the Germans from several fortified heights northeast of Tuapse, Black Sea Naval station, and beating off Nazi counter attacks.

On the Stalingrad front, Red Star reported that Soviet reinforcements ferried across the Volga by night had landed in the German rear north of the city, diverted Nazi forces attacking a northside factory district, and inflicted heavy losses on the Germans.

Norris Says He Is at End of Road

Aged Senator Calls Defeat Repudiation of His 40-Year Service

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—"I's all over now and I'm at the end of the road," 81-year-old Senator Norris of Nebraska said today, calling his defeat for reelection "a repudiation of 40 years of service."

With tears in his eyes, he told reporters:

"I have done my best to repudiate wrong and evil in governmental affairs. But I have to admit I have utterly failed."

"I don't know why. I wasn't to blame.

"The most important thing from my viewpoint is that righteousness has been crucified and the people I love have condemned the thing I held most sacred.

"Personally, I find it is a repudiation of 40 years of service. God knows I've tried to do the job. I know I have been honest. I've tried to place politics on a higher plane."

Norris, a veteran independent who was defeated by Republican nominee Kenneth Wherry, added that he thought "it was a hard, sad blow to my philosophy of government" and that it seemed to be of little importance that it came at a time "when I know and everyone knows I'll never get back in."

"The people," Norris continued, "had a perfect right to do what they did. I would defend them to the last drop of my blood in their right to exercise the privilege they have just exercised."

Asked whether he thought he could have won if he had gone to Nebraska sooner to campaign, the senator replied: "It probably would have helped some, but nothing that I did seemed to matter."

Wicks Re-elected For Ninth Term

Senator Defeats Schneider by Majority of 16,200; 10,000 in Ulster

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city was re-elected for his ninth term in the state senate from the 29th Senatorial District Tuesday. He defeated Jacob J. Schneider of this city, his Democratic opponent who was also the American Labor party candidate, by a majority of 16,200, according to unofficial election figures.

Senator Wicks carried Ulster county by 10,000 or more; Greene county by 3,700 and Delaware county by 2,500.

Razor Manufacture Halted by W.P.B.

Razors and Blades Are Put Under Restrictions for Civilian Use

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The war production board today halted the manufacture of safety razors for civilian use, and put all razor and razor blades under strict production and distribution restrictions.

From now on safety razors may be produced only for the military forces, for export, and for lend-lease purposes.

Production of straight razors was reduced substantially for the last two months of the years, and will be halted January 1. WPB said the industry, however, would be put to good use, manufacturing commando knives, among other things.

Production of safety razor blades next year will approximate 2,750,000,000, a 20 per cent reduction from the record-breaking 1941 production, but an increase of twelve percent over 1940.

WPB predicted the supply of blades for civilian use would be ample to meet all requirements in 1943. While fewer blades will be made for civilian use, the demand is expected to decrease substantially because of the millions of men in the armed forces.

WPB estimated the restrictions of razors and razor blades would result in a saving of more than 800 tons of steel, some of it of the high-carbon variety used in the war production program.
